GOTHAM BROKE; BANKS KNOW IT IF CITY DOES NOT

Financiers Proffer Only Advice.

BY TOM PETTEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 17.—[Special.]—Outside Banker Charles E. Mitchell's home in upper Fifth avenue a group of men waited tonight on doorsteps or in nearby lunchrooms. It was a sort of death watch. Inside gray haired financiers and sharp eyed politicians were in conference. Throughout the five boroughs 150,000 men and women on the city's pay roll waited anxiously for the conference to end. It has been going on in banking rooms, city offices and private libraries for ten days.

The question under debate was an old one—the crying need of money. But what the bankers knew and the politicians refused to admit, was that New York City is broke.

When the mayor, his aids, and the city's leading bankers left the Mitchell home the negotiations still were at a deadlock and they brushed past the reporters with no comment other than "further conferences must be held." The deadline before the city joins the financial breadline is Wednesday.

Those at Conference.

Bankers present at the conference included Thomas W. Lamont and Arthur M. Anderson of J. P. Morgan & Co., and representatives of the Chase National bank. John H. Delaney, chairman of the board of transportation, and Controller Charles W. Berry accompanied Mayor Walker.

This city, the richest municipality in the world, has been on a thirty year spending spree. Its financial plight, long hidden in a maze of complex, confusing figures, was brought out into the open last week when Mayor Walker was compelled to call, hat in hand, upon the bankers.

Needs 120 Million Dollars.

The city needed urgently about $120,000,000 to meet maturing loans and pay rolls and tide it over until spring taxes begin rolling in. The city got what many another loan seeker gets these days—advice. But it did not get the money.

The city has been endeavoring to placate the bankers' demand for retrenchments with promises. The bankers demand actual savings. Now Mr Walker and his cabinet are begging for at least $32,500,000 to meet the city's obligations which mature on Wednesday.

New York is not unique in its plight. Chicago, Philadelphia and Detroit are bogged down in a financial jungle. At least five New England municipalities are bankrupt.

Never Defaulted on Bonds.

New York has never defaulted on a bond or note. It has rolled merrily along spending and taking until now the spending has so far exceeded the taking that a halt has been called, possibly too late. In 1900 it cost $90,778,972 to run the city; in 1932 the outlay will amount to an official $631,000,000 and a possible actual $700,000,000.

The men who run New York are running big business. The city has a debt of $1,750,000,000. It employs 150,000 persons and has a monthly pay roll in excess of $30,000,000. It spends its money months before it collects it. Last year in May it borrowed $52,000,000 after having sold $100,000,000 of 4¼ per cent municipal bonds. Every year it spends 29 cents out of every dollar collected for interest on its debts.

Five Cent Fare in Danger.

What has frightened the politicians more than any fear of possible personnel and salary cuts is that the 5 cent fare is endangered by the city's financial plight. The "5 cent fare" is Tammany's greatest vote getter.

It is common knowledge that the Chase National bank is the fiscal agent of the Brooklyn Manhattan Transit company and that its officers are heavy stockholders in the subway line. It is equally well known that J. P. Morgan & Co. is the fiscal agent for the Interboro Rapid Transit and is financially interested in the holdings of that company. The bankers are vitally interested in a 7 cent fare and the refinancing of the subways. That is one of the stumbling blocks between the city and ready money.

The city did not get in financial trouble suddenly. Its net debt has grown at the rate of about $70,000,000 a year for the last five years. Its short term or "ready cash" borrowings are around $200,000,000 a year.

The current depression did not pass by city finances. The last year's business was wound up with about $100,000,000 in uncollected taxes, water

MAYOR ARRIVES TODAY TO LEAD TAX BILL FIGHT

Kelly Plan Is Facing New House Vote.

BY PARKE BROWN.

Mayor Cermak will arrive in Chicago from Miami today in time to take a night train to Springfield and be on hand there when the first special session of the general assembly reconvenes tomorrow morning.

The hour of his arrival was not disclosed. Those who know the secret explained that the mayor has not completely recovered from a cold which affected him severely because of the fatigued condition in which it caught him. They said it is necessary to protect Mr. Cermak as much as possible from unnecessary annoyances and to limit his work to only pressing city hall matters for the time being.

Active for Kelly Tax Plan.

It was predicted, however, that the mayor will be able to take an active part in the efforts of Chicago and Cook county to effect passage of the Kelly plan bill which now comes before the house—which killed its own bill on the subject last week—from the senate, where it was approved 48 to 1.

The senate bill comes up on second reading—the amending stage—as a special order of business in the house. By agreement with downstate leaders it will be advanced to third reading and in that status will come up for passage on Wednesday before the state income tax bill is called up for final action.

Must Be Amended.

One amendment has been agreed upon as necessary. This is the addition of a requirement that all three new taxing officials—the assessor and the two members of the board of appeals—must be residents of Cook county. That provision in reference to the two members of the board was omitted from the bill through an oversight.

If 102 votes are not mustered for the bill, as required under the law in its present form with the emergency clause, further efforts to pass it at this session will be abandoned, according to Representative Henry Sonnenschein, secretary to the mayor. The same bill, with the same emergency clause, but with certain other features modified to meet objections will be introduced at the next special session of the legislature which convenes tomorrow, Mr. Sonnenschein said.

Bill in Dangerous Situation.

If the bill passes it must go back to the senate for concurrence in the amendments. Refusal of that concurrence would send the bill back into the hopper of the house after final action has been taken there on the income tax, a dangerous situation according to its proponents.

For that reason Cook county senators, including Arthur A. Huebsch of Brookfield and Thomas J. Courtney of Chicago, minority leader, have said they will seek immediate senate concurrence if the bill passes the house in amended form.

Representative Michael L. Igoe, minority leader of the house and candidate for governor in opposition to the Cermak Cook county organization, who led the organized attack on the house Kelly plan bill last week, continued his war yesterday.

"A Miserable Compromise."

"The Kelly plan," he said "is a miserable compromise, a political deal that lays the foundation for the most powerful political machine ever constructed. It will not bring relief to the school teachers. Its proponents are merely using the teachers as a screen in their brazen attempts to control the assessing machinery of Cook county and make the 1931 assessment another real estate assessment."

D. F. Kelly, chairman of the mayor's committee on tax warrant sales and whose name was attached to the revenue plan after his efforts to bring about the compromise, announced last night that he would speak in reply to Igoe's charges tonight.

The second special session of this assembly, which primarily is to consider retrenchments and the question of calling a constitutional convention, comes into existence when it convenes at 5 o'clock in conformity with Gov. Emmerson's call.

CONVENTION COSTS

Questions of the cost of a constitutional convention arose yesterday in connection with Gov. Emmerson's call for a second special session of the present general assembly to convene

John K. Lawler, Former Canal Trustee, Dead

John K. Lawler, former sanitary district trustee, died yesterday in the Presbyterian hospital. Death was due to pneumonia, following an operation. He was 59 years old.

Death came as Mr. Lawler and seven of his former associates were on trial before Chief Justice Harry Fisher and Judges James J. Kelly and John Prystalski in the Criminal court on charges of conspiracy to defraud the district of $5,000,000. Mr. Lawler had been unable to appear in court because of his illness. He went to the hospital six weeks ago shortly before the trial opened on Dec. 7. His attorney, John McInerney, pleaded for a separate trial because of Lawler's illness, but the plea was denied.

Widow Blames Charges.

On Jan. 4 Mr. Lawler was operated upon for stomach ulcers by Dr. J. M. David. He failed to rally and pneumonia developed. He died at 8 o'clock yesterday morning. His wife and relatives were at his bedside.

Funeral plans have not been completed. Services are expected to be held in the Precious Blood Roman Catholic church at Congress street and Western avenue Wednesday morning. Interment will be in Calvary cemetery. Defendants in the trial will ask for an adjournment to attend the services.

The Lawler home is at 303 South Irving avenue. His widow, Mrs. Addie Billings Lawler, attributed his death to the conspiracy case. She said worry over his indictment brought on the illness which ultimately resulted in his death.

Mr. Lawler was born in Chicago. He began his career with Carson, Pirie Scott & Co. in the wholesale department and then went into the advertising business. Later he studied law and was admitted to the bar.

Prominent as Tax Attorney.

He gained prominence as an assistant state's attorney in charge of tax litigation during the régime of Robert E. Crowe. In 1924, when William J. Healy, president of the sanitary district, died suddenly, Mr. Lawler was chosen by board members to fill the vacancy. The following year he was elected to the office.

Mr. Lawler was a political associate of the late Charles V. Barrett, Republican leader and member of the board of review, and Homer Galpin. He had no children. He is survived by his widow, two brothers and three sisters. One sister, Mrs. Frances Powers, is the widow of the late Ald. John Powers.

CHICAGO, WITHOUT A TAMMANY, GETS GANG WARS—JANE ADDAMS

Baltimore, Md., Jan. 17.—[Special.]—"It is a peculiar thing about Chicago that we have no Tammany; that is good, but it also is one of the causes of our gang warfare," said Jane Addams today.

Seated in the drawing room of Mrs. Edwin B. Niver's home on Warrenton road, where she is convalescing from an operation undergone several weeks ago at the Johns Hopkins hospital, Miss Addams had been discussing geographical variations in social problems.

"Organized vice," Miss Addams explained, "is dependent upon police protection, upon governmental corruption. There was no 'machine' worthy of the name in Chicago. Had there been a Tammany, a smooth running political machine, things would have gone smoothly, vice would have flourished, but gang wars—violence—would have been rare."

Chicago had another day of clear, springlike weather yesterday, and motorists took full advantage of it. Traffic police had to contend with an unseasonable jam on boulevards and highways. Parks were filled with strollers, and golf courses, public and private, reported a large number of players.

The temperature reached its maximum for the day with 45 degrees at 3 o'clock, according to the official weather bureau register at the airport. There was a brisk west wind. The fair weather, Forecaster C. A. Donnel predicted, will continue today, but with lower temperatures.

Falls to Death, 14 Floors, as Help Arrives

Behind a locked door Clarence E. Brinckerhoff, 38 years old, head of an advertising agency, clung by his fingers last night to a window sill in his fourteenth floor apartment at 4300 Lake Shore drive and, with his legs and body dangling outside, screamed for help.

His shouts were heard by his wife, Mrs. Mabel Brinckerhoff, who was in an adjoining room. She tried to get to her husband but the door resisted her efforts.

By telephone Mrs. Brinckerhoff summoned Robert Graham, manager of the hotel, which is known as the Murray-Hill apartments. Graham, with a passkey, hurried to the fourteenth floor. The key turned the lock and the wife and the manager entered the room.

Plunges to Death.

Brinckerhoff, his fingers purple with the strain of holding his weight, still clutched the sill. But as Graham ran toward him to drag him back the overburdened fingers slipped and Brinckerhoff plunged to death. His body struck in a little flower bed in the courtyard.

Police Sergt. Everett Mullaney learned from Mrs. Brinckerhoff that her husband, who was president of Brinckerhoff, Inc., 333 North Michigan avenue, had been under treatment for a year for a nervous ailment.

Yesterday he went for a long drive in the country, only his chauffeur accompanying him. Early last evening he went to the home of his physician, Dr. S. M. Edison, 823 Junior terrace, who advised him to go home and rest.

Hangs Seven Minutes.

Arriving at home he spoke briefly to Mrs. Brinckerhoff and then locked himself in the bedroom. There was a brief period of silence and then his screams were heard. Something like six or seven minutes elapsed between the first one that was heard and his plunge.

Dr. Edison expressed the opinion that Brinckerhoff slipped out of the window by accident when he was attacked by dizziness. The alternative theory, police said, was that he decided to kill himself and then, after crawling out, changed his mind and cried for help.

Cunard Liner Caronia, Too Old, to Be Sold for Junk

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Jan. 17.—The Cunarder Caronia is being sold to a ship breaker, it was learned from Plymouth tonight, and her long and useful career on the Atlantic is over. Like her sister ship, the Carmania, the 20,000 ton Caronia has reached an age at which even the most famous liners must give way to newcomers. Both were built in 1905. The Carmania already is in the wreckers hands.

Star Athlete of Tuley High Shot to Death

Louis Lakin, 18 years old, of 1206 North Kedzie avenue, 1931 captain of the divisional champion basketball team of Tuley High school, was shot and killed last night by Alexander Roney, 50 years old, of 3214 Diversey avenue, a special policeman, on the premises of the Dr. Herzl Community home at 1335 North California avenue. The youth, graduated from Tuley High last June, was planning to enter the University of Illinois. He had gone to the recreation center last night to play basketball.

Stories conflicted as to the shooting. However, it grew out of an attempt by Lakin and a dozen companions to join a dance in the community hall. Some of the boys scaled the fire escape and were seen by Louis Vargo, 51, of 3425 North Nena avenue, the janitor. He summoned Roney, who ordered them down.

Youth's Version of Killing.

According to statements made by seven of the youths to Lieut. John Buckley of the West North avenue station, Vargo paddled each of them with a club as they alighted from the fire escape. Lakin was the last to descend. Julius Echeles, 16, 4008 Monroe street, a student at Crane Junior college, charged that Roney fired at Lakin point blank.

Roney's story was that he and Vargo ordered the boys down and that they "rushed him." During the scuffle he was kicked and struck, he said. He drew his revolver to frighten the boys, according to his statement, and one of the youths struck him from behind, causing the weapon to be discharged accidentally. He did not intend to fire, he asserted. Vargo told a similar story, but said he was so occupied with the boys at the time of the shooting he did not see the actual firing of the pistol.

Both Men Are Held.

Both men were taken to the station. Seven of the boys were also taken into custody. They were later allowed to go home. Besides Echeles, they were: Frank Goldstein, 1543 North Homan avenue; Joseph Seiden, 2405 Division street; Jack Salzman, 648 Crystal street; Irving Shenker, 1826 Evergreen avenue; Martin Brooks, 1739 North Francisco avenue, all graduates of Tuley High school, and Harry Rosenberg, 1336 North Kedzie avenue, Crane college student.

Lakin was described by his family as a model boy, and never troublesome. Since graduation, he had been taken into the tire relining business by his father, Abraham.

PASTOR BRAVES DEATH IN $10,000 CHURCH BLAZE

Fire of undetermined origin swept through the San Marcello Catholic mission church at 617 Rees street last night, virtually destroyed the altar, and ruined the structure. Damage was estimated at between $10,000 and $15,000.

Parishioners braved the flames to rescue sacramental objects, and the Rev. Father William Gorman, chaplain of the fire department, arriving with the first fire apparatus, also risked his life. He went through the smoke and fire, groped about the altar and emerged with several crucifixes and chalices. Aiding in the rescue work was Father Dominic. Between them they saved, in addition, the ciborium and monstrances.

JOB GUARANTEE PLAN REBUFFED BY PRESIDENTS

Conference Will Be Resumed Today.

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.

The railway unions yesterday were given an answer to the proposals they had made to a committee of railroad presidents. The answer was delivered to the union leaders during a Sabbath session of the conference now in progress at the Palmer house.

DANIEL WILLARD. [Tribune Photo.]

Although it was stated plainly that the answer of the presidents was tentative and is subject to change, the union leaders characterized the reply as unsatisfactory.

Turn Down Commission Plan.

The presidents turned down in direct language the labor proposal for a commission to study the economic feasibility of a shorter, or six hour, work day. They gave no assurances of increasing employment. They agreed with the union contention that railway employes ought to be given reasonable assurance of continuing employment, but phrased their reply indefinitely to read that "whatever may be practicable should be done for the purpose of removing so far as possible the feeling of uncertainty concerning the future."

The unions had asked that minimum forces be guaranteed a full year's employment, and that the necessary standby forces be assured of a certain degree of employment. With the latter proposal the presidents found it impossible to agree.

Their replies to the other phases of the labor program indicated agreement on one point, asked for additional information on others, and expressed doubt that some could be made the basis for an agreement.

Wage Cut Issue Not Raised.

The question of the 10 per cent wage cut which the railroad executives are asking the union men to take voluntarily for a period of one year was not brought up at yesterday's session. Union spokesmen have contributed to a general understanding that they might agree to the wage reduction if the railroads would adopt a substantial portion of the labor program for relief.

The attitudes expressed by several union leaders last night indicated their feeling that the railroad chiefs might be employing a form of strategy. It was possible, they said, that the presidents were paving the way for bargaining and that concessions would be made later.

The union men expressed opinions that if the presidents stood pat on the answer they presented yesterday, no agreement was possible.

Unions Stand by Proposals.

When the session adjourned at noon yesterday, the labor executives went into a conference that lasted four hours. They considered the railroads' stand, and it was learned that they voted to affirm their original declarations. This decision will be conveyed to the presidents when the conference is resumed today.

Efforts to obtain the views of the members of the presidents' committee were in vain, several of them explaining that it had been agreed among them that their chairman, Daniel Willard, president of the Baltimore and Ohio, would be their only spokesman. Mr. Willard refused to give out any details of the railroads' answer, much less to comment on the strategy of it.

Both he and David B. Robertson, chairman of the Railway Labor Executives' association and spokesman for the labor forces, declared in press conferences that the answer was tentative and was not to be regarded as definite.

View of Union Leader.

Mr. Robertson declined to comment on the Willard report except to say that he thought the railroads "are trying to do their best in a practical way to meet us on the problems of unemployment and stabilization of unemployment."

Asked to state his reactions to the manner in which the railroads discussed the various labor planks, Mr. Robertson said that on some of the problems the presidents were favorable, and in others "they did not go as far as we thought they should go." He expressed himself as still hopeful that a settlement will be reached.

Detectives guarded windows, doorways and other openings in the Red Lacquer room at the Palmer house in which the session was held. They preserved the inviolability of the chamber, and the official spokesmen did not discuss the details of the meeting, but from other sources the full purport of the presidents' answer was obtained.

Point by Point Answer.

The unions' program was taken up point by point by President Willard. Shortly after the session opened Mr. Willard handed to his secretary a sheaf of onion skin sheets on which was typewritten the rail presidents' comment on point number one. The secretary passed along the long conference table handing a sheet to each of the 21 presidents of the railway brotherhoods.

Mr. Willard then read the comment and made additional remarks. The labor representatives answered Mr. Willard, or asked questions, entering into brief discussion on the particular phase of the labor program under consideration. Then Mr. Willard's secretary took up another sheaf giving the railroads' position on point number two, and the same method was followed until all the phases of the program had been discussed.

It was then proposed by the labor representatives that they be given an opportunity to consider the railway reply among themselves, and to prepare a statement indicating their attitude. It was decided to adjourn the meeting until today.

Find Replies Given Before.

The written replies handed out and read by President Willard were found to be reiteration, almost in their entirety and frequently in the same language, of a formal statement which Mr. Willard made to Mr. Robertson on Nov. 21, 1931, after a conference of the same committee of railway presidents had been held with representatives of the unions.

At that conference, in New York City, the presidents possessed no authority to negotiate the issues with the union men to a conclusion, but a discussion was held anyway, and afterwards Mr. Willard sent a written statement of the railroads' stand to Mr. Robertson.

Mr. Robertson at that time sent Mr. Willard a plainspoken reply, criticising the presidents' committee for having sought a voluntary acceptance by the employés of a 10 per cent wage cut while refusing to concede the merit of the union program.

Attitude on Stabilization.

In the replies read by Mr. Willard yesterday the one which covered the attitude of the presidents' committee on stabilization of employment was considered of the most importance, since that issue has been primarily stressed by labor.

After stating that the committee was sympathetic with the desire of the union representatives to assure one year's employment to a force of necessary employés in all classes, and qualifying this support by saying that "whatever may be practicable should be done," the reply said that the railroads were willing to give the matter careful and sympathetic consideration.

The railroads could not be expected, however, the reply said, to attempt to insure employment to temporary or standby forces, even for a month's period.

Comment of Union Men.

The union leaders, commenting last night on the presidents' handling of this subject, said they could not understand why the railroads could not make a definite agreement to maintain minimum forces at work. Other public utilities make plans many years ahead, they pointed out, and they considered that railroad managements ought certainly to be able to figure one year ahead.

The labor representatives quoted from Mr. Willard's speech of Saturday, in which he besought the workers to take a 10 per cent wage cut for one year and declared that thus they could make their employment more certain and improve conditions generally.

Mr. Willard was asking the workers to take a year's cut, but his committee could not agree to assure them a year's pay, the union men complained, and they argued that if Mr. Willard's plan would aid conditions so would stabilization in that it would release employés from fear and cause them to release their savings for necessary expenditures.

Reply on Six Hour Day.

On the issue rated by the labor forces as of second importance, a program looking toward the establishment of a six hour day, the reply of the presidents said:

"We have found ourselves unable to accept your conclusion that the six hour day is necessary and that it must be instituted in order to absorb the existing number of experienced employés without reduction of compensation. Consequently we would be unwilling to recommend the appointment of a commission to determine the ways and means of applying this principle to the different classes of employés."

An extended argument followed the reading of this statement by Mr. Willard, with A. F. Whitney, president of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, who has made an exhaustive study of the merits of the six hour day, leading the labor cause.

Points to Machine Age.

Mr. Whitney told the presidents' committee that with the advance of the machine age the railroads now are hauling freight at a much less labor cost than they were 43 years ago, when he started railroading. This is a world-wide problem, Mr. Whitney said, and he pointed out that as machines continue to supplant humans, the great masses of the workers will be driven more and more into poverty and unemployment unless industry compensates for the changes by shortening working hours.

He also argued that the unions were not seeking to establish a six hour day immediately; that they sought a commission to study the proposal. The union leaders said they were unable to understand why the railroads could not join in studying the matter as an economic research.

The next proposal taken up was the unions' suggestion that the managements and employés jointly promote a billion dollar United States bond issue for grade crossing elimination on main traveled highways, with half the cost to be borne by the railroads and the other half by the federal government.

The presidents' reply expressed doubt of the wisdom of urging the bond issue upon congress at this time, and countered with a suggestion that the unions use their influence in seeking a more equitable division of costs in the elimination of grade crossings, gaining reductions in the cost to the railroads.

The one plank in the labor program on which both sides seemed in complete accord concerned the proposal for federal regulation of motor transportation and freight forwarding companies. This subject is under study by the interstate commerce commission, the presidents pointed out, and they added:

"We do not think that the interests of the railroads and their employés concerning this matter are or should be at variance."

The unions suggested in the same plank that furloughed railroad employés should be employed by motor companies and forwarding agencies when controlled by railroads, and the presidents said they would be pleased to recommend this to the railway executives generally.

On labor's plea for protection of the workers in railroad consolidations, the presidents affirmed their New York stand that they could not agree among themselves on the subject, and that "it would be difficult if not impossible to reach any joint conclusion concerning the matter at this time."

The presidents asked for additional information from the unions on their proposals for federal legislation to provide retirement insurance.

Suggest Regional Job Bureaus.

The labor request for the establishment of national placement bureaus to provide means for giving jobs to unemployed rail workers was also referred back to the union committee. The presidents suggested that employment bureaus could be established in the three regional centers, east, west, and south, under the direction of the regional directors of the railway associations.

The presidents in answering the union proposal for coördination of train crews and train lengths "on the basis of economical, safe operation," stated that it was not easy to agree on just what the terms might mean. It was the presidents' opinion that the problem of train lengths could best be dealt with by the employés and managers of the individual companies.

What might be termed the "rebuttal" of the labor representatives to the reply given them by the presidents was in course of preparation last night, and will be presented today. It was learned that the union leaders will not recede from their program, which is the culmination of nearly three years of planning.

HAWAIIANS FEAR NAVY WILL TAKE OVER ISLAND RULE

Legislature Meets Today to Act on Crime.

HONOLULU, Jan. 17.—(AP)—Hopeful of providing Hawaii with new regulations designed to purge its law enforcement machinery of political influences blamed for the recent wave of high crime here, the territorial legislature meets tomorrow in special session.

Action which will be satisfactory to congress has been asked to prevent the state and status of the territorial government from being changed. Fear has been expressed in some quarters that if conditions reported by the navy department, although disputed here by officials, were to continue the governor would be supplanted by a naval head as in the case of Samoa.

Will Reorganize Police.

The first action of the legislature is expected to be passage of a measure placing the police department under a commission to be named by the governor. The commission would appoint a chief of police who would be responsible only to the commission.

It is not yet fully decided what will be done with the other branch of the law enforcement office. This possibly will be made a part of the office of the attorney general, who is named by the President.

Both the offices of Sheriff Patrick Gleason, present head of the police force, and that of City Attorney James F. Gilliland, have been under fire because of alleged political control.

Refuses to Prosecute Case.

Gilliland said today Judge A. G. M. Robertson had definitely refused to become a special prosecutor in the retrial case of four men charged with a sulting Mrs. Thalia Massie, wife of Lieut. Thomas H. Massie. Robertson also refused to act in the case against the naval lieutenant, Mrs. Granville Fortescue, mother of Mrs. Massie, and two enlisted men, growing out of the slaying of Joseph Kahahawai, one of those charged with the attack.

Gilliland said the community has so far been unable to induce any strong member of the Bar association to accept the responsibility of prosecuting the cases. He said Washington would expect a conviction of the four youths at the retrial. The original trial jury failed to agree.

Gilliland said he had nearly completed investigation of the Kahahawai case and would be ready to present it to the grand jury at its regular meeting Thursday or possibly sooner.

TEN ARE KILLED AS FRENCH TRAIN JUMPS TRACKS

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

PARIS, Jan. 17.—At least ten persons were killed and many injured in a train wreck tonight near St. Just, on the Paris-Amiens line. It is believed the accident was caused by a broken axle on the third coach of the local train which, falling across the track, derailed this car and the two behind it. Two wooden third class coaches were completely wrecked. Three switchmen in the switch tower were also among those seriously injured. The cars crashed into the tower, demolishing it.

rents, etc. That represents about 20 per cent of the tax levy.

Where Incomes Failed.

Dock rents fell off, water rents took a tumble, the state did not contribute as much as usual to the city's expenses although it sent along in advance $15,000,000 of the $22,000,000 school aid funds on Jan. 15. This city spends a lot of money—$700,000,000 for 1932. This is the way the tax payer's dollar is split:

Debt service 29 cents, education 23, police 14, sanitation 9, fire 6, borough government 5, hospitals 4, county government 3, and miscellaneous 7.

The money comes from the following sources on the dollar basis:

Real estate taxes 73 cents, from the state 13, and from licenses, fees etc., 14.

The only other source of revenue is to borrow from banks. The possible fact that the city's debt is offset by property worth twice as much, according to real estate experts, does not mean the same thing as it would if it were private property against which there was a similar net debt. Streets, parks and public buildings may be listed as assets, but the bankers know they will not be cut up into subdivisions.

Meanwhile the bankers so far have remained adamant to visionary municipal retrenchments and a lot of school teachers, policemen and firemen may go unpaid soon unless the city comes to terms with the bankers or Mayor Walker digs, as some critics fear he will, into the fat cash bins of the pension fund to meet Wednesday's obligations and further postpone the day of reckoning.

BAN CONGRESSIONAL RECORD 'RAT HOLE' TO SAVE, SMOOT SAYS

Washington, D. C., Jan. 17.—[Special.]—As one means of economy, congress should do away with the "rat hole" in the Congressional Record, Senator Reed Smoot, chairman of the finance committee, said tonight, referring to the appendix of the record.

The appendix is published at a cost of $40 a page and contains nothing of greater import than members' undelivered speeches, newspaper editorials, poetry, and general comment on every imaginable subject.

All a member has to do is to say, "Mr. President [or Mr. Speaker], I ask unanimous consent to insert in the Record," the Vice President or the speaker, as the case may be, replies: "I hear no objection." And it's all over at $40 a page.

NICHOLAS ENTERS 'EXILE' WITH HIS FORBIDDEN BRIDE

Couple Reach Paris on Delayed Honeymoon.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Jan. 17.—Following in the footsteps of King Carol, his elder brother, Prince Nicholas of Rumania arrived in Paris today on what is understood to be a slightly delayed honeymoon trip with his morganatic former wife, chestnut haired Mme. Lucia Deletj.

PRINCE NICHOLAS.

According to one of the recent bulletins from the Balkans, Prince Nicholas was about to be incarcerated in a military prison for persisting in his determination to live with the former saloonkeeper's daughter after King Carol had the marriage annulled.

Prince "Through" with King.

The report in Rumanian circles in Paris, however, is that the order for the arrest was never carried out, and that Prince Nicholas in a stormy interview with his brother declared he is "through" with Carol, the crown of Rumania, and the title and rank of commander of the army. Whereupon, it is said, he stalked out, slamming the door in the face of the king. Shortly afterward he boarded a westbound express with his lady love clinging to one arm.

Prince Nicholas decision to abandon his title and live the life of an exile is said to be irrevocable. It was also announced before he left Bucharest that he will remarry Mme. Deletj.

Before reaching Paris the prince and his companion stopped at Munich to say good-by to Dowager Queen Marie and ask a motherly blessing.

A Dashing Couple.

Prince Nicholas was wearing a dark double breasted overcoat and a jaunty traveling cap while his companion looked dashing in a Eugenie hat and a dark ensemble with a fox collar, when the train arrived here.

The couple succeeded in dodging newspaper men until they were ready to climb into a taxi. Later they gained the sanctuary of the Hotel George V. It is expected they will leave in a few days to take up a permanent residence in Switzerland.

MITCHELL GEM BANDITS GUARDED IN "ESCAPE" PLOT

Extra guards were on duty yesterday about the Lake county jail at Waukegan as a result of an anonymous telephone message to Sheriff Lester Tiffany that an attempt might be made to liberate the four members of the "42" gang convicted Saturday of the gem robbery at the Lake Forest home of William H. Mitchell.

Although Sheriff Tiffany said he believed the message was a hoax, perpetrated by some Waukeganite, he put several extra deputies on duty about the jail. In Lake Forest, his brother, Frank, police chief there, ordered police squads to keep a special watch over the home of Mr. Mitchell and other victims of the robbery who testified against the gangsters.

The four convicted robbers, Nick Maentanis, Paul Rossi, Frank Tufano, and Joseph Perello, face sentences of from one year to life in the penitentiary for robbery with a gun.

NEARBY COUNTIES EXCEED COOK IN AUTO DEATH RATE

Compare Metropolitan Area Fatalities.

The automobile accident fatality rate for eight counties surrounding Cook county was considerably higher than the rate for the more intensely populated Cook county area during 1931, examination of the records disclosed yesterady. For every 100,000 of population in the surrounding counties there were 53.75 auto deaths, while there were only 32.82 deaths per 100,000 of population in Cook county.

During the year there were 1,306 deaths caused by automobile accidents in Cook county, 364 deaths in the eight other counties. The different fatality rates are apparent in the populations per auto death, in Cook county one person in every 3,049 died in an auto accident, while in the surrounding counties, one person in every 1,860 died in an auto accident.

Seven Counties in Illinois.

These rates apply to seven counties in Illinois: Kane, DuPage, McHenry, Lake, Kankakee, Kendall and Will, and Lake County, Ind. The combined population of the eight counties is approximately 677,000, while the population of Cook county alone is more than 3,982,000.

The number of automobile fatalities in the eight counties increased during 1931 to 364, as compared with 361 in 1930 and 348 in 1929. The number of fatalities resulting from accidents not involving collision with trains or running down of pedestrians decreased in 1931 to 217, as compared to 224 in 1930 and 222 in 1929.

Table for Three Years.

The following table gives the eight counties, their populations in thousands and the total of auto fatalities for each for the last three years:

County—	Pop. in thous.	1929.	1930.	1931.
DuPage	92	47	31	33
Kane	125	55	43	43
McHenry	25	13	11	11
Lake [Ill.]	104	45	57	88
Kankakee	50	16	18	21
Kendall	10	2	2	3
Will	111	44	67	39
Lake [Ind.]	160	126	132	126
Totals	677	348	361	364

Cook county's increase in the number of auto deaths over the previous year was 206.

Philip Mangano Held in Fatal Collision.

Philip Mangano, 1506 Taylor street, alleged hoodlum brother of "Dago Lawrence" Mangano, who was released last Saturday by the police after being questioned about the murder of Benjamin Rosenberg, independent cleaner, was locked in a cell in the Cragin station last night as the result of an automobile collision which cost the life of a 12-year-old girl.

At the time of the crash Mangano was driving to the detective bureau to appear in a showup. Held with him is William Vogel, 120 South Longcommon road, Riverside, a railroad brakeman. Both were ordered into custody for the inquest this morning at Peterson's mortuary, 5831 Chicago avenue. Bail was denied them.

Victim One of Six Children.

Jennie, returning home from church with her sister, Clara Mae, 9 years old, was at the southwest corner of Parkside and Schubert avenues when the machines of Mangano and Vogel approached the intersection. With Mangano was Lawrence Celeste, 1508 Taylor street. They driving east in Schubert avenue.

Vogel, with Miss Leona Nelson, 165 North Taylor avenue, Oak Park, was going south in Parkside avenue. As the cars headed for each other, Clara Mae cried a warning to her sister and jumped out of the way. Jennie was too slow, however, and was struck down by one of the machines as both hurled upon the curb. She died later in Keystone hospital. Police said last night they were unable to determine whether Mangano's or Vogel's car hit the girl.

Other Deaths Listed.

The death of the Johnson girl, with eight other fatalities, raised the Cook county motor death toll for 1932 to 68. The other victims:

Policeman Arthur R. Wittbrodt, 35 years old, 5804 South Lincoln street, of the south park force. Died last night at the Chicago hospital. He was thrown off the running board of a commandeered car at 53d street and Michigan avenue early Saturday morning while going to the scene of an auto crash. The accident occurred when the driver of the car applied the brakes suddenly to avoid another machine, throwing Wittbrodt off the running board. Wittbrodt was married and father of two children.

Mrs. Nellie Anderson, 35 years old, 4131 North Moody avenue. Fatally injured when she fell out the door of an automobile driven by Thomas O'Malley, 219 West Goethe street, when it struck a bump at Berteau and Moody avenues. In attempting to catch Mrs. Anderson as she fell, O'Malley lost control of the car, which overturned. She died of a fractured skull at the Keystone hospital.

James Csaczar, 60 years old, 2949 North Mansfield avenue. Died at the Franklin Boulevard hospital of injuries received when he was struck in front of 3323 Franklin boulevard by an automobile driven by Mrs. Marie Sage, 3520 Rita street.

Conrad Boehme, 58 years old, 1426 Newberry avenue. Struck by an automobile, which did not stop, at Roosevelt road and Morgan street. The address which Boehme gave, before he lost consciousness, the police said, is that of a shelter for unemployed men.

William Forbes, 74 years old, of Phoenix. Killed when his car was hit by the Dixie Flyer of the Chicago and Eastern Illinois railroad at the crossing where he had just finished his shift as a watchman. Frank Panici, who had just relieved Forbes at the 26th street crossing in Phoenix, told police later that he ran in front of Forbes' car and tried to warn him of the approaching limited, but that Forbes apparently misunderstood his gestures and drove onto the tracks.

Stephen Grabowski, 50 years old, 3609 West 57th place. Fatally injured by a Yellow taxicab at 59th street and Ashland avenue. Frank Vestuto, 7221 South Wood street, driver of the cab, was held.

Miss Anna Benda, 23 years old, 5607 South Turner avenue. Died in the county hospital of injuries received Jan. 15 when she was struck by a hit and run driver at 4043 South Kedzie avenue.

John Mirardo, 35 years old, 2123 Ogden avenue. Died in the county hospital of injuries believed to have ben inflicted by a hit and run driver. He was found unconscious on Jan. 15 in the street beside his newsstand at Western and Ogden avenues.

HOME OF CLEANER GUARDED FOLLOWING THREAT BY PHONE

A police guard was placed last night at the home of Louis Hollman, owner of a cleaning and dyeing plant, after he had reported to police a threat that he was to be the next victim of the campaign of terrorism which resulted in the murder a week ago of Benjamin Rosenberg.

Hollman is owner of the Michigan Cleaners and Dyers, 1339 West 63rd street. The place was visited recently by gangsters who ruined thousands of dollars worth of clothing by springling it with acid. The threat against Hollman was received by his son, Herbert, on Saturday night, the father said.

"Last night some one called my father on the telephone," the son told Sergt James Daly of the detective bureau. "He mentioned the murder of Mr. Rosenberg, and then said, 'You are next'."

Rosenberg was the head of an independent cleaning and dyeing company, and an opponent of the Cleaners and Oyers' institute. Louis Clementi, who is held on the charge of throwing acid in Rosenberg's plant, and who was also arrested as a suspect in the murder, but released, appeared yesterday at the detective bureau, by court order, to be paraded in the Sunday showup before victims of crimes. He was not identified, but was questioned at length by Chief of Detectives Schoemaker. His partner, Philip Mangano, did not appear, having been arrested by Cragin police during the day in connection with a fatal automobile accident.

Two bandits invaded Andrew Kolanowski's restaurant at 1164 Milwaukee avenue last night. They stole jewelry valued at $140 from his wife, Helen, and a small sum of money from four patrons. N. K. Zlotnicki, 1166 Milwaukee avenue, a reporter for a Polish language newspaper, lost 10 cents.

Liner Arrives 2 Days Late Due to Unusual Storms

2,000 TRAPPED IN HOMES BY DELTA FLOOD

200 Mile Area in 6 Counties Under Water.

Glendora, Miss., Jan. 17.—(AP)—Evacuation of inhabitants of Tippo basin, which went forward on a large scale in the past 36 hours, tonight had virtually ceased except in haphazard manner by means of boats. Five fissures in all, which are steadily widening, have appeared in the basin levees.

Boats today penetrated parts of the upper Tippo basin and brought a few refugees into Charleston. The main point of exit, the Yazoo and Mississippi Valley railroad, is now cut off.

Although there is no tendency to minimize dangers to those who are cut off from the outside world, Red Cross forces said late today they believe the marooned could successfully battle against rising waters until fleets of motorboats reach that territory tomorrow.

Mississippi's greatest inland flood tonight extended its hungry waters along a 200 mile area in six counties.

Rain Continues to Fall.

Rain fell in north Mississippi today.

The flood washed the south half of Panola county, eastern half of Quitman, all of Tallahatchie, greatest part of Leflore, one half of Humphreys, and lowlands of Yazoo. Grenada county's northern area, menaced for days by backwater, is beating back from the grasp of the flood.

Town Is Flooded.

Humphreys county, which only recently went into the flood area, is as hard pressed as any of its neighboring counties. Belzoni, county seat of 7,560 population, struggled today against waters of the Yazoo river, bursting through its protecting dykes and also faced backwater overflows. Residential streets and part of the business area are covered.

On the east side of the river water is 20 feet deep in places, according to conservative estimates. No loss of life has been reported.

CHARGES JAPAN GETS ALL PLUMS IN MANCHURIA

Neutral Survey Shows Nippon's Control.

BY JOHN POWELL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TIENTSIN, Jan. 17.—Despite the Japanese government's reaffirmation of the "open door" policy in its note to the United States, those Japanese who are concerned with the advancement and consolidation of Japan's political and economic interests in Manchuria have not been slow to take advantage of the favorable situation created by the conquests of the Japanese army.

The army, naturally, has received the major attention in the news reports, but of equal or possibly greater importance has been the work of Japan's other army, composed of commercial and industrial men, who have followed along behind the army and gathered up the plums.

Develop New Policy.

Early in December the Japanese general staff announced that it had developed a "new economic policy," which included the construction of roads linking north and south Manchuria, the establishment of air lines, development of electrical enterprises, new railways, and other enterprises. It was also stated that the Japanese army had decided to support the policy of the "open door" in Manchuria and Mongolia and that the investment of foreign capital in these regions "would be welcomed." However, there is no intention to depend upon foreign finance for the consolidation of Japan's territorial gains.

Of major significance in connection with Japan's plans was the announcement of the early creation of a "standing Japanese commission," which will have its headquarters in Mukden for the purpose of unifying diplomatic, administrative and economic policies in Manchuria and Mongolia. Tentatively, it was stated that the "high commission" would include the governor of the Kwantung leased territory at Dairen, the commander of the Japanese army in Manchuria, the president of the South Manchuria Railway company, the Japanese consul-general at Mukden and the governor-general of Corea.

Advantages Already Gained.

While the final details of the new economic policy in Manchuria and Mongolia have not yet been announced, considerable light is shed on the subject by an examination of what already has been accomplished by Japan within three months following the original military occupation. The following is an authoritative report compiled from reliable [non-Japanese] sources interested in the future of American and European commercial enterprise in Manchuria:

FENGTIEN PEACE-MAINTENANCE COMMITTEE—This committee was organized under the personal direction of the two ranking Japanese military commanders, Gen. Honjo and Col. Doihara. It has three Japanese advisers and twenty Japanese attachés [secret service men] who serve the committee as "protectors."

MUKDEN MUNICIPAL OFFICE—The Japanese made a Japanese educated Chinese lawyer, Chao Ching-po, mayor of Mukden with two Japanese advisers. Eight other Japanese were appointed supervisors of the various municipal departments, and a large number of other Japanese were added to the municipal pay roll as bodyguards to the mayor and for other undesignated purposes.

Take Over Police Duties.

FENGTIEN BUREAU OF FINANCE—Controlled by Japanese adviser and staff of Japanese assistants.

FENGTIEN BUREAU OF INDUSTRIES—This important bureau, with control of the granting of concessions for industrial and commercial establishments, mining ventures, etc., now controlled by a Japanese supervisor.

FENGTIEN BUREAU OF TELEGRAPHS—Nominally controlled by Chin Pi-tung, a Manchu, appointed by the Japanese commander. Actual control is exercised by a large staff of Japanese censors who supervise all incoming and outgoing messages.

MUKDEN TELEGRAPH OFFICE—Controlled by Japanese adviser.

Mail Is Censored.

CHINESE POSTOFFICE AT MUKDEN—Japanese control effected in two ways, first by two Japanese employés authorized by Gen. Honjo to inspect all postal accounts and reports; second, through seven Japanese mail censors named by the Japanese army to prevent Chinese military officers and officials who were expelled from Manchuria from communicating with alleged agents in Mukden. Many foreign residents allege they have evidence of their mail being tampered with.

BANK OF THREE EASTERN PROVINCES—This bank, official financial organ of the former Manchurian government, was taken over by the Japanese military and sealed. The Japanese commander set a number of auditors to work ferreting out the financial secrets of the late administration. Since the closure of this bank, as well as the Frontier bank, paralyzed all business except that conducted through Japanese banks, it led to strong protests by the foreign consular authorities. Finally the Japanese permitted the Chinese banks to reopen under the supervision of a Japanese adviser and eight "counselors," who serve as heads of the various departments and whose signatures must be obtained on all transactions.

Important Company Seized.

LI-IA & CO.—This important Chinese company had official backing for the purpose of competing with Japanese interests. It practically controlled the export of soya beans, wheat and other native products and assisted in the financing of Chinese public enterprises such as the construction of railways, opening of mines, etc. The company has now been taken over completely by the Japanese.

MUKDEN COTTON MILL—Closed by the Japanese for a considerable period, but recently reopened under Japanese supervision.

FU-CHOU-WAN COAL COMPANY—Largest Chinese owned coal mine in Manchuria and chief competitor of the Japanese Fushun mines. Now operated directly by the Japanese and most of its business turned over to Fushun.

Electric Light Firm Seized.

MUKDEN ELECTRIC LIGHT COMPANY—Constructed and operated by Chinese to assure independence from the Japanese electric power monopoly. The Japanese plant is located at Fushun. The Japanese army took over the Chinese company and now operate it with a Japanese manager and heads of departments. The Japanese have installed converters enabling the Chinese plant to use the Fushun power. Much of the machinery in the Chinese plant, purchased from European and American companies, was unpaid for.

CHINESE ELECTRIC PLANTS AT ANTUNG AND CHANGCHUN—Seized by the Japanese military and forcibly closed and the power switched over to the Japanese service.

KIRIN-CHANGCHUN AND KIRIN-TUNHWA RAILWAYS—Amalgamated under direct Japanese control.

Other Lines Taken Over.

SSUPINGKIA-TAONAN AND TAONAN-ANGANCHI RAILWAYS—Controlled and operated by Japanese and are understood to have been merged.

FENGTIEN-HAILUNG AND HAILUNG-KIRIN LINES—Subject to Japanese supervision.

NEWCHWANG SALT GABELLE OFFICE—Forcibly taken over by the Japanese military and large reserve funds on hand transferred to the account of the Mukden "peace maintenance committee" and used to finance this "independent" organ under Japanese supervision.

MUKDEN TELEPHONE OFFICE—Prior to the Japanese occupation the Chinese municipality of Mukden operated its own telephone administration as distinct from the Japanese system in the Japanese concession. The Chinese carefully guarded against an extension of the Japanese service into the Chinese administered area. Since the Japanese occupation the Japanese have established direct connection between the two services.

Extend Public Utilities.

PUBLIC UTILITIES IN MUKDEN.—The Japanese have extended their water, gas and other services into the previously Chinese administered cities, including the "international" area where the foreigners reside and have their business offices.

MUKDEN RADIO ESTABLISHMENT.—Long wave plant with German machinery wrecked and burned, although supposedly guarded by Japanese troops. American station with Radio Corporation of America equipment, which maintained direct communication with San Francisco, and German station which maintained direct communication with Berlin, closed down. All telegraph wires into China also cut. All communications now forced to go over Japanese lines to Dairen, thence by cable to Japan, from where messages are relayed by Japanese radio.

THE LAND QUESTION.—On Oct. 31 the "Chao Huo Agricultural company," a Japanese concern, mailed out hundreds of notifications to Chinese land holders, telling them that the land which they occupied belonged to the Japanese company and ordering the Chinese occupants to come in and sign a lease, otherwise they would be dispossessed. A heavy fee was charged for the lease. The matter finally came to the attention of one of the foreign consulates in Mukden and an investigation was made. It was found that the Japanese company did hold the title deeds, or at least a title deed, but whether genuine, could not be determined. The Chinese alleged that when the Japanese company did hold title deeds. The Chinese alleged that when closed, thus enabling the Japanese to lay claim to plots of land which they coveted.

Door Open, But Try to Get In.

The foregoing record indicates quite clearly that the Japanese have clinched their economic control of Manchuria. European and American companies are placed in an unenviable position from two standpoints:

First, they are unable to collect outstanding accounts or settle claims against the previous Chinese administration which has been snuffed out.

Second, there is little prospect of future business for them.

The editor of the Japan Chronicle, liberal British paper published at Kobe, declared that there is nothing to prevent foreign firms from engaging in business in Corea or Manchuria, "except that it cannot be done."

A foreign consul put it this way: "The Japanese will maintain the 'open door' but there will be so many Japanese standing in the door that nobody else will be able to enter."

Japanese Troops Wipe Out 500 Chinese Bandits in Raid

MUKDEN, Manchuria, Jan. 17.—(AP)—Japanese troops "almost entirely annihilated" 500 Chinese irregulars near Yentai, 25 miles south of Mukden, today, a Japanese official communique said. There were no Japenese casualties.

A spokesman at Japanese army headquarters said the exact number of Chinese dead was unknown and some of the bandits may have escaped, but at least a majority were killed.

Japanese Bomb City.

LONDON, Jan. 17.—(AP)—An Exchange telegraph dispatch from Harbin today said Japanese forces were bombing Yushu, near Kirin, Manchuria. Six thousand Kirin [Manchurian] troops would advance on Harbin unless the local government surrendered, the dispatch added.

Japan Opposes Russia's Proposal.

TOKIO, Jan. 18. [Monday.]—(AP)—Foreign Minister Kenkichi Yoshizawa explained to the Japanese cabinet today soviet Russia's proposal for a non-aggression treaty, which was not looked upon with favor here. It was unofficially reported that Japan took the view that the soviet government was too hasty in publishing the proposal, as it did not give the Japanese government time to consider the matter thoroughly.

Military officials particularly expressed opposition to the proposition of Maxim Litvinoff, Russian foreign commissar, on the ground that it was all in Russia's favor and would give the Russians too much leeway, not only in Manchuria, but also regarding China.

Reds Surround Capital.

NANKING, Jan. 17.—(AP)—Communists laid siege to Nanchang, capital of Kiangsi province of China, today, reports received here said.

Communists, who overran the province, the reports said, had advanced to the gates of Nanchang and threatened to capture the city. Troops on guard there fought off the besieging forces yesterday, but the latter still surrounded the provincial capital.

Kiangsi province was reported to be one of the principal communist strongholds in all China and the communists were considered separate from the Chinese irregulars, against whom the Japanese are campaigning in Manchuria.

Josephus Daniels, Hurt in Auto Crash, Is Recovering

Atlanta, Ga., Jan. 17.—(AP)—Josephus Daniels, former secretary of the navy and publisher of the Raleigh, N. C., News and Observer, was making "satisfactory progress" today in his recovery from injuries suffered in an automobile accident here last Wednesday. His physician said he believed Daniels could be moved to Raleigh "the latter part of the week." He suffered a fractured wrist and cuts and bruises in the accident.

77 Year Old Man to Enroll at Missouri University

Springfield, Mo., Jan. 17.—[Special.]—Dean William J. L'Hamon, 77, for many years head of the bible department at Drury college, is going back to school. The aged minister-educator announced today he will enroll for the winter agricultural course at Missouri university. Dean L'Hamon recently purchased a farm and wants to know more about farming.

AUTO KILLS FARMER.

St. Joseph, Mich., Jan. 17.—[Special.]—Berrien county's first automobile fatality of the year occurred today with the death of Edward Moore, 74, a farmer. Ted Kempton of Dowagiac, Mich., is held and will be charged with negligent driving.

Impossible With Ordinary Brushing

Don't take anybody's word for it. Prove to yourself that it is now easy to remove yellow and stain as well as the causes of decay and clean teeth whiter—3 shades whiter in 3 days! Start using this new scientific technique. A half-inch of Kolynos on a dry brush, twice a day. You'll see a marked change overnight.

When Kolynos enters the mouth it instantly becomes a refreshing FOAM. This FOAM does the work. First it removes yellow and stain and destroys the millions of mouth-germs—190 million in 15 seconds—that cause most tooth and gum troubles. It stimulates the gums and purifies the mouth. Then it CLEANS TEETH RIGHT DOWN TO THE BEAUTIFUL, NATURAL WHITE ENAMEL WITHOUT INJURY. No ordinary brushing can make teeth so white. No mouthwash can give the mouth a cleaner taste.

Why have dull, yellow teeth? Clean them sparkling white and keep them sound this way. Start using the Kolynos Dry-Brush Technique. Buy a tube of KOLYNOS DENTAL CREAM.

HEAR OF PLOT IN SEAWAY TREATY AGAINST CHICAGO

Illinois Congressmen to Investigate.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 17.—[Special.]—A special meeting of the Illinois delegation in congress has been called for tomorrow, at which time steps are to be initiated looking toward the protection of the interests of the Illinois waterway during the negotiation of the American - Canadian treaty for joint construction of the St. Lawrence seaway.

FRED A. BRITTEN.

Reports that lake state enemies of Chicago water diversion have been secretly informed as to certain provisions to be included in the treaty, and especially one which would sharply curtail the amount of Lake Michigan water to flow through the sanitary canal, prompted the call.

Will Name Committee.

In disclosing that the delegation had been asked to meet tomorrow, Chairman Fred A. Britten [Rep., Ill.,] stated he would read an important communication regarding the St. Lawrence waterway and then propose appointment of a committee to visit the state department to ascertain the source of the alleged leak. If a leak has occurred, Mr. Britten said, we will ask why it is that opponents of the diversion have been given information denied the people of Chicago and the Mississippi valley.

The meeting was called after Representative Frank Reid [Rep., Ill.], president of the national rivers and harbors congress, had discussed with Mr. Britten a letter written by Daniel W. Hoan, mayor of Milwaukee, to Robert Isham Randolph, president of the Mississippi Valley association.

Says Treaty Is Agreed On.

In this communication, which Mr. Britten declined to make public prior to its introduction at the meeting tomorrow, Mr. Hoan was quoted as having stated that every paragraph of the proposed treaty had been agreed upon and that the document provides that the diversion of water down the drainage canal and the Illinois river shall be limited just as provided by the decree of the United States Supreme court.

State department officials declined to discuss the St. Lawrence treaty negotiations today beyond admitting that progress was being made.

There seems no doubt but that the Chicago diversion is one of the matters now being discussed for possible inclusion in the treaty.

MRS. WINNIE RUTH JUDD.

Phoenix, Ariz., Jan. 17.—(AP)—Attorneys for Winnie Ruth Judd conferred today behind closed doors, mapping the plea of insanity which they plan to take into the Superior court Tuesday in an effort to save her from the gallows for the "trunk slayings" of Hedvig Samuelson and Agnes Anne Leroi.

The attorneys, Herman Lewkowitz of Phoenix and Paul Schenck of Los Angeles, said there would be other pleas in the defense structure, including one of self-defense. Efforts, however, will be centered mostly on proving insanity to account for the killing of Mrs. Judd's two friends last October and the sending of their bodies to Los Angeles in two trunks and a suitcase, the attorneys said.

Prosecution attorneys worked secretly today, drafting a plan of strategy which they hope will bring a verdict of first degree murder and a sentence of death from the jury.

The defense has subpoenaed three physicians to convince the twelve man jury—women do not sit on juries in Arizona—that Mrs. Judd was mentally unbalanced.

TWO BROTHERS SHOT BY PISTOL BELIEVED EMPTY

Martin Spiros, 19 years old, 1388 Milwaukee avenue, laid a .25 caliber automatic pistol on a table in his home yesterday after cleaning it. His brother, Angelo, 22 years old, picked it up to examine it. Believing it unloaded, he pressed the trigger, and another brother, John, 15 years old, who was standing across the table, slumped to the floor with a bullet in his chest.

Martin, who had gone into the kitchen, heard the shot and ran in. "Didn't you know it was loaded?" he asked Angelo, and attempted to wrest the weapon from him. The gun was discharged the second time and Martin was wounded in the side.

SANITARY TRIAL JUDGES TO VIEW $1,000,000 PATH

Head of Dummy Company Will Face Court Today.

Eugene Byrne, former employé of the sanitary district board, who operated a dummy company to do business with the district during the free spending era of 1927-1928, will be the main prosecution witness when the graft conspiracy trial of Timothy J. Crowe, former president of the district, and seven others is resumed this afternoon. During the morning the court will be moved to the $1,068,000 cinder bridle path adjoining the north shore channel road.

Chief Justice Harry Fisher of the Criminal court, who is presiding at the trial, and Judges James J. Kelly and John Prystalski, who are acting in an advisory capacity to the chief justice, are to make an inspection of the cinder path, which was the subject of several weeks of testimony. The state charges that the cost of the path should not have been more than $300,000.

Attorney to Produce Byrne.

Attorney Cameron Latter, whose first appearance in the graft conspiracy case took place last week when he filed a writ of habeas corpus in behalf of Timothy Connolly, former purchasing agent for the district, announced yesterday that he is counsel for Byrne and will produce him in court at 2 o'clock today. Byrne, now a county employé at the county hospital, has defied the prosecution to take him into court.

Byrne operated the City Machine and Engineering company, which did more than $100,000 worth of business with the district. Experts have testified that the overcharge for this work was considerable.

Every effort, according to the prosecution testimony, was made to conceal the fact that Byrne, then assistant superintendent of the permanent plants and structures department of the district, was the head of the company. The bank account of the concern, which was carried in the First National bank of Oak Park, an institution then under the control of Crowe, was opened by a third person.

Charge Check Given to Crowe.

The last of the money in the account of the dummy concern, the state showed, was used to make up part of a $12,700 cashier's check made out in the name of John Flanigan. The check was turned over to Crowe, according to the prosecution, which charges that the indorsements of Flanigan and Crowe appearing on the check were both written by Crowe.

Byrne is considered an important prosecution witness who, if he testifies, will be able to show whether Crowe had any connection with the City Machine and Engineering company.

First Assistant State's Attorney John E. Northup, who is in charge of the prosecution, said yesterday that he has discovered some important evidence regarding the destruction of sanitary district records, which will be produced in court later. He refused to discuss the details until the witnesses tell the story in court.

$50 NOW BRINGS YOU MAIL ORDER DIVORCE FROM MEXICAN STATE

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 17.—(AP)—Chihuahua's "so-called" mail order" divorce law has been signed by Gov. Roberto Fierro and probably will become effective tomorrow, said a dispatch today to El Universal Grafico.

The newspaper's correspondent said personal appearance would not be necessary to obtain easy and quick divorces under the law. Divorces, he said, could be granted by proxy upon written application by both parties involved. Divorces by mutual consent would be granted within one day, while contested actions would require twenty days.

Divorced men would be able to remarry immediately, but divorcees would be forbidden from marrying again for nine months. The cost of a divorce would be 120 pesos, which at the present rate of exchange is just $50. The significance of the new law to the United States is that divorces can be obtained in Juarez, Mexico, sister city of El Paso, Tex., or by correspondence with proxy representation. A Juarez lawyer is reported to be broadcasting advertisements.

Transport Plane Sets Omaha-Chicago Record

A new transport plane record between Omaha and Chicago was established yesterday by a United Air Lines Boeing tri-motored ship piloted by H. C. Munson. The plane, carrying eleven passengers and 600 pounds of mail, flew from Omaha to the Chicago airport in two hours and twenty-eight minutes, averaging 175 miles an hour for the 430 mile journey. This clipped 15 minutes off the old record which stood at two hours and forty-three minutes.

SILVERTHORNE BABY STRANGLED IN SLEEPING BAG

Thornton Dixon Silverthorne, 11 month old son of Mr. and Mrs. George M. Silverthorne Jr., was accidentally strangled to death yesterday afternoon when a sleeping bag in which he had been wrapped at the family home, 1342 North Dearborn street, became twisted about his neck.

Apparently the infant, in turning from side to side, tightened the top of the bag until it assumed the shape of a noose and shut off his breath. A fire department inhalator squad tried unsuccessfully to revive the child.

George M. Silverthorne Jr. is connected with the Western Felt works, of which his father, George M. Silverthorne, is president. Mrs. Silverthorne, mother of the infant, was formerly Jeanette Dixon of Monroe, Mich. The Silverthorne-Dixon wedding was a Chicago social event of March, 1930.

Another baby, Arlene Olson, 5 months old, 6517 Oxford avenue, smothered to death while asleep in the home of her grandmother, Mrs Tillie Anderson of 1420 Foster avenue, late yesterday afternoon. Her father, George Olson, was taking a nap in the same room with the youngster.

CAPTURE THEATER BANDIT.

Logansport, Ind., Jan. 17.—[Special.]—Carl Zuber, 23, alleged to have held up a Peru theater last night, taking $600, was captured here a short time later when the taxicab in which he was riding was overtaken by Peru police officers. The loot was recovered.

FIND MORTICIANS DIFFER ON UNION FIGHT ON AUTOS

Commissions from Livery Companies an Issue.

Divided opinion was reported yesterday among the morticians of Chicago on the subject of taking concerted action against the "passive" opposition of union livery car chauffeurs to private automobiles taking part in funeral processions. Although union officials assured State's Attorney Swanson they would obey a court injunction forbidding them to interfere with private cars at funerals, families of deceased persons declared the union drivers still continue to enforce the ban by "passive" methods.

This situation, with the growing public opposition to the union rule against private autos, caused several discussions yesterday among the funeral directors. It was learned that in many cases the mortician gets a commission of 10 per cent of the cost of the livery car used at funerals, and, due to keen competition, some livery concerns pay as much as 20 per cent commission. It was learned that the livery union has had the cooperation of some morticians in enforcing the ban on private cars.

One to Refuse Commissions.

One mortician, at a recent meeting of the Funeral Directors' association, said that in the future he would refuse to order livery cars and would sacrifice the commissions he might make. He said he didn't think it fair that the cost of this commission be added to the burden of the family of a deceased person.

It was explained that some morticians have their own livery cars, operated by union drivers, but that the majority of them call upon some regular livery service for the cars asked by the relatives of the deceased. The morticians who own livery services are said to be in favor of the union plan of "educating" the public to hire cars or buy seats in them, while other funeral directors are said to be of varying minds on the subject, the matter of "commissions" being involved.

Study Ordinance on Burials.

In answer to a suggestion received by one mortician, that one way to combat the union ban on private cars would be to hire no livery cars—not even a hearse. Officials of the Funeral Directors' association said there is a city ordinance prohibiting the taking of a body to a cemetery in any conveyance except a hearse.

The city clerk's office, however, on making a search of city ordinances, said this law provides only that no "public conveyance" be used in taking bodies to cemeteries.

State's Attorney Swanson is expected to have a representative present this morning before Superior Judge Robert E. Gentzel during the hearing on an injunction restraining the union from interfering with the conducting of funerals.

A temporary injunction was issued on Jan. 9, and Judge Gentzel said he would call for reports on whether the injunction has been obeyed. He said it is possible that the "passive" method of the drivers in refusing to start their cars until private cars are out of the line, might be construed as violating the wording of the injunction where it says "interfering directly or indirectly."

PLANES DROP FOOD TO STARVING INDIANS MAROONED BY SNOW

Winslow, Ariz., Jan. 7.—(AP)—Six army bombing airplanes from March field, California, took the air today in a mission of mercy to snowbound and suffering Navajo Indians of this district.

By noon 10,800 pounds of rations had been dropped at widely separated points and the work continued.

The hungry and shivering red men rushed eagerly to each spot the instant the bundles of provisions struck the snow covered earth. The parcels were torn open with ravenous haste and their contents distributed among the tribesmen.

Officials said that delivery of additional supplies will be slower henceforth, as the more remote settlements are visited.

Today's actual delivery of food followed survey flights yesterday in which "distress points" were designated over the reservation and experiments were conducted in dropping food. It soon became plain that the bundles must be wrapped in many thicknesses of heavy paper and burlap.

Beans and other loose articles were scattered over 1,000 square feet of snow when an ordinary cloth sack was used on the first test flight.

Each plane carries 900 pounds of food divided into ten bundles of equal weight, the packages containing beans, flour, sugar, salt pork, and dried fruit.

3 QUARTS MILK (BOTTLED) STOP A BUSY BANDIT

Arthur Kinkle, 18 years old, 3508 Prairie avenue, a Negro, went out with a knife on a holdup expedition early yesterday. First he menaced Patrick Waters, conductor on an Indiana avenue street car, and took $12 from him. Then he threatened Rudolph Gorsch, 6125 South Damen avenue, a driver for the Borden Farm Products company, and took $10.65 from him in front of 3455 Prairie avenue.

Kinkle went on down the block and attempted the same tactics with Michael Engle, 5441 South Sawyer avenue, a driver for the Wanzer Dairy company. Engle threw a quart of milk at Kinkle and caught him between the eyes. Kinkle shook his head and rushed Engle, but a second quart knocked him down. At that moment Gorsch galloped up to the scene in his wagon. He leaped out and broke a third bottle over the Negro's head.

Another Negro helped the bandit into his home, a few doors away. Sergt. Patrick McShane and a detective squad arrested Kinkle there a few minutes later, his clothes drenched with milk and his scalp lacerated.

BRITAIN FORCES U. S. EDUCATOR TO LEAVE INDIA

Charges Missionary Backs Gandhi's Revolt.

LUCKNOW, India, Jan. 17.—(AP)—G. B. Halstead, American missionary, resigned his post of social director at the Lucknow Christian college today under pressure from the government because of his sympathy for Mahatma Gandhi's struggle for Indian independence.

Mr. Halstead's political views and activities were held to be obnoxious to the government, which suggested it would be better if he left India.

Accordingly, the missionary said he would leave soon with his wife and child for the United States. As soon as his resignation became known, students at the college declared a "hartal," or period of mourning, and refused to attend the college.

Form "Buy Indian League."

KARACHI, India, Jan. 17.—(AP)—A "Buy Indian league" has been organized in Karachi to encourage swadeshi [home manufactures]. Nearly 100 prominent Hindu, Moslem, and Parsee merchants, bankers, doctors, and insurance agents attended a meeting of the league today.

Its president, Lala Kaswantrai, said the league was in no way political, but merely was an attempt to promote the same object as the governments of all "self-governing countries" were trying to achieve.

If, however, the Indian government took exception to the league's activities, he said, the members would have to be prepared to face the consequences. The British government is striving to put down a boycott on foreign goods.

School Board Members to Meet Bankers Today

Members of the school board are to confer this afternoon with a committee of loop bankers and brokers, according to Lewis E. Myers, president of the board. "We want to know," he said, "what school board security, if any, would be acceptable to the banks." The consensus of the trustees, as expressed at the last board meeting, was that with the budget fairly well in hand the next step, if the schools were to function, would be to seek the advice of those to whom they must try to sell securities.

Officials of the south and Lincoln park boards are to meet today with representatives of contractors and steel manufacturers to reach an agreement under which work may continue on the $10,000,000 outer drive bridge project. The boards may be forced to order a delay of the improvement in order to meet bond and interest charges and pay employes.

Under terms of contracts with steel companies the boards must pay 85 per cent of the cost of steel upon its delivery. If this cost is met the boards will exhaust funds being held to meet bond and interest charges. Contractors have already refused to work without funds. The park officials hope to have the steel companies cut the required payment and to induce contractors to work for a portion of their charges. Negotiations have been under way two weeks.

The Lincoln park board has completed the north approach between Ohio street and the Ogden slip. Work on the bridge over the slip is more than half finished. The work on the main bridge was begun last June.

NEW YORK CENTRAL

U. S. DELEGATION OFF FOR GENEVA ON WEDNESDAY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 17.—[Special.]—With the American delegation to the disarmament conference scheduled to leave for Geneva Wednesday, one of the most important questions to be faced at the world parley still remains unsettled. This is the question of whether the United States shall bow to European and international pacifist pressure and agree to the controversial budgetary method of limiting land, air, and naval armaments.

The end of the preparatory period for the conference finds the war and navy departments ranged in opposition to state department officials on the issue of whether armies and navies shall be limited by numbers and tonnages or by a limitation on the amount of money each nation may spend for national defense. The national defense forces favor a plan of the direct method of limitation of material by numbers and by categories of warships or weapons.

Position Not Made Clear.

The state department has been inclined to favor adoption, at least in part, of the method whereby expenditures on warships and war materials would be limited by treaty. Whether the state department favors limiting army and navy personnel by limiting expenditures on such forces has not been made clear.

Before the parley opens President Hoover is expected to advise the delegation as to his position on the budgetry issue. The American delegation has not been given its final instructions and some doubt exists as to whether the President will bind the delegation to follow a fixed program. The President has discussed the whole disarmament and war debts situation at length with Gen. Dawes and Mr. Stimson and it is assumed the ambassador now is acquainted with the President's views on most points.

Security Pact Appears Doomed.

Just what position the United States delegation will assume on the question of American participation in any form of a security pact as demanded by France has not been made known. It seems unlikely, however, that the delegation would give Europe any encouragement on this proposition in view of the vigorous opposition in the senate to any entangling alliances of this sort with European powers.

Members of the American delegation in the few sessions they have held have heard arguments for and against the budgetary method. Indications are that the navy department has temporarily staved off American consent to the budgetary system for the navy. It is known, however, that the state department still clings to the view that army material should be limited by expenditures for new weapons, etc., rather than by allotting each country a certain number of weapons and fixing maximum tonnages.

President Hoover, up to the last few weeks, has been strongly opposed to the budgetary method. His instructions to the delegation on this point will depend largely upon whether he listens to the state department or to the national defense services.

Heretofore the American thesis has been that armaments are best limited by allowing each power a certain number of naval and army enlisted men and officers, a certain number and tonnage of ships and army weapons and a fixed number of airplanes.

DIRIGIBLE AKRON TIES TO MAST OF TANKER POTOKA OFF VIRGINIA

Norfolk, Va., Jan. 17.—[Special.]—Under, lowering clouds, poor visibility and semi-darkness, the Akron, largest airship of its type in the world, parked to the mast of the naval tanker Patoka off Cape Charles today. The dirigible however, damaged the mooring mast of the watercraft when it took off carrying away the "cup" on extreme top of the mast and weakening the supports and the Patoka had to put in at the Norfolk navy yard for repairs.

The Akron arrived off Cape Charles, at sunrise. The Patoka was at anchor awaiting the aerial visitor. The Akron circled the Patoka twice before it could tie to the mast. The Akron remained parked to the Patoka's mast for 45 minutes during which time Lieut. Com. Rosendahl, paid his respects to the commanding officer of the Patoka, and officers of the latter ship boarded the aircraft. The Akron started back for its hangar at Lakehurst, N. Y., shortly after 8 a. m. and arrived there late today. The Patoka and Akron are scheduled to proceed to the Pacific coast this month. The Akron will fly over Hawaii during the joint maneuvers between the scouting and battle forces of the navy next month.

UNITED WE STAND, EUROPE CRIES ON DEBT PARLEY EVE

Preparations Shrouded in Secrecy.

LONDON, Jan. 17.—(AP)—Europe today entered the last week before the world reparations parley tentatively set for Jan. 25 at Lausanne in an atmosphere of mingled hope and fear.

Great Britain looked forward to the event with optimism. France saw nothing on the horizon but pessimism. Neither sentiment had any foundation in official statements, for both governments were preparing for the conference under a cloud of secrecy.

The British optimism was primarily a product of the political writers in responsible newspapers who drew from the evidence of the last week the conclusion that one vitally important point has been gained—that Great Britain, France, Italy and Germany will go to the conference with a united front.

Agree on Sequence of Events.

The viewpoint found its chief expression in an article by the diplomatic correspondent of the influential newspaper Observer. All four nations have agreed, he wrote, that the sequence of events at Lausanne will be as follows:

1. The conference will last a few days only.

2. The 11 countries represented will submit to Washington a proposal that the Hoover moratorium on reparations and war debts should be extended from July 1 to the end of 1932.

3. The parley will be resumed before the end of the year and will then seek a permanent settlement of the whole problem.

The Observer's opinion was echoed in other responsible circles which places emphasis on a belief that the British government now has decided a further moratorium lasting more than a few months ultimately would do more harm than good.

French Are Gloomy.

In contrast with the attitude prevailing in this country, such Paris newspapers as Le Temps, which is credited with being close to the French foreign office, and the Nationalist journal, Les Debats, looked at the situation as a whole and found the prospects gloomy.

Both papers took the view that whatever happens at Lausanne the key to the whole problem lies in the hands of the United States, but there is not the slightest reason to suppose that the American government will plunge into the reparations tangle and straighten it out.

It is the opinion of the British government, Le Temps said, that the United States ultimately will agree to cancellation of intergovernmental war obligations.

AIR LINE REPORTS A BIG INCREASE IN PASSENGERS

More than three times as many passengers paid to ride on United Air lines during 1931 than in the previous year. The system flew one-third more miles than it did in 1930. The volume of air mail carried increased 50,000 pounds, about 1 per cent over the previous year.

These increases were made in the face of unsettled business conditions, according to the annual report of the system's operations, and further increases are anticipated for the coming year.

Last year 43,000 revenue passengers were carried as compared with 13,000 in 1930. Air mail carried last year amounted to 4,840,000 pounds.

CERMAK IS DUE HOME TODAY TO BACK TAX PLAN

Mayor Will Aid Fight to Pass Revenue Bill.

tomorrow. The call of the governor for this session provides for a revision of the revenue article of the present constitution through legislative action on a resolution to submit to the people by referendum the question whether such a convention should be held.

Representatives of various organizations have urged Gov. Emmerson to this action with the view of correcting so-called evils of the present revenue producing machinery by a revision of the constitution which has been in effect since 1870. Quick action has been urged so that the subject may be submitted to the electorate this year. In estimating the probable cost the state auditor's records of the cost of the 1920-'22 constitutional convention were cited.

Cost Is Half Million.

The 51st general assembly appropriated $500,000 for the expenses of the convention. This was spent, according to the auditor's reports, as follows:

July 1, 1919, to June 30, 1920..	$278,925.63
July 1, 1921, to June 30, 1922..	64,455.58
July 1, 1922, to June 30, 1923..	109,011.74
Total spent	$500,000.00

The question of accepting or rejecting the proposed new basic law was submitted to the voters at a special election held on Dec. 12, 1922. It was defeated. Attorney Urban A. Lavery, who has represented the Cook county election board, and who handled some of the legal affairs of that convention, estimated the cost of the special election at $2,000,000. This was divided, he said, with Cook county paying a little more than a million and downstate a little less than a million.

Could Save at Primary.

A similar special election would be necessary to consider any new constitution that might result from a convention authorized by the legislature, Attorney Lavery stated. But there could be a saving to the voters in submitting to the people the question of whether they would approve of the calling of such a convention, Lavery said. This would be by having that proposition put on the ballot at the April primaries.

"The procedure is as follows," said Mr. Lavery. "If the legislature provides by an affirmative vote of two-thirds of the membership of both houses that a constitutional convention be authorized, it could at the same time authorize the holding of a primary for the nomination of delegates to that convention.

"Such nominations would be conditional upon the voters deciding in favor of the convention. Such conditional elections were held in conjunction with the vote on the new code in 1922, two justices of the Supreme court being elected providing the code carried, which it did not.

Elect Delegates in November.

"If such conditional nominations are made this April the delegates can be elected in November and the new draft worked out by the convention could be voted upon at a special election held in 1933 or at the April primaries of 1934. If action is not taken by the legislature in time to have nominations for delegates voted upon in April, 1932, the question can hardly be proposed to the electorate before 1934 without several special elections being held."

The last effort to revise the constitution and modernize it came about through action by the 50th general assembly in 1917. Gov. Lowden in his inaugural message advised the legislature to authorize it. For several years there had been state wide agitation for such action and the legislators adopted a resolution submitting the question to the voters.

At the election of Nov. 5, 1918, the proposal received an affirmative majority of 399,806. Accordingly nominations were made by the parties in the primaries of 1919 and elections were held in the fall of the same year. The present constitution provides that two delegates be elected in each senatorial district of the state, of which there are fifty-one.

Brings State Battle.

The 102 delegates elected convened in Springfield on Jan. 6, 1920, and Charles E. Woodward (now a federal judge) of Ottawa was elected president of the convention. It completed its work on Sept. 12, 1922, and adjourned sine die on Oct. 10.

It provided for many changes in the taxation systems, organization of the legislature, judicial districts, and various other features of the basic law. Opposition to its provisions developed strongly in Cook county and to a far lesser degree in the remainder of the state.

The convention ordered that pamphlets containing copies of the proposed new constitution, and showing the changes, be printed and distributed, and more than a million copies were circulated. Committees were formed by those favoring the new draft and by those opposed to it.

Suffers Crushing Defeat.

When it came to a final vote Cook county was nearly 20 to 1 against its adoption and downstate rejected it by a vote of more than 2 to 1. The votes were: Cook county, 541,206 against and 27,874 for it; downstate, 157,424 yes, 380,192 no. The total vote was 921,398 no, 185,298 yes.

Until the recent call issued by Gov. Emmerson, there has been no attempt since that election to provide for a general revision of the constitution. There is a proposition to be voted upon next November known as the "gateway amendment," through which, if it passes, three amendments may be proposed during any session of the legislature instead of only one now possible each two years.

CIGARET DISCARDED BY CO-ED WAS CAUSE OF MICHIGAN U. FIRE

Ann Arbor, Mich., Jan. 17.—[Special.]—The most damaging of nine fires which occurred on the University of Michigan campus during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1931, was caused by a co-ed throwing a lighted cigaret from her window, in Mosher-Jordan dormitory, it is disclosed in the annual report of President Alexander G. Ruthven, released here tonight. The resulting fire burned four awnings, causing $132.25 damage. The total fire loss for the year was but $387.72.

The report of Dean of Students J. A. Bursley, appearing in the president's report, reveals that the grades earned by members of five fraternities closed during the second semester of last year because of liquor law violations, were, without exception, better while the students were out of the houses than when they were together.

This report also shows that such campus functions as the J-hop needed elimination of all competition in the form of house parties to succeed financially and suggests that "If there is not sufficient demand for them so that they can 'stand on their own feet' without artificial stimulation, why not give them up?"

Bulgaria to Ask Permit to Restore Conscript Army

SOFIA, Bulgaria, Jan. 17.—(AP)—In order to cut down the military budget, Bulgaria will ask permission at the disarmament conference to resume the old system of compulsory military service, Premier Muchanoff announced today. He said the present voluntary system, inaugurated after the world war by the terms of the treaty of Versailles, was proving too expensive.

U. S. Envoy Gives Baptism Party for Baby Born at Sea

NAPLES, Italy, Jan. 17.—(AP)—American Ambassador John W. Garrett and Mrs. Garrett came back on the liner Conte Grande today from a brief visit to the United States after giving a baptismal party for a baby born at sea. Mrs. Luigi Ventresca, a third class passenger, became the mother of a daughter two days after the ship left New York. While Mrs. Ventresca was born in New York, the master pronounced the baby to be an Italian citizen because her father is an Italian and she was born on an Italian ship.

Soviets Decide to Exile Trotzky for 2 More Years

BERLIN, Jan. 17.—(AP)—A Telegraphen Union News agency dispatch from Kannas, Lithuania, reported today that the politbureau of the communist party at Moscow decided to demand a two year extension of Leon Trotzky's banishment from soviet Russia. Trotzky, formerly closely identified with Nicolai Lenin in the bolshevik revolution and the establishment of soviet government, is now living in Turkey.

SMALL OWNERS AND RICH FOUND BEST TAXPAYERS

Study by Treasurer Shows Various Classes.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

J. B. M'DONOUGH [Walinger Photo.]

The small owners and the holders of very valuable properties have made the best showing in tax payments.

Between these two extremes, the owners are delinquent on 40 to 46 per cent of their holdings.

While the small property owners have paid in larger numbers than any other class, there are small owners of approximately 80,000 parcels, on which the average tax is $104, who have not been able to pay their 1929 taxes, due May 15 last.

Many Others Delinquent.

Others who are assessed higher taxes are delinquent on 40,000 to 45,000 parcels.

These are a few of the deductions from a tabulation of all of the real estate owners in volumes one and two of tax bills for each of the eight towns within Chicago. This tabulation was made by County Treasurer McDonough, and this is the first effort to ascertain what taxpayers, classified on the valuation of their holdings, are delinquent. Altogether Mr. McDonough has investigated 28,298 properties on which the 1929 taxes total $37,646,595. If these are typical of all of the owners of the 535,088 parcels of real estate in Chicago, then the study is a highly valuable innovation.

Puts Property in Classes.

Mr. McDonough has separated the 28,298 parcels of real estate into those who have paid their 1929 taxes and those who have not. Each of these groups has then been divided into eight divisions. The first consists of properties on which the tax is less than $300, and the last is where the tax is more than $10,000 on each property. Between are six other classes, according to the amount of taxes assessed.

The tabulation shows that of the 28,298 properties in the 16 volumes of tax bills, 20,905 are assessed less than $300. The average bill for these small owners is about $104. If this is typical of the city, then approximately three-fourths of the 535,088 properties, or 400,000, are assessed an average of $104 in taxes. About one-fifth of the 20,905 small property owners have not paid. Applying that ratio to the city as a whole, there are owners of 80,000 small properties on which taxes of approximately $8,320,000 have not been paid.

Incidentally, more than that amount has been sold for taxes, with no bidders, and has been forfeited to the state.

Average $133 on 28,298.

Add to the 20,905 properties which pay less than $300 a year each for taxes the 2,422 which are assessed between $301 and $500 each, there is a resultant total of 23,327 properties. This is 82 per cent of the 28,298 properties investigated. These 23,327 properties have an average tax assessment of $133.

Applying the percentages of those investigated by County Collector McDonough to the entire city, and there are probably more than 85,000 properties, assessed an average of $133, on which the 1929 taxes have not been paid.

All of the properties in these two classes may be properly ranked from poor to relatively small real estate holdings. A large percentage of these owners were born in foreign countries and prize a home highly. They will make every sacrifice to pay their taxes, that there may be no cloud on their property. When this class of citizens does not pay taxes, they are unable to get the money.

Too High to Pay.

The default of the small property owners on an estimated 80,000 to 85,000 parcels of Chicago real estate indicates clearly that taxes are too high for the poor people to pay, as well as embarrassing and troublesome for others with more wealth and income.

The intimation of legislators, in their speeches at Springfield, that practically all of the small property owners have paid their 1929 taxes is not verified by the McDonough tabulation. The treasurer's office is certain there were property owners who had not paid their 1929 taxes, before they were declared void by Judge Jarecki, who could have paid; but this change is not made against the small property owners.

The tax clerks assert that their conversations with property owners lead them to believe that many who joined the so-called tax strikers did so primarily because they did not have the cash on hand with which to pay, although there is a sizable group which filed court objections for the prime purpose of hammering down real estate taxes.

Objectors More Important.

Of the 28,298 properties investigated, with aggregate taxes of $37,646,595, there are 21,644 properties which have paid $27,146,838 in taxes. The remaining 6,654 properties still owe $10,499,756 on the 1929 bills.

Of the 6,654 delinquents, 699 properties owe $3,444,651 out of the $10,499,756 unpaid on the 28,298 parcels.

However, the owners who have property on which they pay in excess of $10,000 on each parcel have paid more proportionately than any other group, except the small property owners who average $133 per property.

	No.	Pct.	Unpaid Taxes.	Pct. of Total
Under $300	4,027	19.3	$ 407,091	18.7
$301 to $500	688	26.4	253,445	27.3
$501 to $1,000	723	40.1	500,465	40.4
$1,001-$1,500	300	40.6	364,353	46.6
$1,501-$2,500	267	40.8	520,808	40.5
$2,501-$5,000	297	45.3	1,058,442	44.8
$5,001-$10,000	207	40.4	1,511,697	40.9
Over $10,000	195	27.9	5,874,512	23.7
Totals	6,654	23.5	$10,499,756	27.9

On the basis of tax money, the properties investigated indicate more taxes paid by more than 2 per cent than the county as a whole shows. Accordingly, a better showing on the payment of taxes on small properties is presented in the table than can probably be shown in the county as a whole.

It will also be noted by the table that of the properties on which the taxes are $10,000 or more a year the number of delinquents is larger than the percentage of the money delinquent for this class. The reverse is true on the properties paying less than $300 a year in taxes.

These tables of Collector McDonough supply the first opportunity to classify the real estate taxpayers by groups and to determine from what properties the taxes are really obtained.

Ends Stomach Pain New Way

"Your wonderful medicine, ACIDINE, has helped me very much. I used to get pains in my stomach about one hour after eating. After trying several other remedies, none of which helped me, I tried ACIDINE and it gave me prompt relief," says Oscar Kestler, St. Louis.

"Suffered for many years from indigestion. I could not eat any acid foods or fruits. I denied myself of almost everything," says Mrs. W. W. Odiorne, Portsmouth, N. H. "Now I eat anything and if I think it will not agree with me, I just take ACIDINE. ACIDINE is wonderful."

End gas, sourness, heartburn, dizziness, sleeplessness, headache resulting from acidity. Maker guarantees ACIDINE ends your stomach trouble or money back. All druggists have ACIDINE.

Here's Quick Way To Break Up a Cold

Makes You Feel Like a New Person Almost Before You Know It

THE thing to do with a cold is to break it up in a hurry—with something you know does the job; not to trifle with a lot of trick ideas and remedies. Colds are too dangerous to experiment with.

Get a box of Hill's Cascara Quinine at any drug store. Take two tablets now. Then follow directions on box. Drink lots of water, too—that's all.

Soon that miserable, aching feeling begins to go. The cold breaks up. The poisons are moved from your system. The world looks like an altogether different place.

Those results come because Hill's goes back to first principles by going to the seat of the trouble. It's not a new-fangled fancy idea but a tried and proved way that's made to do ONE THING WELL; to knock a cold in a jiffy.

Hill's costs only a few cents. Use it for quick relief after everything else you've tried has failed.

THE END OF CANCELLATION TALK.

If Premier Mussolini's appeal for repudiation was intended as dynamite with which to reduce the whole structure of intergovernmental obligations to fragments he must be a sorely disappointed man. His explosion did not come off. Instead, it is now clearer than ever that the United States will not cancel and that Europe is far from being a unit in favor of repudiation. If the dispatches from London and Paris are to be believed, all that Mr. Mussolini has done is to assure a cleavage of opinion at the forthcoming Lausanne conference, if, indeed, his violent proposals have not brought about an indefinite postponement of the conference.

But it would be a serious mistake to credit this achievement to Mr. Mussolini alone. France does not want to repudiate because France makes 100 million dollars a year out of reparations over and above her payments to Great Britain and the United States. Great Britain does not want to repudiate because Britain, as a creditor nation, cannot afford to indorse repudiation as a proper course for debtors. And more important even than these considerations is the blunt declaration against cancellation embodied in congress' acceptance of the moratorium. That declaration is a formal notification to Europe that if the debts are not paid it will not be because the taxpayers of the United States do not want them paid, but only because the nations of Europe do not honor their own commitments.

Until the congressional statement of our position was made Europe was disposed to regard American claims to payment as insincere. Europe continued to think of America as a colony established by Europeans for the benefit of the old world, and this curious conception was encouraged by the fawnings and apologies of socially ambitious Americans in and out of our diplomatic services. If there has been a clearer understanding of America's position in recent weeks it is to be attributed to the forthright position taken by congress and that, in turn, was only an accurate reflection of the overwhelming popular demand in this country for payment. Europeans are no longer misled by the small minority of cancellationists and their press in this country, who do not express—and never have expressed—the will of the nation, but only their own desire to be accepted in European society.

Our state department for ten years and more has failed to make the position of the American people clear. That may be explained as the product either of the inability of the department to recognize the will of the nation or of failure to express the national policy with sufficient force to penetrate the minds of European statesmen. But there is little doubt that the American position is now known, recognized and accepted for what it is. Europe is no longer pinning faith on American sentimentality. That is the first important diplomatic success that has been scored by this country in a long time, and it is perhaps significant that it is to be credited to the people, their press and their congress and not to the state department.

A COMIC VALENTINE FOR MR. STIMSON.

The Japanese government, through Foreign Minister Kenkichi Yoshizawa, has informed Mr. Stimson, through Ambassador W. Cameron Forbes, that Japan is aware it can always rely upon the coöperation of the United States in its efforts to secure complete fulfillment of the treaties of Washington and the Kellogg pact. Japan is glad, nevertheless, to have the additional assurance of American coöperation as contained in Mr. Stimson's communications. Japan feels the better for such assurances.

Japan also agrees with Mr. Stimson on the open door and regards it as "a cordial feature of the politics of the far east," regretting only that unsettled conditions in China diminish its effectiveness. Japan will not consider the academic question whether the impropriety of methods adopted for desirable ends necessarily voids the good actually obtained because Japan has no intention of adopting any improper means. It is true that conditions have arisen which were not in contemplation when the treaties were signed, and although that fact cannot affect the binding character of the agreements it might modify their application. Nevertheless, all is cordial. American sympathy and support are welcomed by Japan and Mr. Stimson is a great and good friend.

The American state department is no stranger to the experience of being kidded by experts. Many excellent examples of it, by Mexicans for example, are in its archives. American secretaries of state are familiar with the Bronx cheer. They have been saluted with it from all parts of the globe. Their honorable health has been inquired of, before and after many a banana peel.

Persons familiar with the humiliations of the state department might find other instances in which a great power has replied to serious diplomatic communications with the Bronx retort, but such replies must be unusual. The Japanese answer might lead one to suspect that the composition had assistance from Moscow. Possibly Karakhan, the adroit undersecretary of the Russian foreign office, long in the far east, taught the Japanese something in the art of making monkeys of other diplomats. He was a master at it, still is. The Russian touch is in the Japanese sarcasm, but probably Mr. Stimson's technique does not overdraw the native Japanese talent for wise cracking.

The Japanese statement in the native idiom may be even more satisfactory to Japanese pride and even more pleasing to Japanese sense of humor than is apparent in the English version. Everybody in Japan ought to be quite happy about it. Mr. Stimson has received a comic valentine from his Japanese friend. If he thinks of making a reply he'd be wise to call in Peter Dunne, George Ade, Ring Lardner, and Westbrook Pegler.

THE CASE FOR HIGHER TAXES.

The administration's program of increased taxation has been presented to congress by Mr. Mellon and his undersecretary, Mr. Mills. Mr. Mills did all or nearly all of the talking. He said that the policy of piling deficit upon deficit must come to an end or the government's credit will be impaired. And if the government's credit is impaired then its securities, and all securities, will depreciate in value, with the result that the present difficulties of the country will be vastly increased.

All that Mr. Mills said in this connection is transparently true. But when he turned to the question of what is to be done in the premises he was not so convincing. Expenses must be pared, he said, and taxes must be increased to yield an additional $390,000,000 in the fiscal year 1932, and an additional $920,000,000 in the fiscal year 1933.

Mr. Mills gave no hint of where the administration proposes to slash expenses. Until some evidence is forthcoming of a determination to abolish government bureaus and services now paid for by the taxpayers the remarks about economy must be regarded as in the nature of lip service to an ideal which is not regarded as realizable.

So far as the increases in the tax rates are concerned, Mr. Mills and Mr. Mellon may be suspected of too great optimism. The fact is, as Mr. Mills himself stated with admirable clarity, most of the individual taxpayers do not set aside reserves out of income received this year with which to pay the taxes on that income when they fall due next year. Accordingly, a steady decline in business and incomes such as has been experienced in the last few years will result in a parallel inability to pay taxes, because the current incomes from which, in the absence of reserves, taxes must be paid, have in thousands of cases disappeared. It follows that increases in the rates if not so sharp as to drive taxpayers to evasion may cause some increase in the government's revenue, but the added income will be far from proportionate to the rise in the rates. The money with which to pay the higher taxes can't be improvised by the taxpayers who haven't put it aside.

Mr. Mills is correct in foreseeing national ruin as the penalty for continued borrowing, but he seems to have paid too little attention to the fact that ruin can be achieved also by excessive taxation. Every added dollar which the federal government takes is a dollar which is taken out of trade and out of investment. To that extent it is a dollar which is sent home on sick leave when it might have been at the front fighting for a return of good times.

It is difficult to justify tax increases as long as government expenditures are running at anything like their present pace. If expenditures had been pared to the absolute minimum and revenue were still insufficient, tax increases might be necessary. Under present conditions the case for higher taxes has not been made.

CRIMINAL ATROCITIES IN CLEVELAND.

Shocking conditions of crime which, if they had developed in Chicago, New York, or in any great metropolis in Europe, would have scandalized the world, are now reported in Cleveland dispatches. A checkup shows that in the last month eleven girls have suffered criminal assault, six women attacked by robbers, eight severely beaten, and seventy-two women and girls slugged and robbed in their homes, in stores, and on the streets. One of the girls, daughter of a policeman, suffered a broken jaw, lost five teeth, and was so mutilated that she has had to submit to facial surgery to restore her features.

The police have warned girls not to leave their homes after dark without escort, but few arrests have been made. The situation indicates a serious breakdown of police protection and a general inefficiency of police administration for which corrupt politics and a considerable indifference to the citizenship must be held responsible. Cleveland plainly needs a cleanup.

Editorial of the Day

RITCHIE IN THE RACE.

[The Argus, Rock Island.]

Gov. Albert C. Ritchie, four times governor of Maryland, has announced that he would be proud to be the Democratic standard bearer next November. He discusses the prohibition question much more frankly than Gov. Roosevelt and would turn the whole matter over to the states. He is sound on the question of private ownership and his record is one of consistency to his proclaimed views. It is doubtful, however, if even Gov. Ritchie, a southerner, would carry all sections of the dry south. His nomination is regarded as being only a remote possibility. A writer in Collier's magazine hints that should Roosevelt and ex-Gov. Smith get into a big row over the nomination, both might be eliminated. But that is only a guess at possibilities.

Smith's entrance into the lists would complicate the situation in the Democratic camp. There are some who insist that in spite of certain friction, Smith has always been for Roosevelt, and will be found lined up for him at the convention. In spite of his popularity with many Democrats, Gov. Ritchie is at present merely in the "dark horse" class. A definite announcement by Smith that he is not in the running or even that he intends to be, would be clarifying, but he has not chosen to make such an announcement. In New York state it is being affirmed continually that Smith will seek the nomination. If he should receive the votes of only 385 delegates he could block the nomination of Roosevelt. Gov. Ritchie will be always in the offing. He is the preference of certain conservative Democrats who do not like the Rooseveltian stand for the public ownership of utilities.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

TWO INCHES OF SNOW in dear old Loz Onglaize! Tck, tck, tck! The land where 'tis always June. Sez they. The land where the sun always shines; where the graceful palm trees nod their lordly heads; where the rose and the myrtle and the jessamine bloom the whole year 'round! Lykell, lykell, lykell! Two inches of snow in Loz Onglaize and not one small teaspoonful of snow have we had all this long winter in dear old Chicago. Nor cold weather of any kind except in the ice boxes and refrigerators. The green grass is growing here in the great midwest and the flowers are blooming in the gardens, and the turtle doves and the mocking birds and the bobolinks are building their little nests in the leafy branches of the old apple tree.

Two inches of snow in Loz Onglaize. Two inches of snow in southern California. And all they talk about out there is the climate, the wonderful climate, the gorgeous climate, the Heavenly climate. Where 'tis always the summer time, the June time! Where soft tropic breezes ever blow, the whangdoodle mourneth for its first born, and the bulbul (bullbull) sings so sweetly in the trees. Two inches of snow in Loz Onglaize and southern California. It is to weep. (Loz Onglaize and southern California papers please copy.)

TALE OF AN OLD FORTY-FIVE.

Vaqueros have reached for the stars,
And cowboys bitten the dust
In the days of my glory and pride
When I knew the killing lust.

In the Yavapai hills the redskins
Prayed to their gods and died
When I went out for my vengeance
Close to my master's side.

Once in the Bird Cage at Tombstone,
I stood 'em up to the wall,
And any that faltered or fumbled
Answered the Great Roll Call.

In the old Palace bar at Prescott,
I bloodied the walls with my name,
But stickin' the Fort Whipple stage up
Was the start of my immortal fame.

I've roamed Death valley at sunset,
Held the Midnight mine up at dawn,
Rustled cows by hundreds and thousands,
And gambled when life was the pawn.

And now I hang over a fireplace—
An ornament reddened with rust,
But when any one eyes me and says "How cute,"
I still know the killing lust.

(From the Fond du Lac Commonwealth Reporter via F. J. R.)

Detroit, Jan. 11.—[U. P.]—Yule trees were not thrown in alleys here the day after Christmas. Instead, they have been put to three major uses. Poverty stricken families are burning them for fuel; asthma sufferers have stripped the needles to inhale the aromatic odor, and housewives have four children, 16 grandchildren, and 21 great-grandchildren.

PSORIASIS TREATMENT.

FOR years I have advised people with psoriasis elsewhere than on the face to let well enough alone. Genuine psoriasis is a matter of no great importance. It never endangers life or causes any symptoms nor inconvenience. It is without significance. Its presence does not indicate any infection, nor any constitutional disease. It causes some itching, but not much, and few people are perfectly comfortable in all directions. Psoriasis of the face interferes with good looks enough to justify considerable trouble and expense in trying to get rid of it.

The second reason for the advice is that treatment is so unsatisfactory. I have known of a few persons who have been cured, but there are not many, and those were exceptional in one way or other. One man of whom I know had had a widely diffused psoriasis for years. He is well fixed financially and not very busy. He has spent a great deal of time and money seeking relief. Eventually he found that if he would go to Arizona and there take sunbaths until his entire body was tanned to a mahogany brown, his psoriasis would disappear. When he gets well bleached out it tends to return, whereupon he drops his work and goes back to nature in Arizona.

This is one case only, but many similar observations have been made. It is known that people who live in the tropics have very little psoriasis. And among those who live farther north the skin trouble is worse in the winter and early spring, and is better in the summer. These observations led Dr. S. Monash to try viosterol. He gives a reasonably full dose of this drug daily for two months and then interrupts for, say, a month or two, and then repeats. So far he has seen cases of psoriasis clear up nicely and he has not observed any ill effects from his treatment. He thinks it advisable to use ointments on the psoriasis patches in addition to the viosterol internally.

This is far from being a solution of the psoriasis problem. Not many people are sufficiently anxious to be cured to keep up any treatment for several months. In the second place, psoriasis ointments are messy. In the third, not enough cases have been cured or improved by this treatment to make it certain that viosterol will prove of service in treating psoriasis. If viosterol is a cure, then the light cure should work even better. There are ways of taking light therapy short of going to Arizona.

PROBABLY FED TOO MUCH.

M. B. D. writes:

1. Why should a seven months old baby's urine smell strongly of ammonia? Can it be that she is not getting enough water, or is it due to something in her diet?

2. What is the earliest date a child should walk?

REPLY.

1. In many cases this is because the child is being fed too much and particularly too much fats. A diet richer in cereals, breads, fruit juices, and vegetable soup and poorer in cream is advisable in this group of cases. In many cases this odor means that not all the soap is washed out of the baby's clothing by the laundress.

2. About 12 months. Babies that receive too much parental attention are liable to walk too early.

SINUS AND ANEMIA.

A. E. L. W. writes:

1. I have sinus trouble. One doctor advised me to go to a dry climate. Another says it will do no good. Would it help if I went out to Texas?

2. I am anemic too. What foods should I eat? Is it serious?

REPLY.

1. The climate cure is about the best we have. It is expensive. If you go to Texas go to the southwest part of the state, west and south of San Antonio. Go to the dry regions, but keep away from regions of dust storms.

2. The seriousness of anemia depends on the kind of anemia and the degree. The foods that supply iron are liver, tripe, juicy meats, yellow of egg, carrots, and green vegetables.

SENSITIVE TO SOMETHING.

Mrs. D. writes: My grandson, 8½ years old, bloats and swells up all over, and then breaks out in blotches that itch for a time. What is the cause? What can be done and is it very dangerous?

REPLY.

Your grandson has hives. This is very annoying, but not dangerous. One form, giant urticaria of the larynx, is dangerous, but this boy does not have that. The boy is sensitive to something. Your hope of curing him depends on finding what he is sensitive to and having him avoid it. How about playing with cats, dogs, birds, or chickens? Does he ride a pony? Do rats abound? How about feather pillows and beds? What foods should you suspect?

CROSSING PROTECTION.

Chicago, Jan. 7.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—"Safety First" is a splendid slogan, and yet our city fathers are giving small concern along the ever crowded 63d street at University avenue, the most hazardous corners in Woodlawn. University avenue from the south enters 63d street about 100 feet east of University avenue which enters from the north. At these four corners there is not one signal for protection. Traffic is always heavy, street cars frequent, the maximum of danger always present, and many have been injured at these corners. Pedestrians are obliged to stand and wait many minutes before attempting the crossing. Women with children and elderly people are obliged to walk the long block east to Woodlawn avenue, where stop lights protect a much less danger.

F. A. G.

There is no question but that automobile traffic is heavy at this intersection, but no more so than at any other streets crossing East 63d street between Cottage Grove avenue and Stony Island avenue. Also, stop and go lights are in operation on Woodlawn avenue, just one block east of this intersection, and these lights no doubt afford a certain amount of protection at University avenue.

Dorchester avenue, just ½ mile east, has "through street" signs installed and this would have a tendency to slow up traffic coming from the east. In my opinion no stop signs are necessary at this intersection.

JAMES P. ALLMAN,
Commissioner of Police.

FARM MORTGAGE.

Freeport, Ill., Jan. 6.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Several years ago I bought a farm mortgage from a national bank outside of the city. The bank told me any time I wanted to dispose of it they would take it off my hands. The note was due in 1930. The bank has received and paid me the interest yearly. They retain the abstract, etc. Can I legally hold them to their verbal promise? I don't think they will deny having made the promise.

A. B. C.

It seems probable that they were merely stating their policy at the time, rather than making a binding promise for the future. We cannot advise to advantage without knowing the exact wording that was used. If a written contract purports on its face to be a complete expression of the whole agreement, oral understandings incidental to the negotiations are superseded and cannot be proved in court to change the written contract.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

This nation has had other serious financial depressions, as the following excerpts from The Tribune files reveal. Each of these periods of hard times has been followed by periods of great prosperity.

New York, Oct. 30.—The firm of Hoyt, Sprague & Co., agents for the manufacturing firm of A. & W. Sprague at Providence, R. I., rumors of whose failure were current, suspended payment. Mr. Knight of the firm declined to make public the assets and liabilities, but it is rumored that $3,000,000 of their paper is held in this city. Another failure of the day was that of Lloyd, Hamilton & Co. They say their failure was due to heavy withdrawal of deposits and their inability to realize on securities due to the panic. Several other smaller financial concerns also failed.

Chicago, Oct. 1.—Secretary Vail of the Chicago labor and temporary relief committee notified the mayor that the committee would no longer guarantee payment of wages of the 2,000 men it put to work on city streets. In a statement the committee says: "We desire to report satisfactory progress of the relief work and earnestly appeal for a prompt and liberal response from the citizens of Chicago to carry it forward. The experiment of furnishing work to those needing relief has been tested and the necessity for it found to be more urgent than it first appeared. Out of many thousands applying for work at $1 a day, over 2,000 were carefully selected from our own resident citizens." The committee also says that in response to the general appeal for employment several large employers of labor have started up work without any increased demand for products, mainly to give work to their own unemployed.

March 21.—A movement in the direction of securing tax reforms and a measure of the financial relief promised by Chicago's defeated charter has been started by Mayor Busse. What the mayor and the controller would like to find out is why Chicago has so little spending money, although the tax rate is steadily going higher.

1914.

New York, April 20.—The decline in stocks continued today and another string of low records for the year, numbering nearly a score, were recorded. The Mexican crisis was generally referred to as the predominating bearish influence.

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

JANUARY 18, 1916.

LONDON.—Two factors of great importance developed in the Balkan situation. The allies landed troops at Phaleron, five miles southwest of Athens, and Montenegro gave up its fight against the central powers, agreeing to lay down its arms.

LONDON.—The Turks have suffered severe defeats in the important struggles now raging in two of the Asiatic theaters of war, it was officially announced. The British under Gen. Aylmer, advancing to the relief of the beleaguered garrison at Kut-El-Amara, in Mesopotamia, captured a Turkish position in heavy fighting. The Turks admit a defeat in the Caucasus in an official statement issued at Constantinople.

LONDON.—About 400 buildings, most of them valuable ones, were destroyed in the fire at Bergen, Norway, according to a Reuter dispatch from Christiania. The total damage is estimated at $20,000,000. One life was lost. Only a few persons were injured.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—A measure proposing a high graduated tax on the incomes of American expatriates, derived from their American properties, will be introduced in the senate by Senator Kenyon of Iowa. The Kenyon bill, which has been drawn along lines advocated for some time by THE TRIBUNE, would place an annual tax of practically 30 per cent on the incomes of the wealthier expatriates. Also it would make the dowers given to American girls who marry titled foreigners a source of considerable revenue to the United States government.

JANUARY 18, 1902.

DOWAGIAC, Mich. — Pokagon's band of Pottawatomie Indians sold their birthright in the disputed territory fronting on the Lake Shore drive in Chicago. Each received or will receive his mess of pottage in the shape of a $100 check. Robert Bines, a Board of Trade man in Chicago, made the first payment at 4 o'clock to Hi Kay-Ka-Ke, one of the old men of the tribe. Three minutes later the check was presented to F. W. Lyle, president of the City National bank of Dowagiac and Hi Kay-Ka-Ke walked out with a handful of crisp bills that represented his share in the property that is worth millions. The alleged claim of Pokagon and his remnant of Pottawatomie Indians is based on a dispute over two early surveys of the north shore line extending from the mouth of the Chicago river indefinitely toward Waukegan.

MEXICO CITY.—No fewer than 300 persons were killed and 300 injured by the earthquake which was felt over a great part of this republic yesterday. The serious casualties happened in the town of Chilpancingo, in the state of Guerrero.

FREE TEXT BOOKS.

Chicago, Jan. 11.—At a time when economy measures are being discussed by the board of education it seems strange that so little emphasis has been placed upon the saving of thousands of dollars by abandoning the practice of purchasing text books for the pupils.

Why shouldn't students in Chicago be required to furnish their own books as they are in other communities? Few communities would deliberately saddle upon themselves the obligation of paying for text books out of public taxes. The board, in undertaking a change in this policy, would find the expense of an indigent fund to care for the needs of extreme cases a mere farthing as compared with the present outlay.

Tattered and marred text books, purchased at public rather than private expense, are silent symbols of student carelessness and disrespect for property. The gospel of disrespect is bred by the circulation of these books from class to class, from person to person. On the other hand, earnest students find it advantageous to keep their text books for reference. The rich fund of information that they contain should be a part of one's personal equipment, not exclusively an item of school equipment. Our present purchasing system, however, teaches pupils to regard their text books as they regard clothing—in use today, cast off and forgotten later.

It is hard to alter a misguided charity because of the self-centered claims of some of the recipients of that charity, and because of the yoke of custom. Surely, however, times such as these provide an occasion to produce constructive reform in the purchase of text books.

ROBERT CARLISLE.

MAKING FLUNKERS PAY.

Chicago, Jan. 14.—The teachers in Hyde Park High school recently advocated that pupils who fail in subjects be required to pay a tuition fee to repeat such subjects. A fee of eight dollars per course is already charged in the high schools operated during the summer. If tuition was charged for repeating courses during the regular year the effect would probably be to increase the effort of many students who are now doing indifferent or failing work, and thus to raise the educational standards of the high schools. Faced with the necessity of paying tuition for their children who failed, parents might take more interest in their children's studies than is now usually the case. These effects are certainly to be desired.

E. T. NUPPER.

TAXES IN RENT.

Chicago, Jan. 13.—In this morning's TRIBUNE Wm. P. Buckley writes that parents of children in public school should help pay for their children's tuition. I want William P. Buckley to know that the majority of us cheerfully pay our rent every month. If the landlord does not pay his taxes we can't help it. I, for one, don't blame the landlord. Too much has already been paid into the city hall for whoopee for the grafters and padded pay rollers. Another thing, I have no doubt but that the majority of those "hard working teachers" voted for these same grafting politicians.

RENTER.

BUMPTIOUS AND NARROW.

Hubbard Woods, Ill., Jan. 14.—The group of editorials in today's TRIBUNE shows the immaturity of the minds now influencing public opinion through its pages. Because a group of enthusiastic people has decided that this year we are to be "Washington conscious," must a museum of art keep on its walls a painting which, however much its dramatic sentiment appeals to our emotions, does not come up to the artistic standard held by the gallery which had removed it from its walls? The picture might appropriately be given to some historical museum where its very faults as a painting would have the value of characterizing a period and the pleasure in its sentiment would outweigh its quaint exaggerations. But these are not the functions of the Metropolitan Museum of Art.

The other editorial shows a more serious lack of judgment. In asking that the next justice of the Supreme court to be appointed be chosen from Illinois because the last representative from Illinois on the Supreme court bench died in 1910, THE TRIBUNE lives up to the standards of government that it rebukes in the first editorial on the same page. In appointing to the place left vacant by the great justice whom age has just forced into retirement, is there anything that the President should consider but ability and fitness to perform the task?

A real appreciation of our first and perhaps our greatest President, a real respect for the Supreme court and the work done by Justice Holmes in his long term of service are not shown by editorials of such bumptious and narrow patriotism.

RUTH W. PORTER.

ALLEGED INCONSISTENCY.

Syracuse, Ind., Jan. 10.—I read with interest your editorial today, "Nineveh and Tyre," in which you say the plight of England is due to "the enormous load of socialistic ventures." On the same page, in "From THE TRIBUNE'S Columns" of other years, it appears that in the United States during about fifty years from 1873 to 1921, when we were not at all troubled by "socialist ventures" in government, our worthy economic system nevertheless collapsed every ten years. Moreover, you modestly fail to list our present rather robust collapse. And with equal modesty you neglect to mention any possible effect in England of the aftermath of the world war, which was not exactly a "socialist venture," an aftermath that now centers in the interest coupons being presented regularly by the non-socialists who engineered the war—a different phase of the dole.

Our problem is not to do as England does but to avoid the causes that now force her hand, chief of which is the coupon clippers' dole.

A PLACE TO PARE.

Chicago, Jan. 15.—In looking around to find a place to cut in the school system why is it that the lookers are blind to the fact that it costs three times as much for the cleaning and maintenance of the Chicago school buildings now as it did before the employés concerned were raised four years ago, and two times as much for the same work as it now costs in the city of New York?

FORECAST MORE DISCLOSURES ON RUM RING TODAY

Ex-Policeman to Resume Stand in U. S. Court.

Allegations of official corruption in Whiteside county and disclosures of the $12,000,000 midwest alcohol syndicate's activities by one of its members will be resumed today in the trial before Federal Judge Walter C. Lindley.

The direct examination of Clarence [Sonny] Ebsen, rum runner and former motorcycle policeman of Clinton, Ia., will be continued by Prosecutor Daniel Anderson. Anderson said the witness would accuse persons hitherto unnamed, as well as making additional charges against some of the leading defendants.

One of these is former State's Attorney Robert Besse of Whiteside county, who became an assistant to State's Attorney Vincent Bell shortly before the opening of the trial a week ago.

Ebsen has testified that he delivered alcohol to Bell's home and that the prosecutor threatened to kill him if he didn't keep quiet about his release from the Whiteside county jail. Ebsen was released while the government was seeking him with a writ of habeas corpus and he testified that he was told to leave town.

Former Sheriff Jerry Kelly and a former deputy, Lou Harrison, have already been named in Ebsen's charges that Whiteside county officials were "fixed" by Mike Blumberg, Art Cooper and other alleged leaders of the booze conspiracy.

Harry McKee, a private detective who investigated booze conditions in Whiteside county and testified for the government, said Ebsen stated at the beginning of the trial that he wanted "to get even with Vincent Bell" for refusing to return a gun taken during an arrest. Prosecutor Anderson, however, said he placed full credence in Ebsen's testimony. Ebsen changed his plea to guilty and took the stand in the hope of obtaining leniency.

BRITISH LIQUOR EXPORTS HIT BY U. S. COAST GUARD

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Jan. 17.—Tighter prohibition enforcement by the United States coast guard and border patrols are having an appreciable effect on British liquor exports to Canada and the West Indies, it was revealed in the board of trade returns for 1931.

Largely as a result of the economic depression, exports of spirits from Great Britain to all countries totaled only 5,830,195 gallons—approximately 75 per cent of what they were in 1929, and much lower than in 1930. With the added hindrance of prohibition patrols, exports to Canada fell off even more sharply to 823,613 gallons—only 60 per cent of the figure in 1929.

Bermuda Grows Fat Quenching the Great American Thirst

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ST. GEORGE'S, Bermuda, Jan. 17.—This gleaming spot, out in the Atlantic—one of the island possessions of Great Britain—is waxing fat on the business of quenching the great American thirst. Rum runners plying between Europe and the United States have made these islands their headquarters. Even a few days here provide evidence to the most casual tourist that millions of dollars' worth of contraband beverages are shipped from here to Atlantic ports each year. There is not the slightest secrecy about it.

One night, strolling back through the sunset to the hotel, this correspondent's eye was directed to a small gray cruiser tied up at the dock on the other side of a government bonded warehouse we were passing. Talk of this rum runner had been common about the hotel, since two or three of the men in charge of stocking it are guests there. We decided to have a look. A British customs officer standing guard greeted us courteously with a lift of his cap, and fell into conversation immediately about the liquor piled neatly, shoulder high, ready for shipment.

"How much is here?" he repeated. "Well, sir, there's just 1,750 cases here. About $30,000 worth, I should judge, roughly. The rum runner's due to leave tonight, and they'll be getting it aboard any minute now."

Bares Details of "Trade."

With an air of quiet amusement at the quaint American way of doing things, this customs officer gave details of the profitable trade. Liquor cannot be sold under the English flag by law until it is aged three years. But, he said, Americans will drink anything. Therefore this "green" whisky and gin we discussed was being shipped although only a few weeks old. It is sent from abroad and stored in this and other government bonded warehouses at St. George's. The tax is not paid until it is removed from the warehouse for shipment. Hence the check by the customs man.

"All this stuff is made especially for the rum runners," he went on. "You can tell that by the way it's packed in these burlap wrappers for handling. You saw them working here this morning?"

We had seen them from the road above. A crew of five had carried out the required number of cases from storage, packed in wooden boxes and secured with wire. One worked with a pair of clippers, snipping the wires on each box. A second man followed him, with a hatchet, delivering two neat whacks at the wooden box, one one each side, which laid it open like a nutshell cracked in halves, and without any breakage.

Discard Wooden Crates.

The other three members of the group tossed the wooden crates into one great pile along the shore, which later was set on fire. Their weight and bulk are not wanted in the rum runner's cargoes. Then the burlap bound cases were stacked on the wharf ready for transfer to the hold below.

As we stood talking the crew returned from dinner and prepared to set about the business of getting under way. We walked down the line scanning the brands of liquor, the five young, stalwart men paying no heed whatever. "Old Log Cabin" and "Golden Wedding" comprised the major portion of this lot.

Oil casks to fuel the boat were being rolled up and drained into the tanks as we bade goodnight to the customs man and went our way. The rum runner's men were still discussing cabled orders as they worked.

"Did you get that message decoded?"—"What did he want? Pints? Aw, why doesn't he order quarts? Send 'im quarts." And so forth.

Sails for New York.

The S——, the boat we visited, sailed for New York that night. Its American "partners" would meet it in New York harbor on signal, and transfer the "stuff" to shore in small parts. That rum runner was one of three stocked and dispatched in the last few days at this one point in the Bermudas.

Only a few nights ago the governor gave a formal dinner at one of the hotels. In the same ballroom and dancing to the same orchestra was another group, a heterogeneous party of English, French, and Americans, who had gathered informally for coffee and liquors. Half of them were as socially impeccable as the guests of his excellency, even if more obscure. The other half were quite as well dressed and, though heading the rum running groups, were accepted on terms of equality. They did not hesitate admitting their profession openly, even boasting a bit.

Little if any stigma apparently attaches to it, though later in the season, when the population grows denser, the temporary colonists may be a bit more choosey. Just at present the liquor lieutenants appear to shed a certain glamour of piracy and to merit the attention and society of practically every one here.

Jugo-Slavian King to Open Parliament for First Time

BELGRADE, Jugo-Slavia, Jan. 17.—(AP)—King Alexander, for the first time in the history of Jugo-Slavia, will open parliament with a speech from the throne in a joint session of both houses tomorrow.

MEDICINAL USE OF LIQUOR LIMIT LIFTED BY BILL

Senator Copeland Will Introduce Measure.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 17.—[Special.]—The arbitrary limits on the amount of liquor any physician can prescribe for a patient would be removed if a bill to be introduced in the senate tomorrow by Senator Royal S. Copeland [Dem., N. Y.] is enacted.

R. S. COPELAND.

This measure would amend the national prohibition act to enable patients who must have liquor for medicinal purposes to obtain it in any necessary quantities on physicians' prescriptions. It also would enable physicians to prescribe such liquor without recording in governmental offices the disease from which their patients are suffering.

"The 18th amendment does not limit the medical use of liquor," Senator Copeland said. "The national prohibition act and related acts recognize its use as proper, but they lay down certain conditions with which a physician must comply when he prescribes and they prohibit absolutely the prescribing of liquor in excess of certain arbitrarily fixed quantities, for individual patients, except such as are inmates of hospitals for inebriates.

"The conditions long have offended the professional instincts of the great mass of the medical profession. The Wickersham commission unanimously recommended that these grounds for complaint be removed."

TAG DAY ISSUE IS REVIVED BY VETERANS' PLEA

The tag day issue in the city hall has been aroused from its usual winter somnolescence by a petition of the Disabled American Veterans for permission to hold their ninth annual "forget-me-not" day on Feb. 13. If it snows for more than one hour between 6 a. m. and 1 p. m. on that day the veterans want to tag again on Feb. 15.

The petition is pending before the finance committee of the city council. If it follows the usual routine procedure it will be referred to the subcommittee on tag days of which Ald. Sheldon W. Govier [9th] is chairman.

"I'm for strict enforcement of the city tag day ordinance," said Ald. Govier yesterday, "which limits the number of tag days to four. One of those four is 'poppy day' which is shared by the American Legion, G. A. R., Spanish American War Veterans and the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

"The D. A. V. has been invited to join the other veterans' organizations in 'Poppy Day,' but has spurned the offer. Now they want a separate tag day. I think it is ridiculous to have a tag day now. What is needed more is to feed the poor."

IDENTIFY RAILWAY VICTIM.

Fire in Downtown Gary Causes Loss of $55,000

Fire which attacked a three story brick building at 623 Broadway, in the heart of downtown Gary, early yesterday caused damage estimated at $55,000. All the fire apparatus of Gary was called to fight the flames. The ground floor was occupied by a Woolworth 5 and 10 cent store. Water seeped into the basement of a Tittle Brothers meat market at 625 Broadway, causing damage to the stock.

FEUDISTS REST ON ARMS WHILE THEY BURY DEAD

2 Pairs of Brothers Laid in Kentucky Graves.

London, Ky., Jan. 17.—(AP)—An atmosphere of tension pervaded the quiet graveyard of the Baptist church at New Salem this afternoon as the Crook and Johnson clans buried their sons, shot to death in a feud outbreak that claimed four lives yesterday.

In keeping with the mountain tradition that no reprisals be attempted until after the funerals and a brief period of mourning, Homer and Forrest Crook and Henry and Earl Johnson, two pairs of brothers, were laid to rest in the churchyard in which they were shot to death.

Girl Cause of Shooting.

The honor of a 17 year old sister of the Crook brothers was the cause of the shooting yesterday. They had accused Willie Johnson, brother of two of the slain.

Henry Johnson, cousin of the two slain Johnsons, lay dying today in a London hospital. Willie Johnson was released after treatment for a bullet wound in the arm.

Night Watch Over Bodies.

Both families and scores of relatives gathered to attend the funerals today. A night watch over the bodies of the slain, and a few brief words by the officiating mountain ministers, constituted the rites for the victims, buried at different times in separate lots of the cemetery. The bodies were borne from their homes by kinsmen. The Crook and Johnson homes are separated only by a small farm.

Kentuckians Grasp Left Hands as They Duel; 1 Slain

Barbourville, Ky., Jan. 17.—(AP)—Bearing three bullet wounds he suffered in a duel 18 miles back in the mountains, in which his adversary was killed, Walter Smith was brought here today for treatment. Although physicians said he probably would not survive, Smith was taken away by friends before officers could question him. Reports here were that Smith and a man named Gambrell met at a country store on Coal Fork creek and decided to settle an old quarrel. Choosing pistols as their weapons, the men grasped left hands and fired with their right hands. Grambrell was shot seven times.

NEGRO STABBED TO DEATH.

Carey Querett, 33 years old, was fatally stabbed yesterday by Irving Danes in the house where they lived at 5116 South Wabash avenue. Both are Negroes.

HARLAN MINER UNION DEMONSTRATION FAILS; ALL ROADS GUARDED

Harlan, Ky., Jan. 17.—(AP)—The long heralded demonstration by the National Miners' union at Harlan today failed to materialize.

J. H. BLAIR. [Acme Photo.]

Forewarned by "the law" that any attempt to hold a massmeeting here would be broken up, up, the leaders of the union apparently decided against the demonstration, and Sheriff John H. Blair said, "The revolt in Harlan county has been crushed."

The National Miners' union only yesterday announced the meeting would be held. Today sheriff's armed forces patrolled highways west of Harlan and near the Bell county line.

The union maintains headquarters at Pineville. Motorists were stopped by the officers and in Pineville several complaints were made against this procedure.

Charles W. Peters, miner at Chevrolet, was arrested by deputies at the Bell county line after his automobile was stopped. The deputies brought Peters to Harlan, charging him with drunkenness. Sheriff Blair said National Miners' union and communistic literature were found in Peters' possession, and that charges of criminal syndicalism would be lodged against him.

JAILER WISHES CAPONE MANY HAPPY RETURNS

George Gibson, assistant warden of the county jail, having been told that yesterday was Al Capone's birthday, went to the convalescent ward of the jail hospital, where the gangster is held pending action on his appeal from his conviction for income tax fraud, to congratulate him.

"Happy returns, Al," said Gibson.

"Huh?" said Capone.

"Today's your birthday, isn't it?" Gibson asked.

"Naw," replied Capone. "I was born on Little Christmas."

Venereal Disease

This information concerning a serious disease problem is sponsored by the Public Health Institute as a public health measure

TIMELY MEDICAL CARE IS THE GREATEST PROTECTION AGAINST "VENEREAL DISEASE"

An old proverb proclaims that—"procrastination is the thief of time." It is even more serious than that when it's a question of health. For individuals who fail to heed the first signs or symptoms of beginning disease often expose themselves to dangers which may destroy their future health and happiness. Social diseases, syphilis and gonorrhea are particularly outstanding in this respect. Health authorities declare that when neglected or improperly treated few diseases cause as much pain and suffering as these. Of the two diseases syphilis is the more dangerous and destructive. Although beginning locally and for a time limited to a local infection every tissue of the body is subject to its attack. The whole human organism may be involved—the central nervous system and the deeper organs bearing the brunt of this assault.

ADEQUATE MEDICAL SERVICE AVAILABLE TO ALL

Adequate medical treatment is imperative at the earliest stages in order to protect the individual from further complications which may eventually lead to permanent disability. Strenuous efforts are now being made by all health agencies in Chicago to protect the community from the ravages of "Social Diseases"—syphilis and gonorrhea. Infected persons and those who have been exposed to infection should seek reliable medical care immediately. Those who cannot afford the services of a private physician can find good medical care at several low cost clinics. Free clinics are available to those without funds. Co-operation of the public is earnestly requested.

THE PUBLIC HEALTH INSTITUTE

is incorporated for public service, not for profit, under the laws of the State of Illinois. It is an institution dedicated to the object of combating venereal diseases in this community—through organized effort of all social agencies dealing with this problem. Its main clinic for men is located at 159 North Dearborn Street, between Randolph and Lake Streets, a branch clinic at 129 East 31st Street, and the women's and children's clinic, at 72 East Randolph Street.

Dreiser Plays Physician for American Ills

With Leaning Toward Russian Remedies.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"Tragic America," by Theodore Dreiser [Liveright]. Published today.

THEODORE DREISER is one of America's outstanding writers, considered by many critics our most impressive novelist. Witness the passionate wails which went up last year when Sinclair Lewis was presented with the Nobel prize for literature. Most of such plaints came from the throats of those who believed that if an American was to receive the award that American should have been Theodore Dreiser. [The pure, sure voices which made their appeal for Willa Cather were lost in that raucous hullabaloo.]

THEODORE DREISER.

The point of recalling that furor lies in the fact that a writer with such a vociferous following is of necessity a writer with a large critical following, and Mr. Dreiser is unquestionably a writer with—of late years—a vast popular as well as critical retinue. It is only fair to state my own critical views at this moment. "Sister Carrie" was, to my mind, a superb, and a brilliantly honest and daring piece of work, and "Jennie Gerhardt" one of the great novels of American literary history. Some of the sketches—the short stories in "Twelve Men"—were superb. Many pages in the volumes of reminiscence were incomparable.

But the Dreiser of the last few years, the Dreiser of his "masterpiece," as it was called, "An American Tragedy" seemed to me a lumbering artist indeed, a writer upon whom a blight of heaviness had descended, heaviness of thought as well as of style. There is a certain power in heaviness that gives many readers the illusion of importance. To me the "importance" of the Dreiser writing of late years has been merely an illusion.

Those, however, are only my personal reactions to much of Mr. Dreiser's recent work. He certainly has a following vastly greater than he could have dreamed of in the days of those early, superb novels.

It is, however, as an economist that he writes "Tragic America." In it he views the American scene not as a novelist interested in its ironic manifestations, but as an economist interested in its manifestations of national decay. The present system, social and political, he finds rotten at its core, with signs of complete decay so apparent that, according to him, no man can miss seeing the inevitable disintegration.

"All our financiers, who actually have ruled or now do rule American business, were and are lawless," he says, and "today, with machinery at almost the perfection point, they [laborers] are beggars, receivers of charity, while 40,000 millionaires bestride the land." He adds, "banks and trusts buy their own laws and elect their own officials."

Religion and education he finds the handmaidens of capital, all public utilities of advantage to the few at the cost of the many. The Supreme court, to him, is "corporation-minded" and the "constitution a scrap of paper." Even the unions play into the hands of the capitalists, he declares, and crime is the inevitable trailer to the locomotive of capitalistic power. He questions "Who Owns America?" and declares that "the cry of our people should now be:

"We want a government for all the people!"

"No enormous wealth in private hands!"

"We want efficient managers for the benefit of all Americans!"

In a word—a final word of "New Statecraft Suggestions" Theodore Dreiser proposes "an executive power for the American working masses not unlike the communist central committee in Moscow, but composed of American men and women [if there are such] who have made a thorough study of the social and economic ills that today engulf America."

"Tragic America" is really a plea for communism in the United States. How convincing a plea I shall have to leave to economists to decide. To me the book is extremely difficult to read [both in content and because it is printed in a type which has brought blindness at least ten years nearer, I am sure], written with an obvious honesty and sincerity on the part of one of our leading novelists, but with a plodding dullness of style which removes it wholly from the field of literature and lands it in the technical field of special pleading.

Good morning!

This is a fairish movie dealing with the gridiron and the pigskin and men who are men and men who are not.

A varsity football coach and his son are the principal characters. The former is a he man of the first water and the action concerns itself with this Dudley's endeavors to turn into stern stuff like himself the shrinking material that is his son, Bob. Bob is afraid! He can't—and won't—take punishment until—well, that's the yarn.

The story is not a very believable one, despite creditable acting on the part of Jack Holt, an effort at honest portrayal by Richard Cromwell, who is not happily cast, and able enough supporting players. Dialogue is trite and there's not one real good punch in the whole shebang.

Sorry!

"THE SEA GHOST."
Produced by Peerless.
Directed by William Nigh.
Presented at the Castle theater.

THE CAST:

Evelyn Incheape	Laura La Plante
Lieut. Winters	Alan Hale
Sykes	Clarence Wilson
Percy	Claud Allister
Capt. Ludwig	Peter Erkelenz

KIND: Mediocre melodrama.

PHOTOGRAPHY: All right.

SOUND: Ditto.

DIRECTION: So so.

LINES: Terrible! So ten, twent' and thirt' that, at times, you wonder if the film's not a burlesque.

STORY: Hectic affair about a double-crossing lawyer who would do a poor maiden out of her inheritance. To perpetrate this foul deed, it is necessary to salvage a couple of wills that went down in an iron safe that was on a boat sunk during the world war by a German submarine. The ocean and able-bodied seamen get their innings. There's one rousing good fight and several minor combats of one kind and another.

AUDIENCE APPEAL: The little Castle was doing a land office business on the opening day, but I reckon it won't draw any repeaters.

See you tomorrow!

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

IF YOU are curious to know what modern poets are like, what strange, tortured creatures write the strange, tortured verses in random lengths for the little reviews and magazines of literary revolt, you would do well to take a look at Jacob Ben-Ami in the central rôle of "Samson and Delilah," which came to the Adelphi theater last night. For if they are not all blood brothers to the Ben-Ami of this bizarre and vivid characterization, they ought to be. At any rate, I know two or three of the breed whose sardonic personalities and aching neuroses fit perfectly into the picture. Ben-Ami has apparently photographed their souls.

This is the play with which Ben-Ami made his transition from the Yiddish to the English-speaking stage, about eight years ago. It is a queer article from Europe, apparently Scandinavian of origin, but strongly colored by its passage through the Yiddish dramatic repertory. It is post-Ibsen stuff in flavor; and its story deals with a minor adultery in the back-stage life of some small European city—Bergen, I should say, at a guess.

It is an eccentric and slightly daffy little play—an ironic comedy with a tragic ending; and its chief importance lies in the opportunity it gives Ben-Ami for a close study of a crack-brained poet's psychology. His acting, in the leisured pace of his Yiddish training, is notable. At the end of the second act, after his elaborate but touching exit, I heard some enthusiast shout, "Bravo!" and I felt that the outburst had been earned.

A grubby poet who writes a play. His actress wife who nags him, who does not understand him [who could?] and who is betraying him with an overstuffed upholsterer. A rehearsal scene in a provincial theater, where the play with the play—its title is "Samson and Delilah" also—symbolizes the conflict between the central characters. Samson, the poet, distracted by passion for his Delilah, assaults the chief of the Philistines—who is, of course, the upholsterer; and then goes home to commit suicide in a startling manner . . . There you have this bit of outré drama in outline.

Ben-Ami makes it clear at the start that he is giving to the world a picture of a ga-ga—or a Dada—poet. He arises from the luncheon table and endeavors to amuse his petulant wife by standing on his head. All of the post-war Dadaists behaved that way. Then he goes into sarcastic raptures over the beauty of his red suspenders, which he hopes will please his wife, who has criticized his shabbiness of attire.

From irony the portrait changes into jealous snarls, erotic yearnings, and savage rages. When Ben-Ami has finished with his analysis of this fantastic fellow you feel that a unique character study has been added to the annals of the contemporary stage.

The others in the cast may be pased by with the remark that they are merely the others. Francelia Waterberry has one advantage over Pauline Lord, who was Ben-Ami's opposite in the original production. When she appears as the undraped Delilah, the poet's carnal jealousies are understandable.

Doctors Favor Uses of Radio to Aid Health

Thousands to Meet in This City Today.

PRELIMINARY to the gathering this morning of thousands of doctors of dentistry and of medicine at the Stevens hotel for the annual meeting of the Chicago Dental society, officers of the state dental associations met yesterday at the Allerton house.

More than 100 attended that conference, representatives being present from practically every state in the union. Among those present was Dr. Martin Dewey of New York, national president of the American Dental association.

Dr. Alfred Walker of New York, whose address was its feature stressed the importance to the profession of the radio as a means of educating the public to health standards and safeguards. He advocated especially the coöperation of the American Dental association and the American Medical association in urging proper governmental control of such broadcasts. Quackery already has made inroads on this field, he declared, and vigilance must be exercised unless the profession is to lose caste because of these charlatans.

Every section of this country and Canada will have delegates and visitors at the four day sessions of the Chicago Dental society. Because of the consistently superior quality of the programs it presents, and the mass of material available here, the annual gatherings of this local group have for years assumed international importance in this profession, and attract medical men by the thousands.

At this sixty-eighth convention, approximately 10,000 doctors and dentists are expected. Eight sections will be in session simultaneously, and nearly 100 speakers, drawn from the ranks of the foremost authorities in their fields, will discuss topics of interest and value to those present.

Advance in scientific studies of the year 1931 will be reported on at the meeting, and the newest developments in dental equipment and technique will be demonstrated. Among those to be heard are Dr. Dewey, Dr. Arthur D. Black, dean of the Northwestern university medical school; Dr. Peter T. Standish of Loyola university; Dr. Harry S. Thomson of Toronto, field secretary of the Canadian Dental Hygiene council; Dr. A. P. Baur, for fourteen years in charge of dental education in the city's public schools; Dr. Isaac Abt, Chicago pediatrician, connected with Northwestern university; Dr. Walter J. Eddy of Columbia university in New York, and a number of others.

Carved Gold, Jade in Mexican Tomb Rival Tut's Treasures

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 17.—(AP)—A tomb just uncovered near the city of Oaxaca was revealed today as the North American rival of the tomb of King Tut-ankh-amen in Egypt.

The lately opened tomb, which is at Monte Alban, contained the bodies of ten Mextecan warriors covered with mementoes of gold, jade, pearl, amethyst, and alabaster. Some of the ornaments were finely carved and of great beauty.

Those warrior chiefs, according to Alfonso Caso, government archæologist, apparently were killed in battle and buried with all their wealth in great secrecy during a bloody conflict with the Zapotecan people, who eventually conquered.

Three Zapotecan vases were found broken at the entrance to the mausoleum but all the other finds were intact in spite of the great damage caused by earthquakes in Oaxaca for centuries.

Among the valuables uncovered were several crowns of pure gold, beautifully wrought relics of gold pearls as large as pigeon eggs, jade necklaces, rings of gold and precious stones, vases of gold, rock crystal, onyx and alabaster—engraved with heiroglyphics, and a golden mask.

Crowd Hears Mundy Singers Present Song Written by Nobile Cain

A new composition, "Go Down Moses," written by Noble Cain, conductor of the "Hallelujah" chorus at the annual Chicagoland Music festival sponsored by THE TRIBUNE, was given last night by the James A. Mundy choristers in Quinn chapel, A. M. E. church, 24th street and Wabash avenue. The chapel was thronged.

Prof. Mundy directed the interpretation. "Go Down Moses" was written for and dedicated to the Mundy group by Mr. Cain. Mr. Cain, who is conductor of the Senn High school a cappella chorus, was presented with a basket of flowers by the choristers.

Tito Schipa Is Guest of Honor at Italian Feast

Tito Schipa of the Chicago Civic Opera company, was guest of honor last night at the inaugural banquet of Tito Schipa lodge of the Italian American National union, held in the Amalfi Gardens, 175th street and Dixie highway, Homewood. He told the members he appreciated the honor they conferred upon him by bestowing his name upon the lodge.

LEGION AND LABOR GROUP MEETS TUESDAY TO URGE RELIEF PLANS

Industrial, labor and American Legion leaders of ten middle western states will meet at the Hotel Stevens tomorrow to plan a drive for the relief of unemployment along the lines proposed by the Legion's national employment commission.

The program contemplates the adoption by employers of a 6 hour day, at 6 hour pay, a 5 day week, increase in employment wherever possible by 10 per cent, and the creation of jobs by obtaining pledges for building repairs and rehabilitation, a modification of the Rochester plan. Harold L. Plummer of Madison, Wis., national vice commander of the Legion, will be in charge of the middle west campaign, with headquarters in Chicago.

The Chicago workers' committee on unemployment, after an investigation in six sections of the city, yesterday addressed an appeal to the governor and members of the legislature for the immediate appropriation of $15,000,000 for relief.

The Joint Emergency Relief fund will be exhausted by March 1 and the shelter stations will be forced to close by Feb. 15 unless additional revenue is forthcoming, according to Edward L. Ryerson Jr., chairman. Mr. Ryerson conferred yesterday with Dewitt Billman, representing Gov. Emmerson, on the plan to obtain $8,000,000 from the state, to be repaid with a 1 cent county gasoline tax.

Newspaper Photogs Hold Show, Contest Starting Wednesday

A contest and exhibition of photographs made by Chicago newspaper photographers will be held in the Palmer house from Wednesday until Saturday under the auspices of the Chicago News Cameramen's association. More than 850 pictures have been entered, according to Charles H. Keller, president of the association. A $1,500 trophy, given by Walter L. Gregory, manager of the hotel, will be awarded as the grand prize to the cameraman who displays the best picture. Cash prizes amounting to $350 will be given also.

The pictures will be divided into three classes—news photographs, feature, and sport pictures, and awards will be given in each division. Picture editors of the various Chicago newspapers will be the judges. The exhibit will be open to the public.

OUR SECRET AMBITION—

Infant Care Demands Grow in Year 1931

Welfare Society Tells of Staff's Loyalty.

IN the face of a vastly augmented load of work and decreased income during 1931, the Infant Welfare society labored efficiently to keep down the infant mortality rate and to maintain its standard of care for mothers and infants. Such is the report Philip D. Armour, president, will read on Wednesday to members of the Woman's auxiliary at its annual meeting in Zeisler hall of the Chicago Woman's club.

PHILIP D. ARMOUR.

Never in the history of the organization has a finer record been made, the Armour report reveals. Battling against a lowered standard of living due to economic ills, and with serious discrepancies in its financial income compared to other years, the staff yet managed to care for 8,494 cases more than in 1930, and with an increase of only seventeen one-hundredths per cent in its infant death rate.

This increase of fifty-two per cent in the work over 1930, with only the fraction of a per cent of increase in the death rate, could only be due, the president's report will emphasize, to the efficiency, loyalty, and increased effort of the staff of 106 doctors, nurses, and nutritionists.

"It will surprise no one," reads the summary, "to know that the demands upon the society increased over any previous year."

Prenatal	1,390	1,529	1,806
Infant	11,105	10,730	14,326
Pre-school	3,285	4,034	8,655
Total	15,780	16,293	24,787

"The effort that has been made to maintain the standard of work set in previous years is evidenced by the figures quoted," the report adds.

"In the latter part of November, the society's financial condition being called to the attention of the nursing, administrative and medical staffs, they themselves have worked out a salary reduction program which will mean that the rate of pay for 1932 will be slightly more than 10 per cent less than in 1931. Their loyalty to the society and willingness to share the burden is most commendable.

"The income of the society from contributors during 1931 was $181,277.65, or 5.7 per cent less than in 1930. During the last year we received assistance from the Joint Emergency Relief fund to help take care of the overload. Needless to say this was greatly appreciated, and, although it helped tremendously, the amount received will not equal our increased expenses due to the overload being carried.

"The future policy of the society, in regard to a continuation of operating at a deficit, is a serious one and one which should have the consideration of the members of the Woman's auxiliary as it undoubtedly will of the directors. With the approval of both, it has been decided to omit the annual meeting and the publishing of the year book. This decision is with no other idea than that of economy, as both the annual meeting and the year book necessitate the outlay of money which right now the society can ill afford."

A unique feature of the annual report concerns cod liver oil, which is ranked in importance with milk as part of the diet of any child under its care. Because of the greater difficulty last year of securing proper food for the babies, cod liver oil assumes still greater value. During the twelve months, 25,900 pints, or 600,000 bottles, were distributed, at an expense of $13,307. This represented an increase over 1930 of 268 per cent, and over 1929 of 759 per cent.

Chicago Pupils to Give Views on Washington

Theme Contests Compare with Olympic Games.

PUBLIC school students throughout Chicago are preparing to participate in the national Washington bicentennial celebration, according to the announcement yesterday of Benjamin F. Buck, assistant superintendent of schools.

The observance as outlined by the national bicentennial commission includes a variety of programs for kindergarten and primary pupils, essay contests for grammar school children and declamation and essay contests for junior and senior high school students. The subject matter is limited to one phase or other of the life, character or work of George Washington.

The local semifinal eliminations in the declamatory contest among the seventh and eight grade pupils will be held at the Lake View, Crane and Englewood high schools on Jan. 26. Regional contests are to be held Feb. 12 and the state finals are to be held in Springfield on Feb. 22.

All essays must be turned in to Mr. Buck by Feb. 12. The three best essays are to be entered in the state contest against six chosen from other parts of the state. From this a state winner will be selected to be entered in the national competition.

A separate division is provided in the essay contest for high school students in grades from 9 to 12. The regulations are the same. Contestants are limited to 750 words.

Topics suggested by the commission for essays are: George Washington, the farmer at Mount Vernon; George Washington's Spirit of Sportsmanship; George Washington, Statesman and Soldier; George Washington's Sense of Duty; Washington's Balance of Character; The Many-sidedness of George Washington; George Washington, the Friend; Washington's Influence on Our Life Today.

"National contests had their beginnings thousands of years ago," said William John Cooper, United States commissioner of education. "They had their origin in devotion to country and in the stimulation and cultivation of physical prowess so necessary at the time of the preservation of the state. But mental culture is as much a national need as muscular development and in the Olympic and other great contests of the old Greeks the powers of mind and body were both displayed.

"We moderns are less in need of physical power and skill than our forebears but we are not less in need of knowledge of our past history and of the problems of our national and international life. Patriotism means far more than clannish sentiment and explosions of gunpowder. It meant far more to George Washington; and it is highly appropriate that, in this year 1932, we should bring to the attention of our school children the high qualities of the father of his country and the large ambitions for the country which he had in mind."

"American children had one of their first great friends in George Washington," said Superintendent William J. Bogan. "Young and old, we may profit by study of the life and work of the man who said, 'The best means of forming a manly, virtuous and happy people will be found in the right education of youth—without this foundation, every other means, in my opinion, must fail."

Younger Business Men Will Hear Speakers at Wednesday Session

The Chicago Junior Association of Commerce will hold its twelfth anniversary banquet Wednesday evening at the Hotel Sherman. Samuel Insull Jr., chairman of the Joint Emergency Relief fund drive, will be awarded a gold medal by the organization for the most meritorious civic service rendered Chicago during 1931 by a man under 35 years of age.

George Olmstead, president of the United States Junior Chamber of Commerce, and George W. Rossetter, president elect of the Chicago Association of Commerce, will speak at the banquet. The award to Mr. Insull will be made by Robert E. Corcoran, president of the junior association in Chicago.

Attorney Silas H. Strawn of Chicago, president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, will speak from Washington over a country-wide radio hookup in connection with the banquet and similar affairs in other cities.

Foes of Billboards Plan Conference at City Club

Organizations interested in the eradication of billboards will hold a conference on the subject this noon at the City club. It is proposed to appoint a committee at the meeting to press action against billboards.

Speakers will be Lorado Taft, noted sculptor; Dr. R. E. Hieronymous, community adviser of the University of Illinois; Robert Kingery, secretary of the Chicago Regional Planning association, and Everett L. Millard, president of the City club.

Organizations coöperating in the anti-billboard movement who will be represented at the meeting are the City club, Women's City club, Chicago Woman's club, Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs, Garden club of Chicago, Chicago Regional Planning association, Municipal Art commission, and the art extension committee of the University of Illinois.

Show on Feb. 9 to Aid Little Company of Mary

A "Valentine Stage Party" Feb. 9 with vaudeville, movie and radio stars appearing on the stage of the Auditorium theater in valentine frames and portraying in various skits the messages of local and national advertisers will raise a fund to benefit the Little Company of Mary hospital, built and opened two years ago at 95th street and California avenue by the Catholic, nursing sisters of the Little Company of Mary.

LAST YEAR'S WIFE

By ALICE M. WILLIAMSON

SYNOPSIS.

Lorne Carlton and Dick Farrow, popular moving picture stars of Hollywood, sail for Europe on a delayed honeymoon, after a year's happy marriage. Lorne is sad about leaving, as she has an undefinable presentiment of trouble, but Dick is anxious for the adventure. Dick's parents are famous on the stage. Lorne, who fought her way through poverty to the heights, feels that she is not approved by the elder Farrows. Dolores, duchess of Crowninshield, a friend of Dick's parents, has invited the young people to be her guests in London. She is divorced from the duke, but is one of England's most important hostesses. From the first moment of their meeting Dick is a willing captive of the beautiful and charming duchess. Before the visit is ended Lorne realizes that she has lost her husband.

INSTALLMENT XIII.

THESE THINGS HAPPEN.

Queer what an irrevocable sort of sound there can be in the shutting of a door! . . . This was the first time that a door had been thus shut between Lorne Carlton and Dick Farrow. But it really made things much easier and simpler that she should have shut it herself without even a hint from him.

"You were wonderful to me, Lorne, and I'm not ungrateful," said Dick. "It's just that Dolores happens to be a woman in fifty millions. She's a woman that any man would die for."

"Or die of," Lorne thought. Aloud, however, she said quietly that she saw all that, had seen all that, as she'd already told him, practically from the first. She had, therefore, had time to recover from the shock and bid him Godspeed in a new life, for she wouldn't hold him against his will for anything on earth.

"I shall have my work to interest myself in," she added. "Are you sure, quite sure, you won't miss yours?"

Dick was more than sure. Again he repeated that it made him sick to think of acting for the screen. Trivial, almost ridiculous. What a life for a man who was a man! All right for a girl, perhaps, but his one wish now was to get out of his contract, or at worst to break it, even at the price of a lawsuit. As for money, he had saved plenty, even if he never earned another red cent. But he would earn. His book would be out before very long. His publishers prophesied that it would be a best seller, and he would write other books, books of travel, perhaps, with a new point of view, as well as novels and verses. Dolores and he would probably go to the far east when they were married. He knew she wanted to see India and it had been his dream, too, though until now he had never expected the dream to come true. "I dare look forward to the time," he finished rather grandiloquently, "when my name may mean as much to the reading public as it has to movie fans."

"O, it will," Lorne assured him. "Your 'fans' will become your literary public—that is, if you get to work and publish soon."

"I mean that your picture public will remember you for a year—or almost. You may do a couple of books in a year while the name of Dick Farrow as a film star still has its value."

No doubt, Dick told himself, Lorne intended this explanation to be reassuring; yet, somehow Dick didn't feel reassured. Forgotten, would he be? In a year or less, if he didn't work fast, by the public who had mobbed him in Rome and on the Riviera and in Paris, to say nothing of Bond street where he and Dolores could always stop traffic! . . . Still, how little would it matter for the picture star side of him to be forgotten when he had the strong stuff in him to win the intellectual world, as he had already won that modern Helen, Dolores Crowninshield?

"You're being damn good to me, Lorne," he said, "though I know I don't deserve it. But these things happen. And if I thought you could really forgive me——"

"There's no question of forgiveness," she broke in. "It's awfully obvious for us two, coming from Hollywood, and we ought to have thought of it before that—as you say—these things happen."

"I never dreamed that they could happen between you and me," Dick sighed. "You are such a marvelous girl. But Dolores has driven me crazy, mad crazy. She's in my blood."

Lorne rose from the very low chair, realizing that she felt rather cramped and cold, June though the month was—an English June. Before Dick had time to rise too she had stooped to press a kid kiss on his forehead. Sisterly it was, even motherly.

After the kiss she walked away into her own room and shut the door.

Hollywood, generally so quick to believe the worst, could not take in this news. Dick must have stopped in New York visiting Margaret and Dennis. Lorne had come on ahead of him to get the house ready. Her next picture was to be made some weeks before Dick's. But leave him in Europe she wouldn't. They were Hollywood's true lovers. Hollywood was proud of their romance and wouldn't admit that it could fail.

Cautious questions were asked about Dick. Lorne always said: "O, he is all right! . . . Dick is splendid. . . . He didn't need to come on quite yet."

Then they began to make Lorne's picture, "Wickedest Women," and about this time whispers went around that there was a studio "row" on with Dick. He had broken his contract. He wasn't in New York, he had actually stayed in London. Jack Gordon was to be starred in Dick's part. Nothing had ever created a greater sensation short of a murder. Dick would be blacklisted for such behavior. He would deserve it. But—perhaps after all, he didn't intend ever to come back? . . . Something awful must have happened. What could it be? . . . Lorne wouldn't talk. Even her best friends—she had no real intimates—dared ask no questions after being laughingly snubbed once.

Presently Hollywood had a new surprise. The famous Farrows, father and mother, appeared in Hollywood without the newspaper reporters finding out until they were seen in Lorne Carlton's car. They visited her in the pretty little colonial house at Beverley Hills. They stayed a week, though they ought to have begun rehearsals for their new play in New York. They had long, earnest, soothing talks with the heads of Dick's late studio. Gossip surged up and down but the newspapers were silent, or almost silent.

Lorne's picture was finished. Every one who knew anything about it said it was her best and would prove her to be a really great emotional actress. Then suddenly another sensation burst; the papers had it in headlines, and it broke on Hollywood like a tidal wave. Lorne Carlton had divorced Dick Farrow.

Lorne gave an interview or two, knowing that if she didn't tell some sort of story a story would be made up.

She praised Dick. He was a splendid fellow and she liked him as well as ever, but in a different way. Traveling together in Europe as they had done they seemed to get on each other's nerves. Dick was tired of screen work; she wasn't. She wanted to come home; he didn't. While remaining the best of friends they had "agreed to disagree," and all the usual potted phrases which go into such interviews.

As for where the divorce came from Lorne laughed and wouldn't tell, but as she hadn't been in Reno, and in California the law required a year, it must have been either Paris or Mexico.

Most people voted for Paris. Mexico was easy, but perhaps a little too easy. After an absentee divorce it might turn out, if there were opposition, that you weren't properly divorced at all. You discovered that if you wanted to marry again.

Hollywood buzzed like a beehive for awhile, but other sensations broke, and you can't keep up a passionate interest in the same old affair forever. Lorne was such a funny girl! She didn't seem to care a hang. A cold proposition she was in real life, though hot enough in all conscience on the screen, especially in "Wickedest Women"! Probably it hadn't been in her to love any one but herself. If she had been as wild about Dick Farrow as she'd pretended to be she couldn't possibly have endured to come back and live in the same house which they planned and furnished. People remembered how the two had gone about, arm in arm, haunting antique shops and picking up treasures. "Hollywood love!" sneered the embittered ones. But it was good for Lorne's reputation that the elder Farrows had come out to stay with her in that house which had been Dick's.

It would have been even better for her, however, if the Farrows hadn't had their play postponed in New York in order to open in London first and visit the beautiful Duchess of Crowninshield, about whom every one had heard and whom some people remembered seeing in New York before her divorce from the duke.

Evidently, Dick was still in London, though not in a picture and not in a play; but his photograph with the famous parents and with the famous duchess was shown in the rotogravure section of several New York Sunday papers.

Even then Lorne wouldn't talk. She seemed interested.

"No heart in spite of those tragic eyes," people suggested, "or is it that she's found out she likes some one else better?"

When they said "some one" they meant Eddie Waring, who had directed Lorne for the first time in "Wickedest Women." He wasn't as handsome as Dick Farrow and he was a dozen years older, but he was supposed to be the most magnetic director in the profession.

A FRIEND IN NEED

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Family Is Destitute.

"I have been out of work for almost two years, and now when my family is badly in need of warm clothing I cannot buy it for them. The boys are 12 and 1 year old, and the girl is 8. My wife wears size 38 and size 4 in shoes. I wear size 40. Anything you can get for us will be more than appreciated. "M. S."

It's been so long since there was any new clothing in this household that the things they have are literally in shreds. It's particularly hard on the father who must look for work every day and the children who have to attend school. If you can give anything at all in their sizes it will be most gratefully accepted.

Business Gal Wonders if She May Be Friends with Men in the Office

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"Letitia works in an office where there are a number of young men. She asks about office behavior toward said young men. Is it considered businesslike behavior to be nice to them? How does one go about breaking down the business only relationship of one particular young man? And so on.

Is it businesslike behavior to be nice to the young men in the office? The best of business strokes for a woman, if her niceness is so captivating as to graduate her into the domestic arts, I'd say.

Why not be nice to young office workers of the opposite sex? Isn't the business world the modern starting place of many our best romances? Isn't it reported that daughters of our so-called best families envy the opportunity of the girl on the job, where eligible young men spend their day? Aren't some of them quitting the social life for competition in the daily scene?

Some of the nicest romances that have come under my observation have been conducted where typewriters and filing cabinets and counters and such-like abound. The behavior in business circles has its limitations as well as advantages, however. A certain decorum has to be observed. One's best vamping acts were better not played before the eyes of the office force. But one can, nevertheless, get the word over by meaningful glance and occasional daily conversation that the party of the desired part is in nowise objectionable.

You can do a lot of slipping of the word of cheer and praise while the boss' back is turned. The main advantages of the association are the machinations of that well known matchmaker, propinquity, and the common interests people engaged in the same line enjoy.

However, propinquity has its dangers, too. The freedom enjoyed might just turn a budding interest into a cold distaste if the pursuer becomes too feverish in her pursuit. You must use discretion. Make neither yourself nor the admired the butt of the other workers.

To break down the business only relationship one might try outside the office lure. Let the man see you under more romantic circumstances—at your home, say, where some of your other friends foregather for bridge or dinner onr Sunday night supper.

Jack Frost Offers Grand Tonic for a Slow Circulation

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

As I write this the weather signs are that there isn't going to be any Jack Frost petting this year. But everything being so darned uncertain these days, it may be just that Mrs. Winter's bad boy Jack is sitting around, gathering momentum for a terrific cold drive before this even gets into print.

Not that this Frost person hasn't his good points, in spite of his bad skin chapping, red-nosing reputation. Give him a good active germ to prey upon and he can slay it with one good stiff breath. As a matter of fact, he can take a lung or a throat or a nose and so sterilize the area that germs just won't like the clean, healthy look of the place.

So, we had better not be too hard on the old boy. It isn't his fault that skins go purplish under his caress, nor that noses take on their well known high-blown coloring. If everything were O. K. inside and a certain amount of protection given the outside, he would be quite a beauty doctor. So, don't evade him entirely, or he will put the pale, washed out looking curse on you.

The best, quickest, and surest way to learn to meet his overtures with a smile is to meet him out in the open. Let the weak sisters stay indoors and hug the radiators. But if you want to keep life and youth and gloss in that hair of yours, in your skin, in your legs, too, step out in the air frequently.

Honestly, when I get into one of those subway jams of an evening, and smother under the oppressingly evil air, I wonder how women keep their complexions, at all. If they go from there into crowded steam heated apartments and remain there until it is time for work again next a. m., the query is how they keep the spirit to go on.

All of this sort of life is tough on the circulation, the only honest-to-goodness real beauty doctor we have. The older women get, the more they need that outdoor elixir, but instead of it most of them avoid it on every possible occasion.

The steam heated houses and dry, air-heated places of abode, too, do damaging things to hair and skin, as every indoor dweller proves at the end of a winter period.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., Jan. 17.—[Special.]—Vice President Curtis was entertained at dinner last evening by the president of the United States Chamber of Commerce and Mrs. Silas A. Strawn of Chicago in their apartment at the Shoreham.

The secretary of the interior and Mrs. Wilbur returned tonight by motor from Atlantic City, Mrs. Wilbur having motored down there on Friday and the secretary joining her there yesterday. He made an address there.

Dr. and Mrs. John Ryan Devereux have announced the engagement of their daughter, Anne Sinnett, to Lieut. Harry Taylor Chase, U. S. N., son of Rear Admiral and Mrs. Jehu Valentine Chase, the former on the general board of the navy.

Women Republicans Celebrate 10 Years at Hamilton Club

The Women's Republican club today begins another year of endeavor. It celebrated formally its tenth birthday last Saturday at the Hamilton club, where it was first organized.

Dr. Irene Behnke, a founder, was reelected president, and also elected to life membership in the organization. Other officers chosen were: Mrs. Freida Koch, Mrs. Flora Kuntsman, and Mrs. William Westerlund, first, second and third vice presidents, respectively; Mrs. Betty Brown, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Ray Loverin, recording secretary; Mrs. Robert M. Cochrane, treasurer, and Mrs. William Severin, parliamentarian. Eighteen board directors also were chosen.

Barbara Neff, S. Byron Smith Are Engaged

"MR. RICHARD SCUDDER NEFF announces the engagement of his sister, Barbara, to Solomon Byron Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Solomon A. Smith of 1242 Lake Shore drive and Lake Forest," reads a formal announcement which came to our office Saturday for publication this morning.

This tells the story but it doesn't tell it all, for instance, what charming young people Miss Neff and her fiancé are, nor how they have been deluged with the good wishes of their many friends since they started spreading the glad news Saturday night. Miss Neff, the eldest daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Nettleton Neff, was graduated from Dobbs Ferry in 1926 and made her debut at a reception given by her uncle, William M. Scudder [Mrs. Neff was Katherine Scudder] and Mrs. Scudder in 1927. Mr. Smith was graduated from the Hill school and then went to Yale, where he finished in 1928.

Miss Neff and her younger sister, Louise, who did not come out officially this year because of the death last April of her father, although she belongs to this winter's crop of buds, having finished last year at Dobbs Ferry, and their brother, who is a student at Harvard, live at 50 Bellevue place.

Mr. Smith is the eldest son of the Solomon Smiths and is a brother of Mrs. Scott Bromwell [Mari Smith] of Lake Forest, Miss Caroline Smith, and Edward B. Smith. No date for the wedding has been set.

Friends of Opera Meet Today; to Hear Singers.

Mme. Lehmann, Chase Baromeo, and Charles Hackett will give the program at the Friends of Opera meeting this afternoon at the Drake hotel. It will be the last meeting of the season except the annual business meeting to be held next month, and the final program with the opera stars, for this is the closing week of the opera.

Final plans for the French-American benefit program next Sunday afternoon by Chevalier at the Erlanger theater will be made at a meeting of the committee at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon at the Casino.

The Woman's Symphony orchestra will give its third concert of the season this evening at the Goodman theater. Part of the program will be dedicated to the memory of the late Mrs. Albert J. Ochsner.

The annual meeting of the Winnetka branch of the Infant Welfare society will be held at a luncheon today at the residence of Mrs. William Darrow.

Drama League to Be Host to Cornelia Otis Skinner.

The Drama league, which seems more active than ever this winter, announces a breakfast for Cornelia Otis Skinner Jan. 28 at the Blackstone.

A card from Mrs. Waller Borden reminds us that the coming year probably will be crowded with affairs combining political and social interests. Mrs. Borden's invitations are to meet State Representative Robert M. Woodward and Alderman James B. Waller next Saturday afternoon at her residence at 1020 Lake Shore drive.

Dr. and Mrs. Wilhelm L. Baum have sent out invitations to a tea and musical program by the popular Jurien Hoekstra next Monday afternoon at their residence at 1508 North State parkway.

One of the latest gifts to the Art institute is a Toulouse Lautrec painting called "Danseuse" which has just been presented by Frederic Clay Bartlett as an addition to the Helen Birch-Bartlett collection. The painting is one of Lautrec's early works and is described in the institute bulletin as "daringly painted and daringly conceived . . . showing a group of some eight ballet girls dancing diagonally across the canvas from the upper right corner to the lower left . . . we see the stage from a point in the upper flies, hence each dancer is conspicuously individualized."

Several Chicagoans in Phoenix and Other Mild Climates.

From our Phoenix correspondent we learn that Mr. and Mrs. George Gillespie [Katherine Thorne] have taken an apartment in the Patio Royale for the winter, and that the Franklin Martins are at the Arizona Biltmore. Mrs. Walter M. Sheldon and her son, Hedley, left on Saturday for Phoenix. They will be at the Westward Ho until they find an apartment.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hull Ewing of Lake Forest are at their winter estate on Siesta Key, near Sarasota, Fla., for the rest of the winter. Their daughters, Miss Katherine and Miss Helen Ewing, have gone into residence at Hull house.

Mrs. John N. Lee [Lydia Lee] has added to her interior decorating shop on Deerpath road in Lake Forest the quarters which Mrs. Russell Lord left vacant when she moved her real estate office across the street.

Teach Child Right Words and Wrong Ones W'n't Interest Him

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

"And one real problem I have at the present time is to keep my 4 year old old boy from constantly repeating really 'dirty' words that another child in the neighborhood uses." I am purposely using the adjective my correspondent uses because it is in common use.

This is the problem most of us are up against at some time or other, and it is a particularly trying one. The importance of teaching the child at an early age the proper names for parts and functions of the body cannot be overemphasized. It is in the earliest years—as soon as he can understand us—that he can be taught these words until they become a part of his consciousness. If he has this background, the street words he is bound to hear later (whether he lives in the poorest section or the most exclusive) will have only a passing interest for him. They will have an interest, we must admit. They are new, they have a flavor and a raciness that the more proper and dignified name has not. If he has only family names or childish names he is ashamed to use before the boys he is almost driven to accepting theirs.

But if we treat this phase wisely it will be only a phase and not a permanent attitude. Distress, horror, disapproval, the label of "bad" or "dirty," will only tend to impress the word more deeply on his mind and it will have the allure of the forbidden. It is better for him to say it in your presence than for him to save you and say it behind your back.

If it shows signs of becoming permanent then you can take steps. Be matter of fact, casual, at first at least. You can say, "Well, we've heard enough of that, don't you think? Let's go back to the proper words, or our words." And gradually it will slough off, it will have ceased to interest him.

To repeat, it is important that children know the proper names. If they have no criterion, know only the infantile words, it will be much harder to exercise these other names. If, however, all a child's companions talk in this street lingo it is difficult to expect him to speak a different language. We must change the companions, or if that is impossible, then the neighborhood.

For those who are interested in information on proper names of the body and its functions a self-addressed, stamped envelope mailed to this department will bring suggestions.

BY HAZEL MOORE.

Adherents of the dance had ample opportunity in the last two days to indulge their respective predilections for the dance modern as typified by the controversial Mary Wigman in her recital at Orchestra hall Saturday afternoon, and the dance entertainment as practiced by Ted Shawn and his dancers at the Studebaker theater on Sunday afternoon.

Points of difference between the two are more frequent than points of similarity. Diametrically opposed as to inception and intent the two are alike only in the deliberate evasion of any taint of the classic school of the ballet, the sterotyped technic, the ballet slipper and the toe dancing of the famous school that fostered the past glory of Pavlowa and a Nijinsky.

Wigman's dances are evolved from some emotional inner self without the aid of music, though a rhythmic accompaniment is afterwards added through the means of percussion instruments and piano.

Shawn follows closely the interpretative method of catching his dance mood from the mood imposed by the music of generally great composers. Yesterday his dances were done to compositions by Beethoven, Brahms, Reger, Respighi, etc.

Wigman dances with the air of a prophetess, with a fierce intensity that knows no lightness of mood. Even in the blithest of her dances the "Sonnerlicher Tanz" [Summer's Dance], the mood is far removed from gayety. Shawn and his troupe are frankly entertainers, and as such have their light and even flippant moments, with no trace of a message or great belief in their own great place in the sun of the dance art.

Wigman is a law unto herself, and the more easily so in that her technic is her own, her ideas her own, and so she is without contrast or competition in her own line. She is amazingly sure of Mary Wigman. She has developed a superb control, which, added to her vivid ideas of costuming and her original dance patterns and danced with the intensity of a seeress, is unfailingly interesting.

Her total disregard for the elements of charm and prettiness, in fact, her choice of the stark realities as she sees them, is the essence of Wigman. Her program contained a new dance cycle, "Sacrifice," a new suite based on Spanish rhythms and a few of her more familiar repertoire.

Two of the most effective numbers on the Shawn program were "Trois Mignardises," charmingly danced by a blithe young sprite named Regina Beck, and a "Music Visualization" of a Brahms rhapsody danced by Ted Shawn and his four male assistants. The program was long and varied. Audiences for both dancers were large and responsive.

Lauds Kipnis Song Recital; Other Concerts

BY EDWARD MOORE.

ALEXANDER KIPNIS has been recognized without dissenting voice for a number of seasons past as one of the notables of the Civic Opera company. Yesterday afternoon he moved over from the opera house to the Playhouse and demonstrated there that he is quite as much of a notable in the field of song recital.

Whatever was resonant, suave, attractive in the bass roles of Wagner became emphasized at shorter range in the lieder of Schubert, Hugo Wolf, and Strauss. Mr. Kipnis is blessed with both a superb voice and a sense of style. He recognizes both the melody of the composer and the words of the poet, and the two make fine, artistic interpretations. In this he was greatly assisted by an expert accompanist, Egon Pollak, who is more generally known as the conductor of the German works at the civic opera.

The three groups of lieder were preluded by two Handel arias and followed by a group of Russian folk songs.

Jose Iturbi, whose marked gifts as a pianist have been several times made public in Chicago, was back for another recital at Orchestral hall. Dividing his program between the classics and the moderns, he gave half the list to two sonatinas by Scarlatti, Mozart's Sonata in B flat, and Beethoven's Sonata in A flat, opus 110; the second part of briefer works by Chopin, Debussy, Ravel, Albeniz, and De Falla.

He excels in words that demand grace, delicacy, speed, and finish for their proper performance. Wherefore you will find few better Mozart players in the world today, and equally, his performance of the Chopin Etudes is both limpid and gleaming. For these reasons he is popular with his audiences, and he deserves to be.

It is a little out of the beaten track of Sunday music, but the Chicago String quartet playing its monthly series of chamber music at the Chicago Woman's club theater generally manages to be presenting some interesting works. Yesterday's program was a typical example. It contained a quartet by Ralph Vaughan Williams; two movements of the work written by four Russian composers to the honor of the publisher, Belaieff, making a musical pun on his name with the theme of B-la-f; and concluded with the Beethoven A minor, opus 132.

This is an out of the ordinary program and the players, Messrs. Felber, Reiners, Lehnhoff, and du Moulin, are earnest in their ambitions and successful in their accomplishments.

Official Contract

By Charles True Adams

(International bridge authority; author of "Official Contract at Sight.")

Hindsight is a truly remarkable thing. The few times I have attended horse races there has always been some one standing next to me after the race has been won who muttered under his breath: "Something told me I should have bet on that horse." I can count the number of times on my two hands when, at the bridge table, a small or large slam having been made but not bid one or the other of the partnership did not say: "You know, I had a hunch I should have bid a slam on that one." But the fact remains that 75 per cent of all slams that are made could not have been bid, and moreover most of them would not have been made had they been bid.

NORTH (Dealer)
♠—K,Q,J,2
♥—A,10,8
♦—10,8,4,3
♣—K,3

WEST
♠—5,4
♥—K,7,6,5
♦—9,7,6,5
♣—8,7,6

EAST
♥—4,3
♦—A,K,Q,J,2

SOUTH
♠—10,9,8,7,3
♥—Q,J,9,2
♦—None
♣—A,5,4,2

North and South made a little slam, i. e., they made six odd. Not only was there no justification considering their holding for a bid of a small slam, but it probably would not have been made, for had the slam been bid East would probably defeat it by leading the ♠ A and following with the 6 of that suit.

North dealt and bid one spade, East two diamonds, South three diamonds. South's overcall of the opponent's suit, as you should know, guaranteed a game if partner's suit be trump, spades, in this case, and also tells the partner that he can take the first trick in the adversaries' suit. West passed. North now bid three no-trumps. North bid the no-trumps to show his partner that his original spade bid was made on but four cards. A bid of any other declaration following your initial bid in a major suit after that initial bid has been assisted by partner denies more than four cards in that initial major. East passed and South now bid four spades, which ended the bidding.

East opened the ♦ K, which dummy trumped with the ♠ 3. Dummy now led the ♥ 9, West played the 5, and North overtook with the 10. (Note this play as we will refer to it later.) North returned the ♦ 4, which dummy trumped with the ♠ 7. Dummy now led the ♥ 2, West played the 6, and North took with the 8. Again North led a diamond, the 3, and again dummy trumped with the ♠ 8. Dummy now led the ♣ 2, which North took with ♣ K, leading back the ♦ 10, which dummy trumped with the ♠ 9. Next dummy led the ♠ 10, which was taken by East with the A. East led back the ♣ Q. South taking the trick with the A. The ♣ 4 was then led by dummy, North trumped it with the ♠ 2 and proceeded to lead out the ♠ K-Q and the ♥ A for the 11th, 12th, and 13th tricks—making his game and two extra—six odd in all.

The particular feature of this hand was the play of North at the second trick. By leading the ♥ 9 and overtaking it with the 10 he not only kept the finessing position over West's K but left two more entries in his own hand. These additional entries were absolutely necessary to gain the results, as all North's diamonds must be ruffed in dummy before trumps are led.

PLAY-A-PROBLEM: SOLITAIRE OR PARTNERS

Play this hand tonight at your bridge game. Keep a record of the bid and play in the spaces provided. Numbers in the bidding squares are for successive rounds. Check your results with tomorrow's answer.

To play "Solitaire": Record the bids you think each hand would make in the bidding squares. After the final declaration has been made start the play leading from the hand at declarer's left. As you play each card cross it off of the diagram and record it in the proper square, as S. 3, H. K, etc. In the last column indicate the hand which won the round and lead from that hand on the next round.

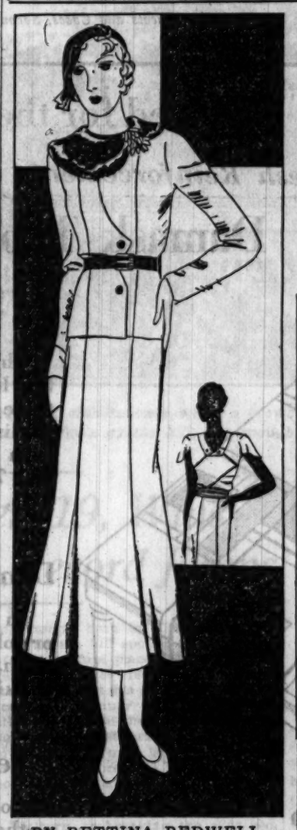
Pale Beige Smart for First Spring Ensembles



BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Beige may be announced with authority as one of the smart shades for next spring. It returns to fashion very pale after an absence of several years. Many a woman will give thanks for this return, as it is both a becoming and a practical shade.

The bright colors that have been high style items for more than a year are being seriously menaced by beige and other neutral colors. It looks as if these gaudy shades might be pushed out of the style picture in another few months. They've had a pretty good day, and may well have run their course.

Be that as it may, though you will do well to keep this prophecy in mind, beige is in again. It is being used by the great French dressmakers for jacket ensembles that are going to be smart next spring and that may be worn under the fur coat instanter. One of these ensembles for spring is shown in our sketch today. It comes from Mirande.

The jacket of this ensemble is a straight, hip length wrap with a brown belt and a nutria collar like a Peter Pan collar slightly askew. This collar is detachable. The closing of the jacket is notched and buttoned with brown buttons.

King George's Crown Removed for Alteration

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Jan. 18.—King George's state crown, the most dazzling object in the jewel room in the Tower of London, was removed for alteration today with the utmost secrecy. Under protection of an armed guard and in the presence of Scotland Yard detectives, the crown was taken to the king's jeweler to be adjusted. The crown was also taken away three years ago to be altered when the king found it did not fit his head satisfactorily.

Lawmaker Fears Rush for Sermons of the House Chaplain

Washington, D. C., Jan. 17.—(AP)—The prayers of Dr. James S. Montgomery, house chaplain, have proved so popular in the past that Rep. Michener [Rep., Mich.] has guaranteed his supply for the future.

Every four years the chaplain's prayers are printed.

Dr. Montgomery has the volume for the Seventieth and Seventy-first congresses all in order, about 165 pages with four or five short prayers to a page.

When Chairman Stevenson of the house printing committee presented to the house the resolution for publishing them, Michener asked how they were to be distributed.

"And the first man there can get them all," complained Michener. "Does not the gentleman think they should be distributed through the folding room?"

SCHOLARSHIPS NAMED FOR JOHN HAY TO AID 5 BROWN STUDENTS

Providence, R. I., Jan. 17.—Dr. Bruce M. Bigelow, acting director of admissions, announced today that Brown university would award scholarships of $400 each, covering full tuition, to five members of the class to enter in September, 1932.

These scholarships are to be known as the John Hay scholarships in honor of one of Brown's most distinguished alumni, member of the class of 1858, later private secretary to President Lincoln and secretary of state in the cabinets of Presidents McKinley and Roosevelt.

The plan has been put in force unofficially for two members of the present freshman class. They are Paul C. Howard of Rahway, N. J., a graduate of Rahway High school, and Quentin R. Cowman of Syracuse, N. Y., who entered Brown from the Syracuse High school.

Food Talk.

A satisfactory pie crust, both flaky and tender, can be achieved by the amateur cook. Whether you use the cold water method or the hot water method, the result should be the same. As we recently have received a number of inquiries for a "hot water" recipe the one below is given. The directions are simple and if faithfully carried out the result is all the best of chefs might ask.

HOT WATER PIE CRUST

½ cup of shortening
1-3 cup of boiling water
2 cups of flour [bread or all purpose]
1 teaspoon of salt
1-3 teaspoon of baking powder

Put the shortening in a bowl and pour the water over it. Beat it with a fork until smooth. Add the sifted dry ingredients. Chill the dough in the icebox before rolling out on a floured board.

Much of the success of a good pie crust depends on the kind of shortening used. Lard and hydrogenated fats, which are a combination of liquid and solid fats, are good because they have a high degree of unsaturation. Butter, on the contrary, has a low degree of unsaturation and does not prove as good a shortening agent.

Another factor in making a successful crust depends on the cook's handling of the dough so that she will not cause an overdevelopment of the gluten in the flour. Gluten is developed if the dough is manipulated too much when the water is added to the flour and fat mixture—this occurs only in cold water pastry methods—and gluten is also developed if the dough is handled too much as it is being rolled out on the board. Due to the fact that one of these dangers can be eliminated with hot water pie crust, many women prefer this way of making pastry.

If your own pie crust, made by either method, is hard to handle, place the dough in your refrigerator to chill. Once it has chilled you will find it is much easier to roll out. Incidentally, it will not require as much flour on your board.

Often we find ourselves with scraps of dough left over from our pie crust. Wad these bits together, roll them out, cut with a glass large cookie cutter, or pastry wheel, and mount them on the reverse side of muffin tins. Don't grease the tins. Prick each tart crust with a fork after you have pressed it down on the inverted muffin cup. Place in a hot oven to puff the crust, and then reduce the heat to finish the baking—just as you do for pie crust. After they have baked leave the tarts on the tins until they are cool. Then fill with jam or any desired filling.

BAKED EGGS

Take as many eggs as you wish to serve. Separate the whites and yolks. Add a pinch of salt to the whites and beat to a stiff froth. Butter a tin, drop the beaten whites in it in as many parts as you have egg yolks. Press little nests for the yolks and drop them on the whites. Bake about three minutes in a quick oven, or until the whites are a light brown. Garnish with parsley, and butter, salt, and pepper each yolk. Serve with crisp broiled bacon.

BOY'S SUIT.

This smart little suit is made of blue cotton broadcloth, with the collar and vestee front of French blue—making a thoroughly wearable and practical suit. Wool jersey will also be good, and you will find it isn't difficult to make. Shrink the material thoroughly before cutting, and do not make too close a fit, for children grow rapidly.

The pattern, No. 2597, comes in sizes 2, 4, and 6 years. Size 4 requires 1⅝ yards of 35 inch material with ⅝ yard of 35 inch contrasting.

BLACKHAWKS BATTLE MAROONS TO 3 TO 3 TIE

MORRISON WINS AGUA CALIENTE GOLF WITH 284

Sarazen Second and Dutra Third.

AGUA CALIENTE, Mexico, Jan. 17. —(AP)— Fred Morrison, professional from Culver City, Cal., won the world's richest golfing stake today, the $15,000 Agua Caliente open, by playing the final 18 holes in 73, one over par, for a 72 hole total of 284. He won the $5,000 first prize in his first appearance in big money tournament play.

Rain or shine, Morrison, who is 31 years old, was on top of his game during the four days' play. He shot a 69 in the rain and mud on Wednesday to land the field by one stroke, took a 74 the next day for a fourth place tie, and after rain forced a one day layoff, came back yesterday with a 68, to take the lead again.

Sarazen Two Strokes Behind.

Two strokes behind Morrison came Gene Sarazen, of New York, who won the first Agua Caliente open in 1930, then worth $25,000. Sarazen took second place money of $2,500. His final round was played in 72, even par, which with his previous cards of 70-72-72 gave him 286 strokes.

Olin Dutra, of Santa Monica, finished with a par breaking 71 to take third place in the tournament and $1,500 of the prize money. He had 73-73-70 on the previous rounds, for a total of 287.

Harry Cooper of Chicago, after being in second place at the end of the third round, faltered on the final nine to take a 76 today. This gave him a total of 289 and put him in fourth place, worth $900.

Lowest in Tournament History.

Even Cooper's 289, although it was five strokes above Morrison's score, would have been good enough to win either one of the previous tournaments here. Last year George Van Elm of Los Angeles and Johnny Golden, Stamford, Conn., tied for first place with 293. Von Elm had a 72 hole total of 294 this year, which placed him in a tie for eighth place and netted him only $260. Golden's final score was 297, which brought him $100 for a 14th place tie.

Morrison and Sarazen said the better scores this year were due to the greatly improved greens and the rule permitting them to improve their lies for the second shot on long holes.

Tied for fifth place with totals of 290 were Charley Guest, Deal, N. J., and Willie Goggin of San Francisco. They won $700 each.

Diegel Drops to Seventh.

Leo Diegel, the home pro, who burned up the course on the first two rounds and blew up yesterday, finished with a 76 for a total of 292 and seventh place money of $500.

Paul Runyon, 23-year-old professional of White Plains, N. Y., and Willie Hunter, the veteran from Montebello, Cal., tied for eighth with 293. Runyon's 76-68-73-76 gave him the honor of leading the youngsters in the play. His second round, made in four under par, placed his name with those of Diegel and Morrison as coholders of the course record. Hunter's cards were 73-73-72-75.

Fay Coleman of Culver City, Cal., led the amateurs. He finished with a 73, which gave him a total of 296, the 17th best score made. His nearest competitor was Joe Hunter of Pasadena, who finished with 298. Johnny Dawson of Chicago was the third ranking amateur, with an even 300.

Fred Morrison, Culver City, Cal., 284, $5,000.
Gene Sarazen, New York, 286, $2,500.
Harry Cooper, Chicago, 289, $900.
Willie Goggin, Lake Tahoe, Cal., 290, $700.
Charles Guest, Deal, N. J., 290, $700.

Illinois at Michigan.
Northwestern at Wisconsin.
Iowa at Indiana.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

There's no rest for the champions, and so tonight Northwestern faces Wisconsin in the Badger field house at Madison. While Northwestern must continue to protect its undefeated leadership in the Big Ten basketball race, Ohio State, the other unbeaten quintet, has nothing to do until Saturday, when it plays the Wildcats at Evanston.

Although Northwestern has won its four games, two by one point, its winning streak may end tonight. The Wildcats only beat the Badgers 31 to 30, and in an overtime at that, in their first meeting. Playing on their home floor will aid the Badgers.

Poser Problem for Wildcats.

The long distance shooting of Bobby Poser, veteran Badger guard, nearly beat Northwestern last time, but the Wildcats don't look for a repetition of that marksmanship. Poser hasn't done as well since.

As usual, the Wildcats, with Reiff, McCarnes, Johnson, and Smith, will have an advantage in height. Ability to follow up long shots should contribute to Northwestern's scoring, for with the exception of the Iowa game the Wildcats found the Badger defense the easiest to break through.

It doesn't seem possible that Northwestern can maintain its unbeaten record all season. It is quite safe to predict that Northwestern will not duplicate its 1931 championship mark of eleven games won and one lost. Two games with Purdue are one item to consider, while the return contest with Michigan will be another thriller.

Northwestern doesn't meet Illinois or Minnesota this season, but Ohio State looms large on the schedule. The Buckeyes also meet Purdue, so the Boilermakers still have a splendid chance to win the championship providing they can dispose of Illinois, which licked them, 28 to 21, at Champaign.

Illini Meet Michigan.

Four teams now are tied for third place, all with two victories and one defeat. They are Purdue, Michigan, Minnesota, and Illinois. Illinois or Michigan will be eliminated from the tie tonight in a game at Ann Arbor. More will be decided Saturday in the Ohio State-Northwestern and Michigan-Minnesota games. Purdue doesn't play this week.

The third game on tonight's program, Iowa at Indiana, provides a chance for the winner to escape from the cellar. A good guess is that Iowa will remain in the depths with Chicago, which has lost two games and won none.

Indiana's scoring power is basis for this prediction. In four games the Hoosiers have made 110 points, only three points behind Northwestern's total. But Indiana has allowed its opponents 145 points, the high total in the Big Ten to date. Perhaps Iowa can take advantage of this defensive weakness. Indiana, however, has met Purdue, Northwestern, Illinois, and Minnesota, and that's a schedule to worry any team.

David Abad Knocks Out Berlier in 4th Round

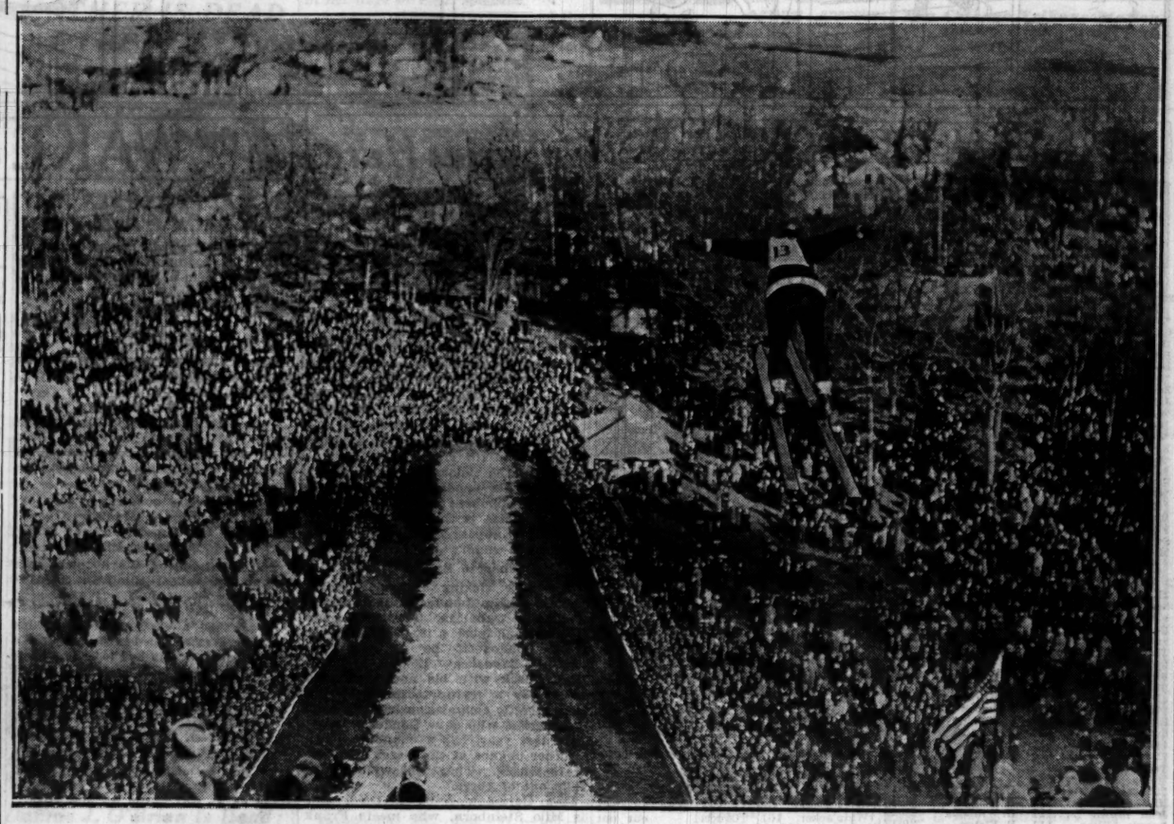
EVIDENCE WE'RE HAVING WINTER



Andrew Olsen of Central, Wis., sails through the air in the Norge Ski club tourney while a crowd of 15,000 waits to see him land and then glide on the ribbon of snow some 100 feet ahead. A warm sun beat down on the hill, but enough snow was imported to cover the Cary slide. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

THURNBLAD AND WESTHUS START 3 CUSHION MEET

BY FRENCH LANE.

The tournament which will decide the world's three cushion championship will open in Chicago tonight and the first player to appear on the scene will be Art Thurnblad of Chicago, who for a year has worn the crown. His opponent will be Bud Westhus, a youngster from St. Louis, who has been playing billiards in a big way down in the southwest for many months.

Then, when Thurnblad finishes his night's work, up will step Johnny Layton, from Sedalia, Mo., who has held the world's championship so often he has to thumb back over the record books to find out when he won it the first time. Layton's opponent will be Len Kenney of Chicago.

Eight Others Start Tomorrow.

After these matches are played a regular parade of all the other cue stars in the world will start tomorrow when, during afternoon and evening sessions the eight other contenders for the championship will swing into action.

Thurnblad, the champion, who played brilliantly a year ago to capture the title, is not the favorite as the tournament opens. He is held at the rather long odds of 15 to 1. Allen Hall was made the betting choice at 5 to 2, with Layton and Schaefer as equal second choices at 3 to 1. Frank Scoville of Buffalo, the sprinkler salesman who virtually eliminated Champion Layton from the tournament last year, and Westhus, who tackles Thurnblad in the opening match, were the extreme outsiders at around 30 to 1 and 40 to 1.

Four Games a Day Scheduled.

After the opening tonight four games will be played daily—two each afternoon and two in the evening. Only night games are scheduled on Sundays. The afternoon games will begin at 1:30 o'clock and the night contests at 7:30. All games will be played at Mussey's rooms at 131 South Wabash avenue.

Norwegian Skier, 19, Wins Cary Meet in Record Jumps

Kaare Walberg, 19 year old member of the Norwegian Olympic skiing team, won the class A championship in the Norge Ski club's 26th annual tournament with two record breaking jumps at Cary hill yesterday. Fifteen thousand encircled the club's slide on the banks of the Fox river to watch the meet.

KAARE WALBERG.

Walberg, who surprised thousands by winning the annual tournament at Oslo, Norway, last year, shot down the tall steel slide and landed on the 183 foot mark, bettering the record made by Casper Oimen, national champion, by ten feet in his second jump. In his first attempt, Walberg leaped 174 feet.

Walberg's teammates, Sigmund and Birger Ruud, stars of the Norwegian team, also thrilled the spectators with spectacular jumps. Sigmund was awarded second place by soaring 170 and 165 feet.

Club Member Hurt.

Birger, jumping from the Cary slide for the first time, leaped to the 174 foot mark, but fell as he shot down the hill and ran into Christ Larsen, Norge Ski club member, who was assisting workmen on the hill. Larsen was the only one injured in the accident, suffering a broken ankle. Birger jumped 182 feet in the second attempt and was awarded sixth prize.

Although a warm sun beat down on the hill and slide, the snow, which was imported from Escanaba, Mich., for the tournament, failed to slow up the skiers. The record for the slide, established by Oimen two years ago, was bettered seven times.

Although the crowd cheered the jumping of the Norwegians, which was the best seen in Chicagoland in years, Al Bakken, who is 43 years old and a member of the Norge Ski club for 20 years, shared the plaudits. Bakken captured third place, jumping 144 and 170 feet with perfect form.

There were two other record breaking jumps, both by Chicagoans, but falls on the hill spoiled their chances of gaining first place. Guttorm Paulsen leaped 180 feet in his second jump, but lost his balance as he descended. Gunnar Oman, Chicago's other favorite in the tournament, winner of the most graceful rider prize in the national meet last year, equaled Walberg's record, 183 feet, but could not keep his balance.

Misses Snow but Stands.

Walberg, in breaking the slide record for the first time with his 174 foot leap, ran off the narrow strip of snow on the hill but managed to stand up and coasted along the bare ground. In addition to winning the class A championship, Walberg also was awarded the longest standing jump prize.

The Ruud brothers, after the completion of the regular tournament, went to the top of the 360 foot slide and shot down to establish a new world's record in the twin jump. Side by side, they leaped 174 feet. The Ruuds, together with Walberg, will remain in Chicago to compete in the Ogden Dunes ski meet at Gary, Ind., next Sunday.

Ole Besseberg of the Ogden Dunes Ski club, with leaps of 155 and 151 feet, won the class B championship. Rolf Wigaard, a clubmate, took second and Daniel Rundom was awarded third place.

The leading point standings and jumps:

CLASS A.

Training Season Opens; Earnshaw at Hot Springs

Hot Springs, Ark., Jan. 17.—(AP)— George Earnshaw, pitcher for Connie Mack's Philadelphia Athletics, arrived here today for his annual spring conditioning. His teammate, Al Simmons, will arrive Feb. 10. They will not report to the spring training camp at Fort Myers, Fla. They will train in March with Milwaukee of the American association and Montreal of the International league.

FOUR CHICAGO SKATE STARS GET OLYMPIC PLACES

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 17.—(AP)—The American Olympic speed skating team was picked here today without trials because of the lack of ice throughout the state. The Olympic skating committee named 13 skaters, four from Chicago.

Go to Lake Placid Soon.

The skaters now are in training at Speculator, but will go to Lake Placid with their coach, William M. Taylor, before the end of next week.

Jaffee, Bialis, Murphy and Farrell competed in the 1928 winter Olympics at St. Moritz, Switzerland. Bialis also skated in the 1924 Olympic competition.

The committee said the women's team would be named after the women's national championships at Oconomowoc, Wis., next week.

The Olympics committee that made the selections is headed by Joseph K. Savage of New York. The other members are Charles H. Goldsmith of Saranac Lake, secretary; William Carroll Hill, Boston; William J. O'Hare of Lake Placid, and Frank M. Kalteux of Chicago.

Skaters Get Assignments.

Shea, North American speed skating champion two years ago, was named as a possible competitor in all except the 10,000 meter race. The other tentative assignments:

Potts, 500 and 1,500; Guenther, 500 and 1,500; Farrell, 500; Murray, 500 and 10,000; Dietz, 500 and 10,000; Schroeder, 5,000 and 10,000; Taylor, all four events; Wedge, 500, 5,000 and 10,000; Murphy, 1,500 and 5,000; Bialis, 1,500, 5,000 and 10,000; Jaffee, 1,500, 5,000 and 10,000, and Springer, 5,000 and 10,000.

Detroit, 4; New York Rangers, 2.
Chicago Blackhawks, 3; Montreal Maroons, 3 [overtime].

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 17.—(AP)—New York's league leading rangers, their squad reduced by injuries, were defeated, 4 to 2, by the Detroit Falcons tonight in a National Hockey league match before 8,500 spectators.

Victory for the Falcons, who have been at the bottom of the league's American section for weeks, put them in a tie for third place with the Boston Bruins.

Frank Carson, new Falcon wingman, scored two of the Detroit goals, while Danny Cox, and Hec Kilrea, forwards, each scored once. The Rangers, playing without Bun Cook, Earl Siebert, and Douglas Brennan, all out with injuries, were unable to score until late in the second period, when Keeling tallied. Bill Cook scored the second New York goal, late in the final period. Lineup:

AMERICANS, 4; TORONTO, 0.

New York, Jan. 17.—(AP)—The New York Americans defeated the Toronto Maple Leafs tonight for the first time in five National Hockey league games this season. The score was 4 to 0. The defeat gave the Americans second place in the Canadian division by a two point margin over the Montreal Canadiens, but left Toronto safe at the top.

CHICAGO SKIER FIRST IN TRIALS FOR OLYMPICS

Canton, S. D., Jan. 17.—(AP)—Roy Mikkelson of the Norge Ski club of Chicago, stole distance honors from Caspar Oimen, national champion, jumping for the Sioux Valley club, in the Olympic ski tryouts here today.

Mikkelson leaped 157 feet on his first attempt and then bettered that by three feet on his second trial for a total of 317 feet. Oimen leaped 155 feet on his first trip and then made the longest jump of the day, 161 feet, for a total of 316 feet.

Jumpers were unable to put forth their best efforts because of a wind which threatened to spill them. Eighteen ski jumpers of national fame competed in the tryouts, which will be continued next Sunday.

Officials had announced late Saturday that competition was postponed until next Sunday, when a snowstorm spread over eastern South Dakota. Clearing weather and sunshine today, however, led to a decision to divide the events into two days with the jumpers competing both today and next Sunday.

Cleveland Fans Break Up National Cup Soccer Game

Cleveland, O., Jan. 17.—(AP)—Spectators at the soccer match between the Cleveland Shamrocks and the Detroit Sons of Malta engaged in a minor riot on the field today. The game was a quarter final of the western district of the national amateur cup and ended in the first half with Detroit leading, 1 to 0. It will probably be replayed, officials said.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

It remained for the lowly Maroons of Montreal to come to town with the best hockey game of the year— a stirring 3 to 3 overtime battle with the Blackhawks at the Stadium last night which had only one marring feature. Stew Adams, brilliant forward of the Hawks, had his left arm broken and will be out for the remainder of the season.

The Maroons, though they are in the National league cellar, have scored the astonishing total of 69 goals. The slashing offense which has enabled them to hang up this big total never was more brilliant than last night, and no better team work has been shown all year than that effected by the visitors in their second Stadium clash of the year.

Hard, Bruising Hockey.

It is difficult to praise hard, bruising play when it results in the breaking of an athlete's arm, but last night's battle had the 10,000 customers in a furore from the first whistle to the buzzer which terminated the fray.

Though the game was terrifically rough, the maneuvers were well ordered. This is revealed in the nature of the scoring, which showed sparkling team work. Of the six goals, only one was unassisted. Four were on double assists and the other was an assisted accomplishment.

One line made all the scores for each team, an almost unprecedented occurrence in a high scoring game. Moreover, the Hawks were leading within three minutes of the normal finish, but the Maroons tied it when the third period was one minute and 45 seconds from the end.

The Montreal goal which tied the score at 2 to 2 also came in the waning moments of the second period. It was scored within 35 seconds of the finish.

Northcott Scores Two Goals.

Baldy Northcott scored the first two Maroon goals on passes from Smith and Ward, and he passed to Ward for the third goal. Rivaling the brilliance of this trio was the work of Lowrey and Thompson, though assistance wasn't as consistent in their case.

Lowrey scored the first goal with assists from Thompson and Wentworth; Thompson scored the second goal unassisted, and Lowrey came back for the third goal, this time on assists from Ingram and Thompson.

The first period was a hummer in which the Hawks made two scores and the Maroons one. One of the Hawks' markers and the one by the Maroons were accomplished on double assists, testifying to the character of team play that prevailed during the session.

Hawks Score on Double Play.

As the first period approached the halfway mark the Hawks decided the Maroons had been having too much fun. Wentworth grabbed the puck in his own defense zone and took it across both blue lines for a long shot which Thompson deflected when he saw it wasn't going for the cage. Lowrey then picked up the rubber about six feet from the cage and lifted it over Walsh as the latter sprawled in a panicky attempt to ward off the shot. The time was 9:40.

Thompson got himself another point for the record books during his next hitch on the ice. Paul took the disk down the left boards, swerved around Trottier and hooked a shot around the left goal upright.

The Northcott-Smith-Ward line came on the ice and staged another of its terrific onslaughts. Gardiner heroically stood off two big forays but the defense men couldn't get the rubber out of the defense zone and in 16:25 Northcott, on assists by Smith and Ward, banged one past Chuck to make the count 2 to 1, the tabulation when the period ended.

Maroons Tie Score.

The goal with which the Maroons set the score at 2 to 2 was the third double assist marker of the game and the second by the Northcott-Smith-

K. C. QUINTETS END 1ST ROUND; TWO UNBEATEN

Marquette Misses Free 12 Throws; Loses, 21-17.

First round play in the Knights of Columbus Basketball league ended yesterday with only two of the 43 teams undefeated—Hildebrand in the west division and Lafayette in the central. Both won close contests to maintain their sectional lead.

Marquette's inability to make free throws permitted St. Cyr, north division leader, to win, 21 to 17, at the Rainbo Fronton. The losers made only three out of fifteen free throws. Lineups:

COULON CARDS FOUR FEATURE BOUTS TONIGHT

Matchmaker Johnny Coulon has announced an all star card for the weekly boxing show at Marigold gardens, Broadway and Grace street, tonight. Tony Muscarello will meet Harold Dunnington at 130 pounds, Solly Dukelsy will be paired with Anton Hedman at 150 pounds, and Jimmy Christy will face David Olalde. In the light heavyweight division Steve Selgrat will box Tony Sutton.

Joe Summers and Merrill Tonr, Chicago amateur heavyweights, will appear in the feature event of Kid Howard's amateur boxing show at the Arcade gymnasium, 325 West Madison street, tomorrow night. Both men reached the semi-finals in last year's TRIBUNE Golden Gloves tournament.

Tomorrow's bouts will be the first of a series to pick the gymnasium's team in this year's Golden Gloves. Jack Blackburn, old time Philadelphia lightweight, who is now boxing instructor at the Arcade, will have charge of the boxers who will represent the gymnasium.

An eight round bout between Jackie Stewart, Louisville, Ky., featherweight, and Babe Colima of Mexico has been added to Pep Kerwin's boxing show at the Rainbo fronton Friday night. Harry Dublinsky, Chicago junior welterweight, and Jackie Davis, former Golden Gloves star, will resume training at the Arcade gymnasium today for their eight round windup.

King Levinsky will start training Wednesday at Trafton's gymnasium for his fight with Max Baer at New York Jan. 29. He will leave for New York a week before the bout.

Mique Malloy will use Johnny Baima, Lawndale middleweight, on one of two cards next week. He is planning to use him at White City one week from tonight or at St. Louis Jan. 28. Jackie Horner is the proposed St. Louis foe.

Henry Firpo and Bud Saltis, 160 pound boxers, meet in the windup of a show at Indianapolis, Ind., tomorrow night. Firpo left for Indianapolis yesterday and Saltis departs today. They are scheduled to fight ten rounds at 162 pounds.

His willingness to help Jackie Fields get in shape for the welterweight championship match against the champion, Lou Brouillard, at the Stadium Jan. 28 brought Henry Lenard, South Chicago southpaw, out of retirement. Lenard engaged in his last encounter seven months ago. He will box with Fields this afternoon.

Petrolle, Ran Box Friday Night in Week's Headliner

New York, Jan. 17.—(AP)—Two of the hardest punchers among the welterweights, Billy Petrolle of Fargo, N. D., and Eddie Ran of Poland, collide in the feature match of this week's national fistic card.

They will fight ten rounds or less in Madison Square Garden Friday night with Petrolle the heavy favorite, chiefly because of his long experience.

At Philadelphia tomorrow night, Tony Canzoneri, double titleholder will defend the lesser of his two crowns, the junior welterweight championship, against Johnny Jadick of Philadelphia. The bout is at ten rounds and Canzoneri's lightweight championship will not be at stake. Bouts on the national schedule include:

Monday: At Philadelphia—Tony Canzoneri vs. Johnny Jadick, junior welterweights [10] (title); Vince Dundee vs. Jimmy Smith, middleweights [10]. At New York—Vidal Gregorio vs. Johnny Pena, and Antol Kocsis vs. Angie Ruggiero, all featherweights [each 10]. Joe Glick vs. Eduardo Duarry, welterweights [6]. At Cleveland—Frankie Wallace vs. Sammy Farber, featherweights [6]. At Joplin, Mo.—Stinger Steele vs. Lou Terry, lightweights [15]; Buddy Kerby vs. Dave Barry, featherweights [6]. At Minneapolis—Dick Daniels vs. Art Lasky, heavyweights [10].

Tuesday: At West Palm Beach, Fla.—Mickey Cohen vs. Willard Brown, lightweights, and Jackie Shubeck vs. Roy Mitchell, welterweights [each 10]. At Indianapolis—Henry Firpo vs. Bud Saltis, middleweights [10]. At Los Angeles—Ceferino Garcia vs. Alfredo Gaona, welterweights [10].

Wednesday: At Boston—Billy Hood vs. Leslie Baker, middleweights [10]. At San Francisco—Pinto De Sa vs. Ramon Montoya, junior lightweights [10]. At Seattle—Doc Snell vs. Eddie Volk, welterweights [8].

Friday: At New York—Billy Petrolle vs. Eddie Ran, welterweights; Chick Devlin vs. Humberto Carri, welterweights; Joey Lagrey vs. Dave Shade, middleweights, and Eddie [Kid] Wolfe vs. Paulie Walker, middleweights [each 10]. At Detroit—Jimmy Hill vs. Ted Yarosz, welterweights [10]. At Cleveland—Ross Fields vs. Juan Cruz, bantamweights, and Jimmy Vaurhn vs. Eddie McCarthy, featherweights [each 6]. At Hollywood, Cal.—Red Stephens vs. Joe Palazula, lightweights [10].

Barrett A. C. Girls Beat Franklin-Kelleys, 17 to 6

The Barrett A. C. girls' basketball team won its 17th consecutive victory last night by defeating the Franklin-Kelley girls, last year's Central A. A. U. champions, 17 to 6, at Almira Simons park. Lillian Rozhon and Mary Fandell led the victors with 7 points each.

Zaharias Here for Dusek Bout; Has New Hold

George Zaharias, claiming a new wrestling hold, arrived yesterday and predicted dire things for Rudy Dusek, his opponent tomorrow night at the Rainbo Fronton, Clark street and Lawrence avenue. They will clash in the main event of a five match program.

Zaharias refused to describe the hold, as he is reserving it for Dusek's inspection in the ring.

Dubbed the Colorado Cry Baby because of his appeals to the referee when an opponent tries to outrough him, Zaharias is the most unpopular wrestler to appear here in years. He is booed in victory or defeat.

Winner to Seek Londos.

Dusek is risking another possible chance at Jim Londos in his engagement with Zaharias. The Omaha Bohemian will post a $2,500 forfeit to meet Londos if he is successful against Zaharias. Londos recently beat Dusek with his new neck lock and Rudy is trying to have the Illinois athletic commission bar the hold.

Zaharias, who gave Londos a battle here last year, has a chance to earn another chance at the Greek if he defeats Dusek. They will wrestle two falls out of three.

Two Germans are on the card. One is Milo Steinborn, who meets Frank Bronowicz, Polish heavyweight, in the semi-windup. The other is Hans Bauer, who will oppose Gino Garibaldi, Italian youngster.

Collegians on Card.

U. S. DOUGHBOYS BEAT US! GERMAN WAR HEROES SAY

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Jan. 17.—The former heirs to the thrones of Germany, her generals and those enlisted men who opposed American troops in the world war are unanimous in their appraisal of the American soldier—"a man of superb courage and recklessness." Some add that he often lacked sufficient military training, for which America's heavy losses must be blamed, but they are practically agreed in their conviction that it was the American doughboy with his superior equipment who won the war for the allies.

Some of Germany's most famous generals, who stood opposite American troops, have been interviewed. Former Crown Prince Rupprecht of Bavaria was "the real scrapper" among German princes. He shares the opinion of former Crown Prince Friedrich Wilhelm of Prussia and Germany.

"U. S. Troops Beat Us."

"As the war progressed I was permanently worried by the thought that the United States might possibly enter the war on the side of our enemies," Rupprecht said. "American support to the allies, war material at the beginning and troops at the latter part of the struggle brought about our defeat. The American forces opposing us consisted of young, strong men trained in sports."

Another, Gen. Hans von Seeckt, former chief of staff of the Mackensen army, is also convinced that America did considerable to help win the war. Gen. von Seeckt, commander-in-chief of the reichswehr for six years after the conflict and mentioned as presidential candidate next spring, said:

"In the world war America created, in a relatively short time, a well equipped army, inspired by a great spirit of attack. The fresh American troops, thrown into line at a front weakened by years of fighting, decided the fate of the war. The heavy losses suffered by the American troops were due to their great spirit of attack and their lack of war experience. As far as the American forces were able to work independently, American generalship was quite up to the mark."

Stresses Lack of Training.

Gen. von Einem, former commander of the third German army, stressed the lack of training which handicapped the American soldier compared to men who had fought for three and one-half years. His troops fought American troops between Aisne and Meuse.

"If the war had lasted longer the Americans would have become real soldiers, and very good ones at that," he said. "Compared to our old veterans, the Americans were mere bearers of arms. What the Americans lacked in war experience they made up by great pluck and devotion to their cause."

"The Americans were great fellows, tremendously plucky—but real children in battle," said Gen. Wilhelm Heye, former commander in chief of the reichswehr.

"I saw the American infantry advancing near Dun, Moselle. Shoulder to shoulder, wave upon wave, a sea of khaki! One wave was mowed down, and a second, third, fourth successively rushed onward over the bodies of their comrades. Ruthlessly, regardless of losses, the attack was carried forward. The moral effect of the American onslaught on our depleted and spent troops was tremendous."

"Defiant of death, the American troops did their duty," said Count von der Schulenburg, the former crown prince's chief of staff.

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: Out Again

J. W. LANGLEY, A CONGRESSMAN 10 TIMES, DEAD

Once Elected After Rum Conviction.

Pikeville, Ky., Jan. 17.—[Special.]—John W. Langley, who was elected to congress ten times, once while under sentence to the penitentiary as a booze conspirator, died at his home here today. The former congressman, who had been ill for several days with pneumonia, was 69 years old.

JOHN W. LANGLEY.
[Acme Photo.]

Langley was convicted on charges of illegally diverting whisky from a bonded warehouse and conspiracy against the dry law in 1924. The prosecution, led by Mrs. Mabel Willebrandt, former assistant attorney general, introduced his bank accounts, showing that he had deposited $105,000 in three years, while his salary was $7,500.

Pardoned by Coolidge.

The congressman entered the penitentiary at Atlanta in 1926 and was paroled after serving eleven months. President Coolidge later granted him a full pardon and restored his citizenship.

Pending his appeal from conviction on the booze charges, Congressman Langley was a "vindication" candidate for reelection and was successful. His wife, Mrs. Katherine Langley, succeeded him after he went to prison.

Accused in Bribery Case.

The report of a Chicago federal grand jury in 1924 on alleged scandals in the administration of the veterans' bureau accused certain congressmen of bribery.

Congressional inquiry followed, and Langley, it transpired, was one of those accused. He made a speech in the house, declaring "before Almighty God," he had committed no crime and asking his friends to clear his name, which brought great applause.

JOHN MAHAFFY DEAD; VETERAN DRUGGIST HERE

John A. Mahaffy, 59 years old, 7245 Vernon avenue, a past president of the Illinois Pharmaceutical association, died yesterday in the Woodlawn hospital after an illness of several months.

Mr. Mahaffy came to Chicago from Red Oak, Ia., forty years ago and had been in the drug business for more than three decades. He was a member of the Chicago and the National Druggists associations and one of the organizers of the Chicago Veteran Druggists association. He is survived by his widow and one son.

Funeral services will be held at 7350 Cottage Grove avenue tomorrow at 2 p. m. Burial will be in Mount Hope cemetery.

PIONEER IN SILK HOSIERY BUSINESS IS DEAD AT 72

Dover, N. J., Jan. 17.—[Special.]—Paul Guenther, 72, pioneer in the manufacture of silk hosiery in America, who came to this country a poor man at the age of 30 and built up what is now one of the largest silk hosiery fabricating plants in the United States, died today at his Rockaway home near here.

Mr. Guenther's business career was notable for his consideration for his employés. He frequently cared for workers who were ill and built and sold homes to them on the installment plan.

C. H. Nigg, Life Resident of Near North Side, Dead

Funeral services will be held today at the chapel at 200 East Erie street for Charles H. Nigg, 58 years old, 812 Rush street, a life-long resident of the near north side. Mr. Nigg, who was an oiler at the Chicago avenue pumping station for 34 years, died there Friday of heart disease. His widow, Christina; two brothers, Fred and John, and a sister, Miss Augusta Nigg, survive. Burial will be in Montrose cemetery.

G. E. Q. JOHNSON'S MOTHER IS DEAD AT THE AGE OF 86

Mrs. Mathilda Johnson, mother of United States District Attorney George E. Q. Johnson, died in her home at 626 Wellington avenue yesterday of bronchitis. She became ill three weeks ago.

Mrs. Johnson, 86 years old, was born in Smaland, Sweden, and came to America when she was 3 years old. The family established residence at Victoria, in Knox county, Illinois. As a child Mrs. Johnson heard several of the debates between Lincoln and Douglas.

"My mother kept a vivid impression of Lincoln," said District Attorney Johnson last night. "She heard him debate a number of times with Douglas, and delighted in telling of her recollections of those historic incidents."

Shortly after the civil war, Mrs. Johnson—then Mathilda Linderholm—was married to John Johnson, also of Victoria. In 1868 they moved by covered wagon to Dayton, Ia. The family crossed the Mississippi river by ferry while the stock swam across. The Johnsons moved to Chicago in 1897 to give their children better educational facilities. In 1900 Mr. Johnson died, and since then Mrs. Johnson had lived on the north side.

She was the mother of nine children, seven of whom survive. They are District Attorney Johnson, Dr. O. T. Johnson, Attorney J. Arthur Johnson, Paul Johnson, Mrs. Jennie Burgh, Mary L. Johnson, and Hilda Johnson. Funeral services will be held at Mrs. Johnson's late home tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock, with interment in Mount Olive.

Mrs. Johnson's grandparents helped found the first Swedish Methodist church in Illinois at Victoria in 1851.

Dennis J. O'Brien Is Dead; Known on La Salle Street

Dennis J. O'Brien, well known in La Salle street brokerage circles and for many years identified with the packing industry, died last night in his residence at 6031 Drexel avenue after an illness of two weeks. He was 55 years old and a native Chicagoan. Mr. O'Brien entered the packing business in his youth, became a broker, and later was associated with Swift & Co. He was also associated with Charles H. Sullivan, late board of trade member. In recent years Mr. O'Brien devoted his entire time as executor of the Sullivan estate. He is survived by his brother, Cornelius P. O'Brien, of the Pinkerton service, and a sister, Mrs. Julia Armstrong. Funeral services will be held Wednesday at St. Anselm's church, 61st and Michigan. Burial will be in Calvary.

ROYAL GLITTER MARKS FUNERAL OF QUEEN SOPHIE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

FRANKFORT-AM-MAIN, Germany, Jan. 17.—The great hall of the Friedrichshof castle at Kronberg, dimly lit with flickering candles and surrounded by masses of flowers, was an impressive setting this evening for the funeral service of the former queen mother, Sophie, of Greece.

The coffin rested under a silk covering on a dais surmounted by a canopy. At its head the dead queen's crown lay on a cushion of purple velvet and ermine. At its foot were many high Greek decorations she had worn in her days of regal splendor.

A guard of honor stood around the coffin with bowed heads, hands resting on drawn swords. In the guard was Sophie's son, Prince Paul, two former Greek officers in civilian attire, and two former German officers in uniform.

Hohenzollerns Are Present.

The house of Hohenzollern was represented by the former crown prince with the former crown princess; Eitel Friedrich, former Kaiser Wilhelm's second son, and August Wilhelm, his fourth son.

Eitel Friedrich, on behalf of the former kaiser—a brother of the deceased—laid a laurel wreath at the foot of the coffin. The ribbon, in monarchist colors of black, white, and red, only bore the inscription "W and H"—Wilhelm and Hermine.

The mourners entered the hall led by Sophie's son, George, once king of Greece, who escorted the deceased's sister, the Landgravine Margarete, whose husband, Landgrave Friedrich Karl of Hessen, is owner of Friedrichshof castle. They were followed by Sophie's other children, Helen, former wife of King Carol of Rumania, Irene and Catherine. Among the other mourners were the former kaiser's daughter, the duchess of Brunswick, and her husband, and also the grand duke, Ernst Ludwig of Hessen, and Prince Alexander Friedrich of Hessen.

Buried at Florence.

Many deputations from military associations attended. They included former officers of a former regiment of guards, commanded by Queen Sophie. Only a half-dozen were in uniform.

The body will be conveyed on Monday to Florence, Italy. It will be laid to rest there beside Sophie's husband, former King Constantine.

VALUE OF LEGION TO NATION AS POLITICAL INFLUENCE DEBATED

New York, Jan. 17. — [Special.] — Representative Hamilton Fish Jr. of New York and Marcus Duffield, author, debated today before a microphone in radio station WOR on the subject: "Resolved: That the American Legion Is an Asset to the Nation." Mr. Fish defended the Legion and Mr. Duffield took the negative.

HAMILTON FISH JR.

The Legion, Mr. Fish maintained, is a bulwark for law and order, against anarchy or revolution. He emphatically denied that it had ridden roughshod over its own constitution, which specifies that it shall be absolutely nonpolitical, and branded as "unfair, untrue and iniquitous" the charge that the Legion had "raided the treasury" through the last veterans' loan.

Mr. Duffield, on the other hand, maintained that the Legion does play politics, that it maintains a lobby in Washington, that the Legion lobby chief writes bills that go into the nation's statute books, "just as he wrote them, word for word, comma for comma." He also held that "the Legion bullies congress" and that it has become so strong that it can actually force bills through congress over the veto of the President."

Mr. Duffield conceded that the Legion "builds playgrounds, cleans and brightens the home town, and is kind to mothers and orphans," but insisted that "the Legion has gone on the wrong path" by taking a hand in politics. The Legion is becoming a party in itself, "arrogating to itself the right to decide vital issues of national policy. The Legion knows its power and boasts about it. We have over us King Legion. Is that an asset?"

BENEFITS SEEN IN OIL INDUSTRY DUE TO MERGERS

Nation-Wide Service Is Aim of Combines.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 17.—The tendency during the last few years toward the merging of large companies in the oil industry is described as a development which no doubt will prove beneficial to the industry in that it is gradually removing some of the uncertainties which have been responsible, in part at least, for its unsettlement.

This trend is said to be due to the keen competition which demands that a company obtain as large a percentage of profit as possible from every branch of the industry by having crude oil outputs and transportation systems commensurate with its refining capacities and marketing outlets.

Ever since the dissolution of the old Standard Oil company in 1911 by a decree of the Supreme court of the United States there has been a constant and gradual integration of oil companies, due to economic changes brought about by the increasing use of motor transportation, which has resulted in a steady gain in the consumption of gasoline.

Large Deals Undertaken.

However, it has been only recently that mergers such as the Standard Oil Company of New York and the Vacuum Oil company, completed last summer; the Sinclair Consolidated Oil corporation, the Prairie Oil and Gas company, and the Prairie Pipe Line company, now in its final stages, and the proposed consolidation of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey and the Standard Oil Company of California have been undertaken.

The trend in the industry toward consolidations such as these, it is claimed, is not for the purpose of creating a monopoly, which is not regarded as possible under existing conditions. It is mainly for the purpose of building up nation-wide integrated organizations through which a company may receive as near as possible 100 per cent of the profit from every stage of operation from the production of crude oil to the sale of the finished products to the ultimate consumer.

Operating in this manner, it is possible for a company to lose money in one branch of the industry for a period of years and still continue making a good profit.

Require Time and Effort.

The consummation of huge mergers such as are now under way in the oil industry requires considerable time and effort. For instance, it required more than a year for the directors of the Vacuum Oil company and the Standard Oil Company of New York to reach an agreement as to terms after they had decided that a consolidation would be to the advantage of both companies. More than a year and a half additional was required in litigation with the federal government on the legality of the merger and other details necessary for its completion.

Directors of the Sinclair company and the Prairie companies only last week formally approved merger terms after carrying on negotiations, off and on, for almost three years. Negotiations for the merger of the Standard Oil companies of New Jersey and California, which were resumed last August after having been previously dropped due to the department of justice withholding its approval, are far from completion in that no terms for a consolidation have been agreed to as yet.

COMMITTEE TO AID NEW YORK REALTY FORMED

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 17.—An independent committee to protect the interest of investors holding $800,000,000 of Greater New York real estate bonds, of which more than $100,000,000 have been defaulted, has just been organized here, according to an announcement made today by George E. Roosevelt, of Roosevelt & Son, whose name heads the list of the committee's members.

The committee, to be known as the Greater New York real estate bondholders' committee, also will do all in its power to assist in bringing about improvement in real estate and building conditions. Its organization is in line with suggestions made by leading financiers and real estate representatives at a conference called by President Hoover some time ago at the White House.

Broad St. Investing Co. Shows $16.44 Per Share

Broad Street Investing company, as of Dec. 31, reports a net asset value of $1,895,296 after deductions for the year and after adjustment to market value of all securities owned. This figure is equal to a net asset value of $16.44 per share for the 115,255 shares outstanding, compared with a $23.60 per share for the 90,447 shares outstanding on Dec. 31, 1930. MARKET ACTION CHASES GLOOM IN WHEAT PIT

Heavily Oversold Condition Seen.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Striking developments in the wheat market on Saturday brought unexpected activity and a change from pessimism to optimism among a large part of the trade yesterday. Should it continue, it was said, the wheat market is in for a good upturn in prices, possibly to around the level made last October when May wheat in Chicago sold at 73c.

It was said that the wheat market was heavily oversold because of the absence of export business and to impressions that the logical price movement was downward.

There were many elements in the trade at the last favoring higher prices. It is believed by politicians and speculators that passage of the reconstruction act furnishing a loan of $2,000,000,000 for bringing about a return to prosperity will eventually result in greatly increased speculative buying of all commodities, and a good advance in prices.

Crop Prospects Doubtful.

Crop prospects in North America are none too good. Wheat is said to be jointed in the southern part of the belt, particularly in the Ohio river valley, and should there be a sharp decline in temperatures to a level that would materially damage the wheat crop, it would be easy to advance prices.

Argentina and Australia are dominating world's wheat prices at present by their heavy sales and shipments regardless of price, and are said to be hedging their holdings by sales of American futures in foreign markets. It would be no surprise to see foreign buyers come into the market for cash and futures on a larger scale.

Cash wheat premiums, while easing in a few positions, remained firm with a fair milling demand in the southwest and northwest, but export business was disappointingly small.

Feature of Market.

A feature that seldom appears in the speculative markets was that practically the high and the low prices for the week on all grain futures were made on Saturday, with net gains on wheat of 1¼@2¾c; corn, 1½@1⅞c; oats, ⅜@½c, and rye, ½@2c, as compared with the previous week's close.

March wheat in Chicago closed at 57¼c; May, 59⅛@59⅜c; July, 57⅞@58c, and September, 59⅜@59½c. Prices for the week follow:

	March.	May.	July.

Forty Cent Corn a Factor.

Speculators regard 40-cent corn as pivotal, being disposed to sell it at that level or higher and buy it on breaks to around 39c. Farmers take advantage of advances of this character to sell more freely with Illinois and Indiana interests disposing of the greatest quantities.

Farm consumption has been kept down by mild weather and traders make the point that there will be a big saving of corn and a liberal carryover at the end of the season.

Primary movement is below the average for this season. Consumption of corn in the manufacture of alcohol in 1917 as given by the statement presented by Secretary of Agriculture Hyde to congress was about 34,000,000 bu with large quantities of rye and barley also consumed. The point brought out to show that farmers would be benefited by permitting the manufacture of 4 per cent beer.

March corn closed at 40c, May 41⅞@42c, July 43¼@43⅜c and September 44@44⅛c. Prices for the week follow:

	March.	May.	Jhly.
Monday	38¼-39¼	39¾-40⅝	41¼-42¼
Tuesday	38⅜-38⅝	40 -40½	41½-42

1930	88⅝-93¼	92½-96⅜	94 -97⅜
Season	34⅝-51⅛	36⅝-53¼	38½-55

Oats Bought on Breaks.

All the sharp declines in prices of oats bring buyers both of cash and futures, but with all trading was only slightly increased during the week, mostly on Saturday when there was an advance of ⅞@1⅛c in futures, May taking the lead. Cash interests furnished a large part of the buying support on weak spots, while speculators were the principal sellers on bulges. The close was at 26½c for May and 25⅞c for July. Prices for the week follow:

	May.	July.
Monday	25⅝@26¼	25¼@25⅜
Tuesday	25⅜@26	25⅜@25⅝
Wednesday	25⅜@25⅞	25¼@25⅜
Thursday	25⅝@26¼	25⅛@25⅝
Friday	25⅝@26	24⅞@25⅛
Saturday	25½@26⅝	25 @25⅞
For week	25⅜@26⅝	24⅞@25⅞
Previous week	25⅛@26⅝	25¼@26¼
1931	33½@35	32½@34
1930	47⅛@49¼	46⅛@48
Season	22⅝@31¼	22⅝@31½
1930-31	31 @51⅛	30½@35⅛

Rye operations were on a smaller scale in both cash and futures. Traders were influenced by action of other grains and the market met good support on breakes. Cash rye continues hard to buy and stocks are decreasing. May closed Saturday at 47⅞@47¾c, July 48⅝c and September 48¾c.

Bankers' Acceptance Cut Seen as Brake on Deflation

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 17.—The attempt to check the deflation by means of central bank operations in the money market, which had to be abandoned by the federal reserve authorities last October in the face of an unprecedented European raid upon this country's gold reserves and a wave of extensive domestic hoarding, is to be resumed.

This was the inference drawn by the banking community from the action of the Federal Reserve bank of New York last Tuesday when, following the conference of governors of the Federal Reserve banks in Washington, it reduced the rate at which it will buy bankers' acceptances to levels beneath those prevailing in the open market.

How Step is Construed.

Coinciding with the final stages of the congressional consideration of the Reconstruction Finance corporation bill, the step taken by the Federal Reserve bank was construed in this market as part of a broad anti-deflation campaign. European observers, characteristically, pounced upon the episode as evidence that the United States was about to embark upon a policy of inflation.

On this premise, large scale withdrawals of European dollar balances were resumed at the close of the week when foreign exchanges moved sharply against the dollar and the Bank of France and the National Bank of Belgium called home some $16,000,000 of gold they had previously held here under earmark.

As yet the banking community has only a vague surmise as to how the newest phase of federal reserve policy will be shaped. The only tangible evidence from which its inferences can be drawn is the somewhat meagre fact that the reserve bank has reduced its bill-buying rate.

This action, however, contains more significance than appears on the surface. On only three occasions in the history of the reserve have the control banking authorities deliberately cut under the open market and precipitated reductions of open market quotations. Ordinarily the open market moves first and the reserve adjusts its buying rate accordingly.

Forcing Down of Rates.

The three instances in which the reserve took the initiative in forcing down bill rates were: First, in 1927 when an aggressive easy money policy was undertaken as a means of forcing an outflow of gold from this market to Europe; second, in the latter part of April and the beginning of May, 1931, when the reserve forced bill rates down to seven-eighths of 1 per cent as a prelude to the establishment of a 1½ per cent rediscount rate, the policy being designed to achieve the double purpose of arresting an unwelcome movement of gold from Europe to this market and of stimulating a revival of the bond market; third, last Tuesday.

In considering the significance of this latest use of federal reserve bill market operations the market has been guided by two known circumstances: The prospect of heavy government financing arising out of the reconstruction finance corporation and the necessity of bridging the deficit in government revenues, and the acknowledged conviction of the reserve authorities that deflation has gone too far and must be checked.

HOUSEHOLD FIN. REPORTS SMALL GAIN IN 1931 NET

The Household Finance corporation reports a net income for 1931 of $4,154,608 after all charges, including federal taxes, in comparison with a net income of $4,066,156 in 1930.

The 1931 net is equivalent to 5.52 times the current $4.20 annual dividend requirements on the 179,025 average number of participating preference shares outstanding during the year as compared with 5.37 times in 1930. During December 29,207 additional shares of preference stock were sold, the proceeds being used to reduce current liabilities. Net income was 4.73 times the requirements for the total of 209,207 preference shares.

Allowing for maximum participating dividends of $5 per share on the average preference shares outstanding, net income in 1930 was equivalent to $5.77 a share on the 564,926 average number of common shares outstanding, which compares with $6.03 in 1930. During December 33,577 additional shares of common stock were sold, the proceeds further reducing current liabilities. On the 623,577 common shares outstanding Dec. 31, net income, after allowing for maximum participation on the average number of shares outstanding Dec. 31, was equivalent to $4.99 a share.

Finance Committee of U. S. Steel Meets Tomorrow

United States Steel's finance committee's weekly meeting tomorrow is awaited with great interest. Directors meet for dividend action the following Tuesday, Jan. 26. It is believed the question as to what further dividend should be declared on the common stock from the corporation's surplus will be decided at this finance committee meeting. The board will have in hand the complete report of earnings for both the last quarter of 1930 and for the full year.

CURB MARKET MAKES PROGRESS DESPITE ONLY FAIR TRADING

New York, Jan. 17.—(AP)—The curb market made progress last week, although trading in the main was only moderately active.

Brokers said some of the improved demand came from buyers who were replacing holdings that had been sold well above current prices. Also, the market met considerable speculative support apparently on the theory that as long as the balance of news was favorable the line of least resistance would be upward. Profit taking had to be reckoned with to some extent, but such selling was absorbed with little difficulty.

Utilities were active at slowly rising prices. Large gains appeared in numerous preferred shares which had been severely depressed by necessitous liquidation. Continental Gas and Electric, Middle West Utilities, Cleveland Electric, and Cities Service were among the preference stocks showing the best recuperative power. Electric Bond and Share common pushed above 13, making up all the ground it had lost in the early January decline. United Light A was also favored.

Aluminum of America rallied on the news of an important new contract for its product. Other volatile specialties developed noticeable strength toward the end of the week, Deere's rise on Friday being a prominent feature.

U. S. Treasury Will Sell $50,000,000 93 Day Bills

Washington, D. C., Jan. 17.—(AP)—Secretary Mellon announced tonight the treasury would sell $50,000,000 in 93 day treasury bills to the highest bidder on Jan. 31. The bills will be dated Jan. 25, and will be redeemed at their face value on April 27. The proceeds of the sale will be used to retire an equal amount of bills which mature on Jan. 25.

American Steel Foundries.

I would like your opinion regarding American Steel Foundries stock as an investment. I thank you for all past favors. J. S. M.

American Steel Foundries was incorporated in 1902. It is an important manufacturer of specialties for railway cars and locomotives. It also makes steel castings. It controls Griffin Wheel company, manufacturer of chilled car wheels for railroads, street railways, and machinery.

Reflecting substantially reduced equipment buying by carriers, net loss for the first nine months of 1931 was $156,000, against net income of $2,720,000, or $2.40 per common share, for the corresponding 1930 period. Loss in the third quarter of 1931 alone was $206,000.

For 1930 net income was $2,801,000, or $2.37 per common share. This was about 45 per cent less than net income of $5,121,000, or $4.70 per common share, for 1929. Net for 1928 was $3,256,000 and for 1927, $4,076,000.

The large proportion of business obtained from replacements and lines other than railroads have stabilized earnings. Operations in 1930 averaged 42 per cent of capacity for the year, but only 24 per cent in the final quarter. In the first quarter of 1931 operations averaged about 27 per cent.

At the close of 1930 current assets were $16,303,000 and current liabilities were $2,606,000. Cash and government securities alone were $10,340,000. There were outstanding 63,350 shares of 7 per cent cumulative preferred [par $100] and 993,020 shares of no par common. The company had no funded debt. President Scott was quoted as stating on Nov. 11, 1931, that current assets were more than ten times current liabilities. On Dec. 31, 1930, current ratio was 6.2 to 1, against 4.8 to 1 the year before. Working capital was $13,696,000, against $14,600,000 on Dec. 31, 1929.

No dividend has been paid on the common since Sept. 30, 1931. Dividends are being paid on the preferred.

The preferred deserves a fairly good rating.

Ex Dividend.

Please explain the difference in the stock quotation terms "ex dividend" and "pays extra dividend." What is done with an extra dividend that is not paid? E. O. S.

Liggett & Myers.

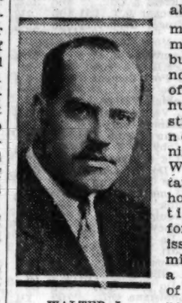
RAYMOND PARK APARTMENTS TO BE REFINANCED

Committee Tells of Plans.

BY AL CHASE.

Plan of reorganization of the Raymon Park apartment property, probably. Evanston's most imposing multiple unit flat building, at the northeast corner of Hinman avenue and Church street, was announced last night by T. E. Williams, secretary of the bondholders' protective committee for Holzer, Inc., issues. The committee states that a five year loan of $180,000 at 6 per cent is practically assured and that with this sum it is believed the re-organization as outlined can be carried through to a successful completion.



WALTER J. McGUIRE.

The committee reports having accomplished much in the way of negotiations with holders of mechanics' liens, equity owners, etc., and state that as a result has obtained options from lien claimants to compromise claims totaling $227,963 [all of which come in ahead of the first mortgage bonds] for a sum not to exceed $175,000 in cash. In addition the committee announces that it has secured the consent of the equity owners to accept a junior position which does away with the fifteen months' redemption period, thus speeding up the reorganization.

Will Form Realty Trust.

The committee proposes to organize the Raymond Park Realty Trust, which will own and operate the property. Title will be held by the Chicago Title and Trust company, as trustee, subject to the direction of three trust managers.

When the committee obtains title to the property at the foreclosure sale, it will be conveyed, together with the equity of redemption of the present owner and the mechanics' lien options, to the new trustee as part of the trust properties under the agreement and declaration of trust.

The $180,000 loan, which the committee states seems assured, will have prepayments of $5,000 annually for four years, which will permit the payment of lien claims at the compromise price and defray the major portion of the expenses involved.

Will Receive 3% Certificates.

Holders of bonds, a majority of which already have been deposited with the bondholders' committee, will receive a cumulative preferred certificate of beneficial interest, bearing an annual 3 per cent preferred distribution rate, which the committee believes will be earned by the property without interfering with carrying out of necessary improvements, etc.

The issuance of common beneficial interest certificates also is authorized for delivery to the owners of the equity, subject to the preferred certificates. All bonds must be deposited by Jan. 25.

The seven story Raymond Park apartments were erected in 1928. The building is a fireproof, half timbered old English style structure, opposite Raymond park and across from the Presbyterian church. It was financed by a $685,000, 6½ per cent Holzer, Inc. bond issue, which has not been reduced and which defaulted in both serial payment and interest on Oct. 15, 1930.

The building was appraised at the time of the bond issue at $980,000 and the land at $165,000, or a total of $1,145,000. It was then estimated that the net annual income would be $102,800, which has since been proven to have been too optimistic.

Imposing List of Tenants.

The building contains twenty-eight apartments ranging in size from six rooms and three baths up to eight rooms and five baths. Some of the living rooms are 15x26 and bed rooms 15x17. There is a twenty-nine car garage. The tenants make an imposing list. Among them are: H. A. Scrandrett, Thomas C. Neal, Dr. C. J. Swan, Earl R. Green, Fred Huetmann and Dr. Thomas C. Galloway.

The mortgagor is the Hinman-Grove Building corporation, of which Leonard W. Johnson is president and Herbert A. Durr is secretary-treasurer.

The bondholders' protective committee is headed by Holman D. Pettibone. The other members are: Walter J. McGuire, S. J. Campbell, Herman G. Amling and Barnet L. Rosset.

NEW YORK BOND MART SLOWS UP; TRADE IS DULL

Gains Made Early in Week Are Held.

New York, Jan. 17.—(AP)—After a week of steadily rising prices in corporate securities, with the rails leading the forward movement, the bond market took a breathing spell at the weekend and gave up a small portion of its previous gains.

The slackening on Friday and Saturday, however, was accompanied by the withdrawal of offerings, with the result that trading became extremely dull and price changes were of such minor character that little headway was made in either direction.

Lead List Upward.

United States government obligations, which had been falling precipitately in the face of buoyancy in other sections of the list, eventually performed a turn-about-face and led the list upward until the latter part of the week when they again lost their vigor and declined.

The strength in railway liens was attributed to the general belief among those close to transportation officials that a peaceable settlement would be reached at the wage reduction conference in Chicago between executives and union leaders. Some of the lower priced mortgages were up more than 25 points above their December lows, and when the market eased they gave up but a small part of their advances.

The industrials and utilities followed the rails in the upward movement, but in a more orderly manner. Communication issues, together with those of oil and gas and electric corporations, gained moderately.

Interest in Foreign Issues.

Much interest was shown in the foreign list, heaviest trading taking place in the German government 7s and 5½s. Buying of these loans was reported in some quarters to have come principally from Berlin, although American traders are known to have participated to a certain extent.

Price Upturn Held Utility Financing Aid

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 17.—The steady advance in public utility securities, especially bonds and preferred stocks, will result undoubtedly in an early resumption of refunding and new financing offerings by investment bankers throughout the country. Some minor issues have been announced for early offering, and it is indicated that large scale issues are being studied by bankers for offering within two or three weeks and later.

The industry has been deprived of financing opportunities for several months, particularly since the abrupt decline in utility bonds which started in September last year. In a few instances, this drying up of the bond market has been embarrassing, and certain reported difficulties have been traced to this condition.

Carry Over Loans.

From the standpoint of stronger public utility companies and systems, on the other hand, there has been little perturbation on account of new capital and refunding requirements, in view of the readiness of banking institutions to carry over their loans pending restoration of normal marketing conditions. The principal effect of the closed market for capital has been to retard and contract the programs for new expenditures by public utility companies.

The policy of retrenchment thus enforced could not have occurred at a more convenient time, according to leaders in the industry, in view of the fact that major construction, which comprises generating stations and long distance transmission and natural gas pipe lines, has throughout the country progressed to a stage well beyond the requirements for service by consumers of electricity and gas.

The principal needs for new funds by the utilities this year, therefore, will be confined principally to expansion of distribution systems and building of additional substations to supply the continuing increases in the consumption of gas and electricity in homes.

Comparison of Financing.

Since the week ended Dec. 4 there has been no public financing by gas and electric companies on this market. The total for December was only $9,568,000 in long term bonds, representing new capital, and $11,962,000 in short term notes, representing refunding operations, while issues of new stock totaled $32,367,900. The total of $53,397,900 compares with utility financing aggregating $116,777,810 in December, 1930, and $150,778,771 in the 1929 month.

For the whole of 1931, the public utilities floated $1,538,887,061 of new securities, of which $590,250,500 represented refunding operations, comparing with $2,566,216,574 in 1930, with $201,075,722 issued for refunding purposes, and with $2,442,768,535 in 1929, when $510,796,307 represented refunding.

In 1932 much refunding will have to be undertaken by the industry, due to important short term maturities, but requirements for new capital will be large as well.

PEOPLES GAS NET FOR 1931 IS $365,510 OVER INCOME OF 1930

An increase in net income for the twelve months ended Dec. 31, 1931, over the previous year was reported yesterday by the Peoples Gas, Light and Coke company despite a decrease in gross operating revenue. Net income for the 1931 period was $7,561,582 in comparison with $7,197,072 for 1930—a gain of $364,510. Gross operating revenue for 1931 was $36,898,769, in comparison with $39,880,628, a decrease of $2,981,859.

For the three months ended Dec. 31, 1931, the company reported net income of $2,823,353 and gross operating revenue of $9,356,933, in comparison with $2,269,659 net and $9,924,912 gross in 1930.

As of Dec. 31, 1931, there were 690,000 shares of capital stock of $100 par value outstanding in comparison with 625,400 shares on Dec. 31, 1930.

RECENT MARKET ADVANCES SET NEW RECORDS

Return of Common Sense Is Seen.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 17.—The year is very young, yet it has already established some interesting "market records." For one thing, the present month's recovery in stock market averages is more than double the advance of any January since the war.

The recovery in bonds, which in some ways is more important, makes very similar comparison. Except for the first month of 1921—which followed, it will be recalled, the most violent marking down of investment bonds ever witnessed in our time until 1931—the 7¼ per cent advance of the "domestic averages" from January's lowest and their rise of 15⅝ per cent since the middle of December hold the post-war record.

We shall have downward reactions again, doubtless severe—just as the inflated stock market of 1929 resumed its upward course, even after it had caught a glimpse of the calities through the sudden break of December, 1928, and March, 1929. Nevertheless, those incidental reversals of the trend three years ago turned out to have rung the signal.

Coöperation in Relief.

It would be perfectly reasonable to ascribe the market's recent action to sudden comprehension of the preceding and very absurd perversion of values which circumstances, fright and superstition had occasioned. This could not go on forever; at some time plain common sense would get a hearing. But it has also been ascribed to accumulating evidence that government and the financial organism were about to coöperate in far reaching and carefully considered measures of relief and that, even in congress, administration party and opposition party would unite in supporting them. Six months ago, financial misgiving was primarily created by fear that measures of this kind either would be taken too late, or would be blocked politically, or would go by default.

It is quite in keeping with its fluctuating mentality of the last few years that Wall street should now characterize these expedients of relief as an "inflation policy," and should hail them with enthusiasm on that ground. It was not an entirely new experience that nervous conservatives should begin to warn the country that "inflation" would be its ruin. There is something of unconscious humor in such a viewpoint.

Large scale extension of credit facilities, to meet a supremely critical emergency, is not commonly called "inflation." If it were, then the bold expansion of bank credit in the panic hour of 1929 or 1907 or 1893 will have to be so described. The loans of the central banks to the Reichsbank and the Bank of England, in their crisis of 1931 would similarly have to bear the stigma; so would the well remembered and immediately effective credit operations in the "war panic" of 1914.

Program Raises Problems.

This certainly does not mean that the utmost restraint, judgment and cautious supervision should not be ex-

SLIGHT INCREASE IS REPORTED IN STEEL INDUSTRY

Foreign Copper Demand Shows Recession.

New York, Jan. 17.—(AP)—Slight increases in steel activity have been less than recent conservative trade predictions and the slowness is attributed partly to a disposition of automobile manufacturers to await public response to new models before anticipating requirements.

For the week steel ingot production was estimated to have increased a point to about 25 per cent of capacity. Hopes for future expansion are said to be based on anticipated improvement in rail buying. Large contracts for tin plate from can companies were pending, but structural steel awards were limited. Prices were about unchanged. Pig iron was quiet, with slight easiness in southern prices, but elsewhere markets were steady.

Copper Demand Ebbs.

Export demand for copper, which had improved late in the previous week, tapered off following declines in London and the market became dull. Domestic buyers also restricted purchases, as recent heavier buying was said to have supplied needs pending an increase on specifications from ultimate consumers. Producers and custom smelters held steady at 7½ cents for electrolytic delivered in the Connecticut valley.

Tin was firmer, reflecting partly advances in London and lessening pressure of domestic resale offerings below an import parity. Reports of pending large tin plate orders were not accompanied by improved demand from manufacturers, although consumers generally bought moderate quantities of prompt metal.

Seasonal Improvement.

Demand for lead expanded to the best proportions for several months with buying for prompt and February shipments in excess of daily production. Seasonal improvement in the battery trade was reported. Price levels were unchanged.

Buying of moderate quantities of zinc by large consumers in prompt positions developed at lower quotations, but demand for more distant delivery was restricted with somewhat increased selling pressure reported. Antimony was quiet and steady after recent purchases absorbed the more pressing offerings.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 17.—Consumption of refined sugar in the United States last year amounted to 5,475,204 tons the Weekly Statistical Sugar Trade Journal, published by Willett & Gray, estimates. That compares with 5,599,377 tons consumed in 1930 and with 5,810,980 tons consumed in the record year 1929. The decrease of 124,173 tons last year compared with 1930 was equivalent to 2.218 per cent. Per capita consumption of sugar in 1931 was 98.47 pounds, compared with 99.37 pounds the previous year and 108.13 pounds two years ago.

The sugar consumed in the United States consisted of 3,405,542 tons of domestic sugar, 2,036,217 tons of Cuban sugar on which a preferential tariff was paid, and 33,445 tons of foreign sugar on which full duty was assessed.

Ohio Valley Reports Abnormal Wheat Growth

Crop Expert B. W. Snow of Bartlett Frazier company reports that flowers are blooming in Washington, and pastures and meadows in Ohio and Indiana are green. Winter wheat in Indiana and Ohio has had a good growth and in Maryland is very rank. Reports of wheat jointing at points in the Ohio valley and in Virginia are all suggestive of the abnormal character of the winter," says Mr. Snow. "With wheat growing during the midwinter period the plant is naturally soft and sappy and in position to suffer seriously with any experience of ordinary winter weather hereafter. The abnormal character of the season and the consequent tender condition of the plant furnishes ample ground for serious apprehension."

Only half of army of men making money in this work had no prior sales experience. But you must have courage, willingness to work, be neat, polite. Men with home connection preferred.

Conquer any "inferiority complex." Espouse fear and confusion of job hunting! Find one of the few jobs that "right here" See, meet, listen to men who found new freedom with this great, growing organization. Start building this work on your own cars, homes, bank accounts. What would a secure, growing income mean to you and your family? Come—bring wife or friends! Listen to the remarkable specialty sales lecture and money making revelation! If you suit us and you like our offer you can be on earning basis this week! This leading specialty backed by tidal wave of popular approval. Wholly new, revolutionary, scientific principle! You get a wonderful contact men have. No favoritism or layoffs, no bad seasons—opportunities extended into evening, if you like. Successful men train you.

Be on hand little before 8 TOMORROW, Tuesday evening—for good seat. Suite 512 Capitol Bldg., corner State and Randolph-sts., Chicago. Come no matter what the weather! You can determine if you wish to apply your energy on this permanent business of your own!

Why pay more than Household's low rate?

The nationally known Household Loan Plan offers cash loans of $50 to $300 to husbands and wives at reasonable rates.

Household's rate on all loans above $100 is almost one-third lower than the maximum permitted by the small loan law. We voluntarily established this low rate in 1928 and our customers have benefited ever since. This rate remains the same until the loan is paid off. It does not increase as the unpaid balance decreases.

FOR EXAMPLE:
The average monthly cost of a $200 loan repaid in 20 equal monthly payments is $2.63. This is the lowest cost in Chicago.

Get the Cost in DOLLARS Before You Borrow.

Commonwealth Customers Pay LESS for LOANS

$2.93 is the average Monthly Cost of a $225 loan under COMMONWEALTH'S Reduced Rate. This allows 25 months for repayment. There is no lower cost than this in Chicago.

THE personal property which nearly every family owns and the signature of husband and wife enable one to secure any amount up to $300 quickly and easily.

THERE ARE NO fees or deductions. You may take 25 months or pay all or part sooner. Interest at the Reduced Rate is charged only while you keep the money.

Also Salary and Auto Loans.
